Israelis Unyielding Over Gaza

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli cabinet has refused again to promise to relinquish the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, saying Israel will negotiate the status of the territories five years after a peace agreement.

The cabinet, after a month-long debate, adopted a policy statement Sunday which said that after five years of the limited self-rule Israel has promised the 1.1 million Palestinians in the two territories, "the nature of relations" between Israel, Jordan and the two territories "will be considered and agreed upon at the suggestion of any of the parties."

Reuters news agency quoted an Egyptian official as saying that Egypt regrets that Israel did not respond positively to questions on the future of the West Bank and Gaza Strip. "We regret the intransigence of (Israel Prime Minister Menachem) Begin," the official told Reuters.

And the semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram says the Israeli cabinet's refusal to promise to give up the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip "represents a rejection of the chances for peace."

The Egyptian foreign ministry said there would be no immediate government comment. But President Anwar Sadat has never modified his demand that Israel withdraw unconditionally from all the Arab territories it occupied in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

A spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) rejected the Israeli statement, saying the Palestinians will "continue the struggle to liberate our home-

TOURIST ALERTS STARTING

Each day a list of 10 tourists visiting B.C., whose families need to get in touch with them because of an emergency such as serious illness or death, will be published in newspapers and broadcast on radio stations.

Those on the list should contact the nearest RCMP detachment.

An RCMP spokesman said 621 requests were received in 1977 and 143 tourists were successfully contacted through the Tourist Alert program.

Sky Spies Catch 112

RCMP spy in-the-sky aircraft patrolling the Trans-Canada Highway between the Malahat and Nanaimo caught 112 speeders and issued warnings to seven other drivers over the weekend.

Sgt. Murray Brown, head of the Victoria subdivision traffic section, said today the warnings were issued Friday along with 73 speeding tickets.

Another 39 tickets were handed out on Saturday.

Brown said a total of 1,200 motorists were checked during the crackdown.

Plain Talk For Teens

Questions relating to sex, sexuality and human relations are major concerns among teen-agers and young adults and many do not know where to turn for the answers.

Beginning Tuesday, a new column in the Victoria Times Family Section will offer young readers a chance to have their questions on these matters answered in a professional, candid and unbiased manner.

Questions will be answered by a panel of experts: Dr. Marion Powell, medical doctor; Dr. Graham Cotter, clergyman; Dr. Blair Shaw, psychologist; and Bruce Vichert, social worker.

Dr. Powell, formerly medical officer of health for Scarborough, Ont., currently heads the population unit at the University of Toronto's School of Hygiene. She is married with three children and has for many years been an advocate for availability of family planning information.

She will be prepared to answer questions relating to the medical and physical aspects of sex.

Dr. Cotter for the past 15 years has directed marriage preparation courses for the Anglican Diocese of Toronto. Married with four children, Dr. Cotter has also directly counselled married couples facing problems within their marriages. Dr. Cotter will answer questions relating to the morality of sex and meaning and fulfilment of love. His answers will reflect his personal views and experience.

Dr. Shaw, married with three children, heads the psychology department at Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto and is a consultant to government and business. In the past Dr. Shaw has counselled and provided psychotherapy for people of all ages facing problems, including those related to sex and sexuality. From his experience, Dr. Shaw has observed that teen-agers and young adults are most frequently concerned to learn if their behavior and feelings are "normal." He will welcome questions relating to the psychological aspects of human relationships.

Vichert, a senior mental health worker with a Vancouver social agency, has broad counselling experience with teen-agers and young adults regarding family and personal relationships.

"The traditional male and female roles are becoming indefinite," says Vichert. "I think many people are unsure about what it means to be masculine or feminine."

Vichert will answer questions about relationships between young people and their parents and how they can cope with feelings of isolation or of not feeling liked.

Questions relating to sex and sexuality may be sent to Youth Clinic, c/o Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas Street, Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4. Telephone enquiries will not be accepted.

Questions of most general interest will be forwarded to the appropriate panel member and questions and answers will appear in the Youth Clinic column each Tuesday and Friday in the Victoria Times' Family Section.

SIX-MONTH DELAY

OPEC Postpones Hike in Oil Price

GINGERLY, NOW! Ginger Rogers and Premier Bennett dance cheek-to-cheek during a break on their activities at a North Vancouver hotel Saturday night. Miss Rogers was the featured performer in the hotel's lounge show, while the premier had top billing at a Socred party mini-convention.

GENEVA (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) agreed today to freeze oil prices for another six months, the 13-member cartel's secretary-general, Ali Jaidah, announced.

But Jaidah said the base price of crude oil will be increased next Jan. 1.

He said a special committee headed by Kuwait's oil minister, Ali Khalifa as-Sabah, will examine further how OPEC's members can protect themselves from the erosion of their purchasing power owing to the decline of the United States dollar.

The committee will make recommendations to the organizations next semi-annual price meeting, to be held in Abu Dhabi on Dec. 16, he said.

The decision to keep the base price at $12.70 for a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil was a victory for Saudi Arabia and Iran, OPEC's two largest OPEC producers.

But the decision to maintain the base price at the level set a year ago came as no surprise. Libyan Oil Minister Izz ad-Din al-Mabruk, whose government is one of the cartel's price hawks, told reporters at the start of the meeting Saturday he did not expect any change before the end of the year.

Iraq, Algeria and others urged an increase in the oil price because of inflation and the decline in value of the U.S. dollar, the currency used in the international oil trade. A study prepared by the OPEC secretariat said these two factors had cut the real price of a $12.70 barrel of oil to $7.

But Saudi Arabia and its supporters argued that an increase would not stick because of the current world oil surplus, swelled by production from Mexico, the North Sea and Alaska, and the summer reduction in consumption in the industrialized countries of the Northern Hemisphere.

Zaire Navy Gets Peking Advisers

KINSHASA (Reuter) — China has sent military instructors to help train Zaire's navy, diplomatic sources said Sunday.

They arrived Saturday, one week before a military delegation is due for talks with government officials, prompting speculation that Peking might send other aid to help Zaire rebuild its armed forces following the invasion last month of Shaba province by Angolan-based rebels.

Diplomatic sources said the naval instructors are the second Chinese group to come to help train Zaire's tiny navy. They said another team was here for several months in 1976.

Zaire's navy is composed of one patrol boat and about 30 river craft and has 800 men.

The instructors arrived as Zairean intelligence services reported up to 1,000 rebels massing in Angola, immediately south of the Shaba border.

The Congolese National Liberation Front (FLNC) Sunday denied that rebels were massing behind the Angolan frontier and said they had never left Zaire.

A statement issued by the organization, which backs rebels who invaded Zaire's Shaba province in May, also said the rebels would strike again at the government of President Mobutu Sese Seko, but gave no further details.

At present, Shaba is being defended by the Zairean army, a token force of 700 Belgian paratroops who are due to leave this week, and an inter-African force comprising about 1,600 Moroccans and 400 other troops from Senegal, Gabon, Ivory Coast and Togo.

Among other weekend developments was the accusation Saturday by Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba that the CIA had been conducting covert operations inside Angola,

QUAKE FAULT SHIFTS FASTER

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) — The San Andreas fault, which produced the disastrous San Francisco earthquake of 1906, is shifting at a faster pace than expected, scientists at the Goddard Space Flight Centre say.

The ground shifts, measured by laser beams and a satellite in earth orbit, have reached about three inches a year and are "about 50 per cent larger than we would have guessed," said David Smith, a Goddard geophysicist.

Smith said there is no indication that San Francisco may be in for a major earthquake soon, but he said the calculations suggest the next earthquake may be larger and might occur sooner than expected.

Scientists have predicted a second major earthquake would hit the area between now and the year 2025.

CanCel Fire Damage $1M

CASTLEGAR (CP) — A fire that hit the Canadian Cellulose Co. Ltd. sawmill in this southeastern British Columbia community Saturday caused more than $1 million damage, mill manager Chuck Denning said Sunday.

Cause of the fire was not known, but insurance company investigators and officials of the provincial fire marshal's office were expected to arrive Sunday.

The mill was not operating when fire broke out about 2 p.m. in part of a two-acre, $6 million addition. The 25 maintenance workers on duty at the time were not injured.

Denning said the blaze may have been caused by a combustion-type explosion.

Two fire units from Castlegar, about five kilometres east of the mill area, and a large ladder truck from Trail, 24 kilometres to the southeast, were dispatched and firefighters had the blaze out within about 2½ hours.

The addition was to be partially put into production today.

NEWS BRIEFS

Pilots Slate Strike

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Air Canada pilots will go on strike June 26 to back demands to be allowed to continue to fly first-class when travelling between assignments, a union spokesman said today.

Greeks Rattled

SALONICA, Greece (AP) Several powerful earthquakes shook northern Greece today, sending 10 persons to hospitals with injuries or shock and damaging many buildings. An elderly man died of a heart attack.

Cranes Stolen

LONDON (AP) — Between Friday night and Sunday morning, a gang commandeered a seven-ton tow truck and a trailer equipped with a hoist, then used the hoist to lift seven more one-ton cranes onto the trailer and then drove off with the lot.

Packers Picket

14 Drown

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Fourteen persons drowned Sunday when a sailboat carrying nearly 100 persons to a wedding sank in the sacred Ganges River in Bihar during a melee between passengers and crew over fares.

Stamina may prove to be a deciding factor when the battered finalists in the World Cup of soccer in Argentina return to the fields Wednesday for their sixth games in 17 days. After Sunday's matches, it appears that the world champion will eventually be one of four teams — Italy, The Netherlands, Brazil or Argentina. Page 12.

Andy North belives that people will at last remember his name now that he has won the U.S. Open golf chamionship. North barely survived the final-round torture chamber Sunday, needing a one-putt bogey on the last hole to salvage a one-stroke victory. Page 12.

Also making golf news Sunday was Nancy Lopez, who won her fifth straight Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament to set a pro golf record for money won by a rookie. Page 15.

Nanaimo Timbermen didn't do the expected Sunday. They flubbed a chance to take over first place in the Western Lacrosse Association when they were bombed on their home floor by New Westminster Salmonbellies after downing the leading Victoria Shamrocks the previous night. Page 13.

Although their vaunted defence sprung some leaks, Victoria Budgets didn't squander a weekend opportunity. Budgets won three of four games against Woodinville of Seattle and grabbed first place in the Northwest Major Men's Fastball League. Page 12.

Brewery Talks Move To Victoria

Negotiations in the B.C. brewery industry strike-lockout shifted to Victoria today where union representatives began meetings with Labatt's.

The four other employee units involved in the dispute are studying an industry-wide offer by the breweries.

Ray Wainright, president of the union's Victoria local, said today initial talks here will focus on issues pertaining to the Victoria plant.

He said the Victoria Labatt's employees have not yet been given a copy of the breweries' offer. There will be no reaction to the offer from the other four employee groups until the workers in Victoria have studied it, he added.

Eric Harris, counsel for the Brewery Employers' Labor Relations Association, said the other talks will likely resume when there is a union response to the industry offer. No details of the management proposal were released.

Workers are on strike at Carling O'Keefe in Vancouver and have been locked out at Labatt's in Victoria and New Westminster, at Molson's in Vancouver and at Columbia Brewery in Creston.

John Langley, business agent for Local 300 of the Canadian Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers, said the lockouts aren't likely to end until the entire contract has been negotiated.

"We're prepared to go as long as it takes," Langley said. "It's going to take a while."

Meanwhile, hotel industry spokesmen are predicting that this week the final squeeze will come on the few remaining supplies in hotel beer parlors.

About 4,000 hotel industry employees have so far been laid off or had their hours drastically cut and that figure is expected to double when remaining beer supplies run out.

The strike-lockout affects 1,200 production employees and about 200 distribution workers.

TOM 'N HUCK SPARK SEARCH

A modern-day Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn from Victoria triggered a full-scale search but turned up unharmed after an inner tube sortie on Englishman River at Parksville on Sunday.

Darren Zuk and Darren Kohler, both 12, were reported missing at 7:45 p.m. by Darren's father, William Zuk of 1597 Midgard.

A ground search of the river's banks was mounted by Provincial Emergency Program volunteers and the sea in that area was searched by the Canadian Coast Guard.

Eliminate Air Fleet — Socred

Socred backbencher Jack Kempf of Omineca said today the government should get rid of its fleet of 10 aircraft and contract air service to private enterprise.

Kempf, contending such a system would be cheaper, said others in the Socred caucus support him.

Kempf said he would also like to see civil servants issued a directive prohibiting them from using government planes.

They should use commercial airlines when on official government business, he said.

There were reports on the weekend of cabinet ministers making regular use of government planes for jaunts to their home constituencies.

About 80 per cent of ministerial flights begin or end in ministers' home areas, and about 40 per cent are on weekends, a Vancouver newspaper said Saturday.

Gray Whale's Comeback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pacific gray whale, its numbers once severely depleted by hunting, is making a comeback so strong it represents a triumph for conservation, says the head of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Richard Frank said in a report Sunday on the status of the gray whale, "it vividly demonstrates that humankind can indeed protect endangered species and that, once protected, they can recover."

Frank, U.S. commissioner to the International Whaling Commission, also said a recent research program indicates more bowhead whales than expected — an estimated 2,264 — passed Point Barrow between April 15 and May 30.

Eskimos hunt the bowhead for food but their take has been restricted due to a commission ruling.

Frank said the Pacific gray whale, which has been on the endangered list since 1946, is now approaching its mid-19th century level of approximately 15,000 animals and as a result may be removed from the list.

NOAA said the gray whale population probably never exceeded 15,000 before hunters began exploiting the whales in 1846.

land and set up our independent state."

The Israeli cabinet's 14-to-5 vote for the policy statement was a victory for Begin, who threatened to resign rather than accept an outright commitment to give up the two territories taken from Jordan and Egypt.

The statement evaded a U.S. proposal that Israel agree to discuss the "permanent status" of the territories after the five-year period. The Carter administration hoped this would signify enough give by Begin to get the Egyptians back to the negotiating table. But Israeli officials said this implied a commitment to decide the sovereignty of the two territories, and Begin contended such an advance commitment would undermine Israel's position in the future negotiations.

A U.S. state department spokesman in Washington said the U.S. government "will be consulting with each side about how to proceed on the basis of the Israeli response and the views developed in our exchanges with Egypt."

Begin proposed in December that the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza elect a governing council and have limited autonomy for five years while Israeli military control of the areas continued. Sadat rejected the plan at the time, and the new cabinet statement attached two conditions to the proposal which presumably will also be unacceptable to the Arabs.

One specifies that autonomy will not be granted until "the establishment of peace," or apparently until Israel, Egypt and Jordan agree on a peace treaty.

The other is that more than two million Palestinians living in the Arab states will have no voice in the governing of the territories.

PSAC MEETING

One of the Public Service Alliance of Canada's top officials will be in Victoria tonight for a special membership meeting to discuss problems facing the federal employees' union.

Bill Doherty, Ottawa-based first vice-president, will address a meeting of the PSAC's Victoria area council at 8 p.m. at the Quadra Street Union Centre.

He is expected to deal with various sets of negotiations, contracting out, indexed pensions and the controversial Bill C-28.

Doherty will also discuss possible changes in the structure, administration and operation of the alliance.

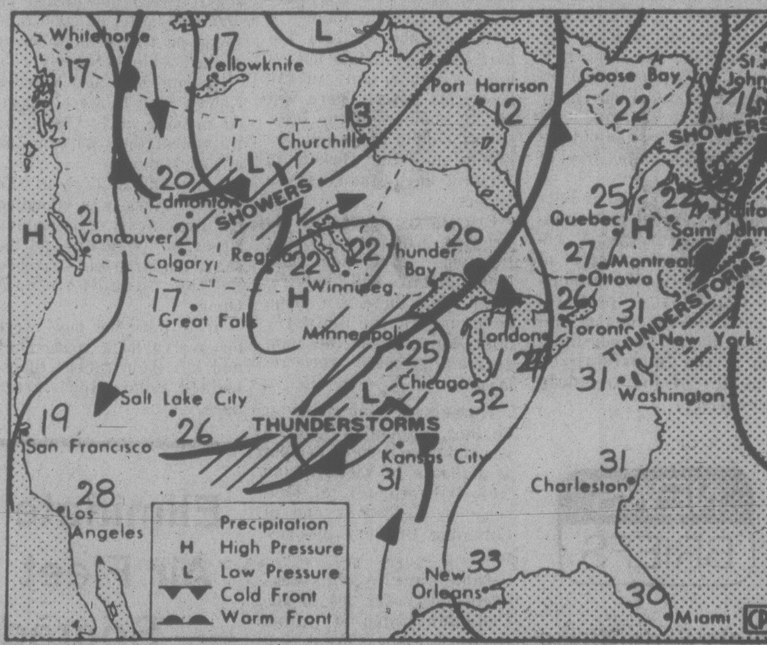

Map valid until midday Tuesday

A large ridge of high pressure in the eastern Pacific will maintain a dry circulation across most of B.C. A few weak weather systems will round the top of the ridge over the next few days bringing some cloud to extreme northern portions of the province. These systems will drop southward over Alberta resulting in a threat of showers along the continental divide. Most of the province will enjoy sunny skies and slowly rising temperatures as the week of the summer solstice gets underway.

aiding the efforts of pro-Western rebels to bring down the Angolan government.

Castro's remarks were made in a point-by-point rejection of President Carter's recent allegations that Cubans had trained Angola-based rebels who invaded and terrorized southern Zaire in mid-May.

"We know from very truthful sources that the CIA recently established contact with UNITA and promised UNITA support from the U.S. government," Castro said.

UNITA is one of two pro-Western factions that contended for the leadership of Angola when the country gained independence from Portugal in 1975. It was defeated by the Marxist forces of President Agostinho Neto, with the aid of Cuban troops backed by the Soviet Union.

Architects Rap 'Shed'

The Vancouver Island chapter of the Architectural Institute of B.C. has added its voice to that of the city of Victoria in complaining about a warehouse soon to be built by Transport Canada at the Inner Harbor's entrance.

The 30,000-square foot warehouse is to be part of the new Canadian Coast Guard base on the old Victoria Machinery Depot site on Dallas Road.

The Coast Guard says the building is an attractive steel-clad structure, but the city says it's an ugly tin shed.

In a letter to the Coast Guard on the weekend Terence Williams, chairman of the architectural institute's Island chapter, criticised the federal government for not meeting local requirements.

He wrote that "it is with a great deal of regret and considerable misgiving that we (hear) of the department's insistence in proceeding with a warehouse design for the Canadian Coast Guard that does not meet approval of the city of Victoria's planning department or the city's advisory planning council."

Williams pointed out that the city had approved the orginal plans submitted by Transport Canada.

Night Out Was a Tragedy

POMONA, Kan. (AP) — It was to be a night out on Lake Pomona — for celebrating anniversaries and enjoying a revival of the 1930s musical Dames at Sea. But death lay waiting for at least 14 of the 60 people aboard the sternwheeler showboat Whippoorwill as it glided into a collision course with a tornado.

A 15th person, nine-year-old Melissa Wright, was missing and presumed dead.

"By the time we noticed it coming, we had less than two minutes,'' said Bruce Rogers, owner of the boat. "I told the pilot to head for the south shore as quickly as possible. I went below and told the engineer to go full speed ahead.''

The 65-foot-long flat-bottom Whippoorwill had pulled away from the dock under clear skies shortly before 7 p.m. Saturday.

The tornado formed on the Dragoon Creek branch of the lake, and entered the main channel where it met the Whippoorwill.

Stadel found two young men, both with their heads barely above water in air pockets just large enough for them to breathe. He swam under the boat once for each of them and pulled them down and out from beneath the boat.

TRAFFIC REALLY DEADLY

ROME (UPI) — Tourists convinced for years that crossing a Rome street is akin to going over the Niagara Falls in a barrel have had their theory confirmed by the Italian Public Works Ministry.

A weekend-ministry statement said driving in Italy in general and Rome in particular "seems given over to impulses of improvisation and abuse.''

Daily in Rome policemen look on disinterestedly as drivers careen the wrong way down oneway streets or use taxi and bus lanes.

There is a traffic accident every seven minutes in the capital, one person is injured every 10 minutes and one person killed every day.

Red lights are a temptation and people on pedestrian crossings are a challenge, the report said.

Rome had 2,539 more accidents last year than in 1976 and injuries were up by 792 despite high gasoline prices reducing the number of cars.

Compared to Milan, Rome had 1.5 times the number of accidents, three times the number of injured and three times the number of dead, the report said.

U.S. Funeral Homes Exploit Clients: FTC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Funeral homes in the United States exploit bereaved customers for their own profit and should be put under government regulation, an exhaustive Federal Trade Commission (FTC) study concludes.

If the commission adopts the staff recommendations, many of the almost two million people who pay for funerals a year might save from several hundred to more than 1,000 dollars, the staff estimates.

The average funeral and burial costs more than $2,000, making it the most expensive purchase many consumers make after a house and a car, the study says.

The 526-page staff report adds that, "In many instances, funeral 'counselling' is really thinly disguised salesmanship designed to persuade consumers to purchase additional and costlier funeral merchandise and services.''

The report, the product of FTC investigations beginning in 1972, concludes that grief-stricken customers, who must decide quickly on funeral arrangements, are "in a peculiarly vulnerable position and enter the transaction in an especially weak bargaining position.''

RAIN TURNING TO ACID?

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Rain, always credited with bringing forests and fields to life, may be inflicting damage to plants and fish throughout the world because it is becoming increasingly polluted, scientists say.

"Everybody thinks rain is just water, but that is not true,'' said Dick Semonin of the Illinois State Water Survey. "Anything in the air can get into rain,'' including auto exhaust emissions, industrial emissions and all other forms of air pollution.

Semonin's agency will analyse rain samples from across the United States beginning July 1 under a $1.5-million three-year federal government program.

DRUG TRADE BLOCK PLANNED

BANGKOK (Reuter) — Burma and Thailand have taken what appears to be the first step toward cooperating in moves to stop the flow of drugs from their border areas to addicts in Asia and the West.

They have agreed to work out a high-level exchange of information on drug suppression.

The verbal accord was reached during a recent visit to Burma by Thai Premier Kriangsak Chamanand, Thai Foreign Minister Upadit Pachariyangkun disclosed in a newspaper interview.

Details are not yet known but there is optimism among foreign and Thai narcotics experts that some action will follow.

Foreign Aid Benefits Elite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The wealthy elite, not the poor majority, are benefiting from the billions of dollars the United States is pouring into Bangladesh, a new report says.

"This elite holds power from the national government down to the village level, and it is through this elite that foreign aid is channeled,'' the report said. ''Under such conditions Americans can expect their foreign aid dollars to perpetuate rather than alleviate poverty in Bangladesh.''

The report was written by Betsy Hartmann and James Boyce for the Center for International Policy, a project of Stewart Mott's The Fund for Peace. They were in Bangladesh from 1974 to 1976 on grants from Yale University, and spent part of the time in a small bamboo house in a northwestern Bangladesh village, speaking Bengali and wearing native clothes.

"Today no country better symbolizes the plight of the poorest of the poor,'' the report said. "In fact, little of the new wealth which foreign aid has bestowed upon the rich of Bangladesh is ever channeled into productive investment. Many wealthy Bengalis prefer the security of foreign bank accounts.''

All mortgages are not the same.
Make sure you get your money's worth.

If you're planning to buy a home, there are a lot of places to get a mortgage. Just about every financial institution in the country offers them. But they are not all the same. Interest rates can differ dramatically; terms can range from one to five years; some have life insurance options, others don't. The list goes on. So, what we're saying is that it pays to shop around — very carefully. The difference can be substantial over a typical 25 year mortgage. We'll be very surprised if you can beat our total package. Please read on.

Figuring out what you can really afford isn't always easy — until you come and see us. We have a handy little calculator for you that will help you compute answers to most of your financial questions — and our staff will handle the rest.
Mortgage calculator.

The best protection money can buy.
We believe you'll find that our group life insurance option is the best and in most instances the cheapest available. Depending upon age, it could be as little as $5.20 a month on a $40,000 mortgage. And a lot of other lenders don't even offer group mortgage life insurance. Ask us about qualifying details. There are enough considerations in buying a house without worrying about where to get this protection.

Weigh the numbers carefully. The interest rate you get from many financial institutions today isn't necessarily the one you'll have next year. Most mortgages are subject to one, three or five year term renewals. We offer only a five-year term — to give you a hedge against inflation for the longest time. And, compared to many other financial institutions, we're at least 1/4 to 1/2% lower on NHA and Conventional mortgages. That can add up, over the life of your mortgage.

Tax Talk

Victoria city council is being rather too blithe, too glib in its treatment of residents' concerns over their 1978 tax bills and assessment notices.

Council's finance committee drafted a statement to explain the situation, but council's explanation doesn't throw much light on the shadows. Like the finger-pointing exercise of Premier Bill Bennett and Finance Minister Evan Wolfe, it obscures more than it explains.

The provincial government's new assessment plan is blamed for much of the increase in residential taxes. Also, council says it "found it necessary" to expand many capital projects.

"In summary, the increase in your general purpose municipal property tax account can be attributed to: (1) any change in your property's taxable assessment; (2) the expansion of your city's capital program."

Mayor Mike Young quashed the suggestion that council mail out copies of the statement, with financial statistics appended, since it would cost $5,000 in postage and handling. Besides, he said, not very many people would understand it.

The drafters of the statement have made certain of that. What does it tell the average taxpayer beyond the fact that in the first place, it's the provincial government's fault, and furthermore, taxes are higher this year because taxes are higher?

The budget figures included in the statement show that council has made some cuts, but they are mostly due to the actions of senior governments. The budgets of many city departments, on the other hand, have been boosted by double digit percentages. Public works is up 50 per cent, building and property maintenance up 87 per cent, sanitation and waste removal up 31 per cent.

These are big ticket items in Victoria's budget. Other significant areas have been held to increases that are lower than the current rate of inflation (fire up 4.1 per cent, police up 6.4 per cent) but the overall effect is an increase in the city's spending of 11.5 per cent

Has the average taxpayer's income gone up by that much? Half of that much? The statement of revenues shows that the figure might have been double that were it not for greatly increased grants from the provincial government. For example, the new policy of the province to pay full property taxes meant an extra $1.2 million this year — fully three per cent of the total revenue. If that money was not available this year, what would the city have done? Where would it have cut spending to keep the total down? Why can't it cut those items anyway and save that much more?

This $1.2 million provided council with a considerable cushion in its budget-making deliberations. No one regrets this new source of revenue, but has it not kept aldermen from making the tough decisions to keep taxes down?

To many Victoria taxpayers, the non-explanation provided by city council only makes the prescription of Conservative leader Vic Stephens (see letter below) — the only way to stop increasing taxes is to stop increasing taxes and damn the consequences — seem more and more attractive. If those running city governments can't come up with difficult answers to the problem, then by default taxpayers are going to run away with the highly appealing simplistic solutions.

Symphony Blues

Jean Hunter, the new manager of the Victoria Symphony, and Peter Lovric, the new chairman of the board both were properly indignant at the jibes the symphony received this week when they went to city council's finance committee looking for a $25,000 grant to help cover the costs of the summer festival.

Hunter thought the strong remarks made about the symphony's financial mess were unfair since the symphony was looking only for short-term support, and Lovric bleated that everyone in Victoria wanted a good symphony but no one wanted to pay for it.

Lovric may have a valid point, but it is a point that has nothing whatsoever to do with the committee's refusal to give the symphony any money for this summer. No one on the committee said a single word about the symphony costing too much or being too rich for Victoria's blood or such excuses. Rather, the reasons it gave for turning down the request were the entirely sensible ones that the symphony had accumulated a huge deficit in the past fiscal year, wanted to add to it over the summer without any apparent idea as to how it was going to pay it off later, and still was budgeting for about a 60 per cent increase in its budget year.

Surely it would be irresponsible for the city to give even a dollar of taxpayers' money to a group that is showing no more financial responsibility than that.

Hunter says also that the symphony may have been irresponsible in the past, but it now is cleaning up its act. Perhaps it is, but there haven't been any public signs of it yet. Indeed one symphony board member, Oak Bay Ald. Shirley Dowell, was quoted at the last board meeting as having made the truly outrageous remark: "If you already have a $100,000 deficit, what's another $40,000?"

Let the symphony show the community some realistic plans for paying off this year's deficit and keeping the budget balanced in future. If it still is refused money then, perhaps it will have a right to complain about the community's attitude.

How to End Tax Increases

By VIC STEPHENS
Conservative Leader

Just stop it.

B.C. newspapers have devoted many pages of print to opposition to my stand against increasing property taxes. While I have never been inclined to debate with editors and columnists through a medium over which they have control, I feel compelled to try, once more, to explain the reasons for the heavy tax burden placed upon many homeowners. These reasons you have not discussed because either your writers do not understand them or your political inclinations restrict your objectivity. One thing is certain, you prefer to sensationalize tongue-in-cheek statements about burning tax notices rather than deal with the very serious reasons why I have called for a tax protest.

The premier has recently stated that the property tax increase on many homes is a "sneaky" attempt by municipalities and school boards to take advantage of the new assessment system imposed by the provincial government. This statement is not only irresponsible but shows that the premier has failed to grasp the significance of his own legislation.

The cause of the dramatic tax increase in some areas is two-fold. First, the provincial government, having complete control over setting of the basic mill rate for school taxation purposes, has increased this rate by 50 per cent in three years. This basic rate, now approximately 40 mills, is the same for every school district no matter what its budget may be. Secondly, the new assessment method (again imposed by the provincial government on the municipalities), because it is based upon the actual value of a home without concern for the fact that inflationary increases in land value have struck harder in areas such as Victoria, has shifted the greater burden of school tax onto homeowners who are required by their job or other circumstances to live in Victoria.

A homeowner's school tax is calculated by multiplying the mill rate (mostly fixed by the provincial government) by the assessed value of his property (also determined by the provincial government). If a man should choose to settle his family in the Victoria area he would first be faced with paying two or three times more for the land on which his home is located than he would pay in some smaller communities. Thereafter he would be required to pay a much higher school tax each year for education of his children (or others' children if he has no family) than a person living in some small municipality where land values are less.

This is a double penalty and is anything but equitable, especially for many of our retired citizens living on fixed incomes, and for many low income earners who really do not own their homes because of the high mortgages against them.

The present provincial government is the heaviest-taxing government in the history of British Columbia. It is spending $1 billion every three months. The previous government, no piker at spending, was disposing of one billion of our tax dollars every four months. Where does it stop? We believe that politicians and bureaucrats, being what they are, will never stop until the public outcry is loud enough to make them listen. Californians are fortunate in that they have an effective democratic method of insisting that their elected servants do what they are told.

In Canada our servants have become our masters and we take whatever they choose to give us. Our only weapon is a public protest and this is precisely what I have called for in asking homeowners to write to me at the Parliament Buildings if they wish to stand up and be counted in a fight to regain some degree of control over our own lives an our government. It costs only 14 cents to mail a letter.

Newspapers have suggested that I should propose alternatives to tax increases. The simple truth is that the only alternative to tax increase is to stop it. You seem to feel that our government is the hopeless victim of insatiable public demand. Indeed, the reverse is true. Politicians spend more and more money to buy votes and bureaucrats spend more to justify their existence and secure their position.

Some writers have taken the usual and predictable stance of resorting to fear tactics to defend the status quo. The defenders of high government spending predict raging fires without firemen and heart attacks on the street without ambulances. Such arrant nonsense and lack of logic is just what our politicians and bureaucrats want to hear. Why do you talk of cutting services of value while deliberately ignoring such things as the publication of B.C. Government News which is nothing more than a government propaganda sheet produced at a cost of close to $100,000 of the taxpayers' money? Why have you not mentioned the $1 million spent on the royal commission inquiry into B.C. Rail which the government has now decided is worthless? This kind of money will employ a lot of ambulance attendants, or for that matter pay a lot of teachers' salaries and help reduce the school tax burden on homeowners.

The Conservative party is not prepared to accept your attitude that what has happened in California can never happen here. Why must we always wait until we're faced with a crisis before we react? When we receive tax notices with increases two or three times the national inflation rate, surely it is time to resist. So you keep beating the establishment's drum and I'll continue to ruffle its feathers. An MLA's first duty is to his constituents and since they have been paying the bills I'll back them. I suggest it's about time some of the government backbenchers found the courage to do the same.

Mammoth Increase

At a time when all Canadians are being urged to practise economic restraint, the taxpayers of Greater Victoria are being hit with huge property tax increases. Typically, the politicians of the municipal governments and the provincial government are engaged in a slanging match, each blaming the other for this disastrous state of affairs.

My own municipal tax bill has increased a mammoth 25 per cent over last year's and I really think they have gone too far this time. How do we get through to these people that they must limit the spending of our money? Let's face it, if this is how governments practise restraint, Lord help us when the economy improves!

However, it is not enough to call for a reduced tax load without suggesting ways and means this may be accomplished. Here are a few suggestions for starters, since our city fathers seem so barren of ideas.

1. Establish zero base budgeting for each municipal department.

2. Turn municipal garbage collection over to private enterprise. Citizens who wish to practise conservation — recycling, composting — could gain the economic benefits of their thrift while still allowing those who want theirgarbage picked up could do so.

3. The school board should bite the bullet and close schools as declining enrolment necessitates. I think it is criminally absurd that school costs should continue to increase year after year even as pupil enrolment declines.

4. Introduce a limited form of user pay for adult library users. Why not? The precedent has already been set with such facilities as municipal swimming pools, golf courses. Incidentally, is it really necessary that such services as the loaning of cassette tapes, records, films and paintings be offered all subsidized by the taxpayer? I think not. These are surely luxuries we can well do without.

I'm sure other citizens have other ideas for reducing taxes. I call on them to submit their ideas. Maybe if enough of us speak out those in power might begin to get the message. — Rod Bell, 1162 Finlayson Street.

Stop Gouging

Please excuse the doom and gloom, but over the past six years as Fairfield residents and homeowners, my wife and I have watched our real property tax levies double while some services have actually decreased. We do realize that without taxes the services to which we are accustomed simply would not exist, but will there ever be an end to the gouging created by governments, federal and provincial?

In the last three weeks we have been informed that our taxes have increased approximately $130 per year (land assessed value doubled); now we are told by Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis that B.C. Hydro will no longer subsidize the transit systems of our province. So much for the promised tax relief to the property owners! We are also advised that apartment owners will actually pay much less next year; it sure must be rough in certain cases to own hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of apartment blocks, so why penalize the rich if the same can be done to middle income families trying to make ends meet?

So much for executive thinking, but what can we expect? The will of the people has spoken and we voted in these elected officials on the many promises made during the last campaign.

May I say that truer words were never written than the ones in the Victoria Times editorial of June 5 entitled Bus Stop. This article expresses to my mind the anger and mixed emotions than many small land owners feel more and more every day to toward the necessary evil of big government. — Gil St. Denis, 232 Robertson Street.

GARBAGE DUMP

A Better System?

The citizens of California have spearheaded a long-simmering and long-awaited movement. The day simply had to arrive when the public would dig in its heels and say enough is enough when it comes to debt, taxes, waste, incongruous public services, and a disproportionate parasitical income-scavenging population. Not to mention the patronage, pay-offs and padding on the side.

The government, of course, has been quick to react by adopting, predictably, a revengeful and punitive stance, hitting out at the payroll first instead of eliminating questionable practices.

Unfortunately, as the system now stands, not just in California but in all levels of government throughout North America, a system is entrenched which will need some smoking out, and the sewers disinfecting. A new era of thinking and political nuance should emerge which will recognize probity, integrity, thrift, common sense and ability unfettered by the need to qualify for public service through having an establishment degree in illiteracy and vertical thinking. It is time to return to the presence of horizontal thinkers who are the product of experience, hard knocks and rectitude as their university

Beyond this, the matters of money and taxation go much, much deeper. The revolt will have to spread to take on the banks, interest rates, compulsory private and national debt yoked under the system which is imposed. National attention must be paid to the issues of independence, solvency, and constitutional integrity.

There is a better system than the reserve system with its fraudulently created credit, debt and deficit-financing formulae. Recovery to a state of economic stability, solvency, self-sufficiency, valuable currency; sovereign independence and a protective, democratic constitution is but an election away. A new order which will take the best from each of the existing political parties and meld it into a Canadian presence, right of centre and representing the full flower of private enterprise has to emerge.

The future holds no credibility via the Liberals, the Conservatives, the NDP or the Communists per se. A co-ordinated party which represents the 70 per cent of the population which is seeking leadership expression is vital to the movement out of the past and into the future. — F. Fred Kirkman, 521 Normandy Road.

Taxes in Saanich

I, among many others, have just received my Saanich property tax notice and I am appalled at the effect of Bill 31 (Assessment Equalization Act).

In a time of ever more burdensome financial increases, it pains me to see that the government has increased the homeowners' tax burden by 16 per cent and reduced the rental and commercial property's by 19 per cent. I would be most interested to learn if tenants have had their rents reduced accordingly.

In view of the six per cent increase ceiling for wages, I fail to see the reasoning or justification for the following increases: Library 13 per cent, Regional district 25 per cent, B.C. assessment 29 per cent, hospital 51 per cent and school districts 61 and 63, 18 and 23 per cent respectively. Where are individuals supposed to find these extra funds?

It should not be too difficult to see which way my vote will go at the next election, the only difference being that I shall offer my time and labor to another party, instead of being a passive voter. — Roy L. Trim, 4741 Elk Road.

Not a Federation

Regarding the constitutional reforms proposed by Prime Minister Trudeau: Marc Lalonde, minister for federal-provincial relations, explains confederation as an alliance of sovereign states while a federation is a union of states or provinces that share political power.

When the British assumed the government of New France after the battle, the Roman Catholic French were deprived of their civil rights because at that time, no Roman Catholic in Britain had any civil rights. Seeing the injustice of this, the British enacted the Quebec Act of 1774 restoring the civil rights.

When the British North America Act of 1867 granted self-government to the colonies, the confederate form of government was adopted whereby the new provinces retained their civil rights and their sovereignty. Quebec would not enter a federation in which civil rights were surrendered. All attempts to adopt a federal form of constitution have foundered over this issue.

Mr. Lalonde is quite wrong in saying that the BNA Act really imposed a federal form of government because that would require the surrender of all powers with some being returned at the wish of the federal government. The Canadian form of government is a confederation of sovereign provinces. — H. S. Thuillier, 2424 Beach Drive.

Why Brazil's Generals Need a Soccer Victory

By MARK GAYN

Toronto Star

Soccer, as we all know, is a very serious business.

But nowhere is it taken more seriously — and nowhere is it bound so tightly with national politics — than in Latin America. Here it sometimes seems as if the military rulers regard a victory on the field as a proof of their right, and their ability, to govern.

Take, for instance, Brazil's performance in the World Cup games in Buenos Aires. The team has been managed by the retired army captain Claudio Coutinho. He in turn has been taking his orders from the head of the Brazilian Sports Federation, the retired admiral Heleno Nunes.

Brazil's record in the games has been dismal. The team's admirers expected yet another glorious spectacle. Instead, alas, the Brazilian team was lucky to draw against inferior rivals. The world knows no fury greater than that of disappointed Latin American soccer fans. They screamed abuse at Coutinho, they threatened mayhem, and they burned the poor manager in effigy.

Worse, there is an election coming in Brazil, and the ruling generals counted on the team's victory to help them along at the polls. This was not soccer; this was politics. Thus, the generals all but pushed poor Coutinho aside, and will now try to save what they can.

Some fascinating sidelights on Brazil's team — and politics — have been provided by the London-based Latin America Political Report. Coutinho, it reports, is a phys-ed specialist, who had had training in the United States.

But he had had some other interests as well. Some 15 years ago he joined other right-wing officers in various political and military coups. In 1964, for whatever talents, he was made an army interrogator. His methods, the Political Report said, "were far from conventional. His specialty was claimed to be the 'telefono' torture, which involves beating over the ears with cupped hands."

After five years of this meritorious work, Coutinho was ordered to take over the training of the Brazil team that was to play in the World Cup in Mexico in 1970. The team took the world championship, and Coutinho became the darling of the nation — and of the generals. Even when Brazil lost in West Germany in 1974, Coutinho survived. But at 39 he may not outlast the fiasco in the 1978 games.

Even more interesting is his boss, Admiral Heleno Nunes. Apart from heading the sports federation, he has also been the boss of the ruling Arena party in the state of Rio de Janeiro. In preparation for the current Buenos Aires games, he had given up the political duties — but a politician he remains. He has felt that a victory for Brazil would be a triumph for the Arena. Thus, he had put some players in the national team pool to curry favor with the soccer aficionados in Rio de Janeiro.

Heleno Nunes also transformed the pre-Cup matches into political rallies, with Arena candidates and banners and military bands. He may have also had something to do with the choice of security guards for the team. The Political Report noted — second-hand — that the head of the guards was a member of the band of political officers which founded Rio de Janeiro's police murder squads.

All this — the ecstasy of the fans, the cheers and the jeers, the heart-breaking failures, the shadowy figures surrounding the teams — must be seen against the background of the pre-election politicking.

Since 1964, the nation has been governed by four-star generals who usually decided which of them was to be president. This year, Ernesto Geisel, president and naturally a general, designated his secret service chief, Gen. Joao Baptista Figueiredo, as his heir apparent. The latter promptly distinguished himself by an attack on the French democracy.

But not all of the 10 generals whose support Baptista Figueiredo needs were ecstatic about him. As a result, another general, Euler Bentes Monteiro, has now popped up. He himself had hoped to be blessed by President Geisel. When the blessings went elsewhere, Bentes Monteiro began to flirt with other discontented officers and with the moneyed men of Sao Paolo, the giant of Latin American cities, and Rio de Janeiro. Some observers think his chances of victory in November are pretty good. In conversations he stresses his love of dmocracy — a good point to make when you're running against a secret service chief.

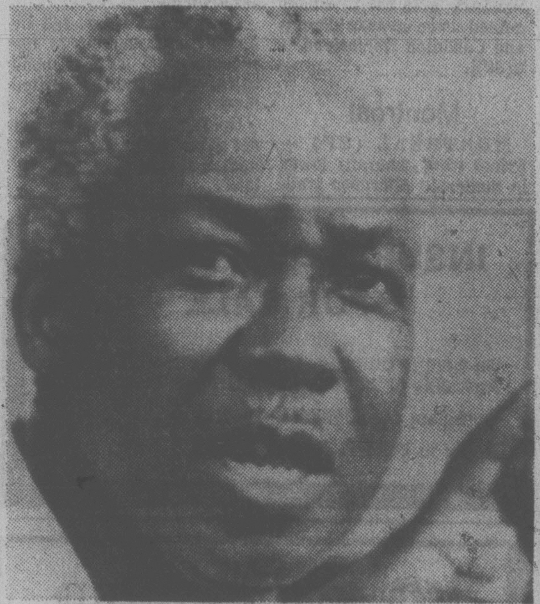
Brazil, with its 104 million people, is the colossus of the hemisphere. It is fabulously rich (it's the world's second largest exporter of farm products, after the United States); it is miserably poor (the peons on some of its farms are little better than slaves).

It has been run by the military since 1964. True, there is an opposition party and there is a magnificent parliament building. But the general-president has almost absolute powers. And Brazil's record on civil freedoms has been almost as bad as Argentina's. I remember one evening with well-placed Brazilian friends in the capital, Brasilia. It turned out to be a steady recital of arrests and tortures. (Last year, when a U.S. report criticized such practices, Brazil huffily cancelled its 25-year-old military aid treaty with Washington).

Thanks to a deal with West Germany back in 1975, Brazil is soon to become a nuclear power, able to make its own atomic bombs. And thanks to greedy arms peddlers from Europe, Brazil is about to acquire an armaments industry.

It is an explosive mix. And the oddest part of it is that so much of the political structure now seems to rest on the fortunes of the soccer team. Poor players, poor Coutinho. It's bad enough to lose. But how much worse to know that they may be reshaping the nation's politics.

What Went Wrong in Black Africa



NYERERE ... his alternative holds out hope

By IAN MATHER

London Observer

Why is most of black Africa run by dictators? Is it inevitable that democracy is doomed to failure on that continent?

One of the strongest arguments of those who support white rule in southern Africa is that wherever white colonialists have left behind democratic constitutions based on Western models, the mace, as the symbol of parliamentary democracy, has quickly been replaced by the baton of military rule.

The view that Africans, after being given the key to democracy, have thrown it away through incompetence and graft is challenged by Basil Davidson, a respected academic and writer on African affairs for 28 years in a significant new study on African nationalism.

Davidson's thesis is that disaster was the inevitable result of importing models of the European nation state into Africa. Despite all the magic of new national flags and anthems, ceremonial artillery, police outriders on monster motorbikes and oratorical flapdoodle, independence itself solved none of the social problems.

Nationalism was based on two pillars: escape from foreign rule and the promise of a better life. The new nationalist rulers assumed the former would lead to the latter. When it didn't happen the people rebelled and overthrew them.

By 1970, 19 black African states were under military rule, with more on the way.

The picture is depressingly familiar. "The get-rich-quick brigades march through carnivals of pseudo-parliamentary charade, chanting hymns to Negritude plus 10 per cent and calling in their police whenever honesty may threaten to appear."

But Davidson is a friend to black Africa, and his book is an attempt to explain the reasons for the disaster. He sees reasons for hope.

First, the European colonialists showed virtually no genuine interest in the peoples over whom they ruled: huge territories of which nothing was known were taken and occupied or at least claimed, often for no other reason than to deny them to rivals in the scramble for Africa.

As Lord Salisbury sardonically told a London audience: "In drawing lines upon maps where no white man's foot has ever trod we have been giving away mountains and rivers and lakes to each other hindered only by the small impediment that we never knew exactly where we were."

Those who should have known better saw all and understood nothing. The great Victorian explorer Richard Burton had every reason to know the success of African peoples in a dozen important skills which Europe could respect, not least in those of the export trade. Yet Burton could blithely tell his readers in an opinion that was to echo down through the colonial years that "the removal of the Negro from Africa" was "his only chance of learning that there is something more than drumming and dancing."

The Europeans who settled were guilty of the same narrow racism. Their curiosity about the human beings they found was practically nil.

The African nationalists who inherited power from the departing Europeans accepted the philosophy that the European model was to be imitated in an African context. The result, however, was that multi-party systems rapidly gave way to one-party systems and then to no-party systems.

With populations expanding and orthodox policy insisting on maximizing exports, food for home consumption became scarcer and therefore dearer. Rural incomes appear to have dropped steadily.

By the mid-1970s three categories of black African regime had emerged, the third of which contains the seeds of hope, Davidson says.

The first category consists of those few regimes with strong economies, some under military rule, some not. Examples are Nigeria, Ivory Coast, Liberia, Kenya and Tunisia. None have produced any political innovation.

The second, more numerous category, consists of regimes with weak economies. Often relying on foreign partners for their survival they are bureaucratic dictatorships of a peculiarly crude type.

The third list also consists of regimes with weak economies. But these are countries in which Davidson discerns a turning away from the given European model with its decadent derivatives and a willingness to experiment with new "African African" policies that could prove to be "democratic".

Davidson considers that an important political experment has been taking place in Tanzania since 1967. Here, as in most other African States, independence produced some real gains. But growing inequalities became the focus of wide protest.

Julius Nyerere, an innovative thinker by any standards, launched the outlines of an alternative society in a document known as the Arusha Declaration in 1967. The main aim was to build a party of mass participation against the increasing power of the bureaucracy.

This is an indication that the Tanzanian experiment has by no means succeeded, and Nyerere is open to the criticism of simply producing a dressed-up version of an old-style populist movement. However, Davidson argues, Tanzania has moved into a new arena of debate and participation.

Taxes: Relax and Enjoy Them

By DENNIS BRAITHWAITE

Toronto Star

The middle-class revolution that Californians launched when they voted to cut property taxes 57 per cent is noble, stirring, and in the finest tradition of grassroots democracy.

And it's doomed to fail.

The counter-revolution has already begun. Politicians are not so easily brought to book. Taxation is their plasma and they are not about to see themselves cut off from the source of life itself. Their weapon: unemployment, the dreaded threat thereof.

Unemployment has become the devil of our age. Because it cannot be tolerated, there is no possible way taxes can be cut. What the harassed folks of California gain on their municipal taxes, all $7 billion worth, they will lose at the state and federal level.

Whatever Governor Jerry Brown may feel constrained to say in the wake of Proposition 13, he will be forced to raise state taxes in order to maintain "services," that potent abstraction that in the liberal consciousness equates with Godliness, with succoring the poor, comforting the aged and providing government jobs for every one of five in the population (the current figure for the U.S. as a whole).

A reduction of services, be they ever so redundant, as most, despite the liberal vision, unquestionably are, leads to unemployment. And unemployment, in our time, is an unthinkable trade-off for money saved, taxes cut, an imperilled middle-class rescued.

Ironically, it is the middle-aged homeowners, the very yeomen who voted to turn the tide of mounting taxes, who are most frightened by the bogey of unemployment. They are conditioned by memories of the Great Depression. Deep down, they believe that inflation and confiscatory taxation are less a curse than no work.

Add to them the millions who have known neither real work nor anything approaching hard times, the youthful beneficiaries of the system, and the prospect of affecting any lasting reform of the welfare state can be seen as utterly hopeless.

Enrolment in Ontario schools has fallen this year, but spending for education has increased appreciably and would have done so even more were it not for government spending restraints. Don't hold your breath waiting for any schools to be closed or consolidated. Educators have a new gimmick, language.

French courses have proliferated, notwithstanding Premier Davis' alleged redneckism, and French is not alone. North York now gives instruction in 22 languages besides English. The sudden babel has less to do with tongues than with the need to find new ways to justify spending, thereby continuing to be eligible for provincial grants.

Well, what do you expect? We can't have unemployed teachers roaming the streets, can we? Of course not.

We saw what a crisis erupted when Inco laid off a few hundred workers in Sudbury. The Davis government, which had nothing whatever to do with the layoffs, was pilloried by the opposition and the media as a heartless bunch lacking even a shred of concern for the honest toiler.

What would be the political fall-out if the country were to suffer genuine mass layoffs? Whether it would bring riots in the streets, the storming of Parliament and the provincial legislatures, is less important than the politicians' apprehension that something of the sort might occur.

If it takes every cent we've got, if it means inflation beyond the nation's scariest nightmare, if the money-printing presses have to run round the clock until they break down, real, hurtful, universal unemployment is not going to be permitted, not while a politician has breath in his body.

The middle-class, since it can't do anything to stop this fiscal rape, might as well relax and enjoy it.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were moving moderately lower in active trading at mid-afternoon on the Toronto stock market.

Among other industrials, Husky Oil fell 1⅛ to $49½, Canadian Occidental Petroleum ½ to $22¾, Brascan Class A ⅛ to $16¾, Alberta Gas Trunk A ⅛ to $15¼ and Hudson's Bay Co. ½ to $21¾.

Canadian Imperial Bank gained ⅛ to $28⅝, Westburne International ⅜ to $28¼, Dominion Stores ¼ to $16⅛, Horne Pittfield Food ¾ to $12¾ and Canadian Utilities ½ to $16¼.

Anglo United Development fell 28 cents to $2.60, Rio Algom ½ to $31¾ and Yellowknife Bear ¼ to $5⅝. Agnico-Eagle Mines gained ¼ to $5¾ and Canadian Tungsten Mining ¼ to $17¼. Siebens Oil and Gas plunged 1⅜ to $29½, Numac Oil and Gas ¾ to $34½ and Amalgamated Bonanza ⅝ to $34¾. Albany gained seven cents to 91 cents and Canadian Homestead ⅛ to $8¾.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally lower in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 556,800 shares traded, compared with 456,900 shares traded up to the same time Friday.

Provincial Bank of Canada dipped ⅛ to $15½, Husky Oil one dollar to $49½, Inco A ⅛ to $18¾, Imperial Oil A ⅛ to $18⅞ and Atco Industries A ⅝ to $12¾.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved lower for the fourth consecutive session today on worries over higher interest rates.

Most major commercial banks raised their prime lending rate a quarter-point to 8¾ per cent last Friday, adding to the market's concern that rising interest rates may slow economic growth.

Traders said the Federal Reserve Board is widely expected to signal another round of credit-tightening after its Open Market Committee meets Tuesday.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuter) — Prices lost ground today in thin trading.

Government bonds fell by up to ⅝ in reaction to the recently high level of bond sales, while equities drifted lower.

GM OPENS IN BELFAST

BELFAST (Reuter) — General Motors, the U.S. car giant, will open a $27-million components factory in Northern Ireland, the British government announced.

The plant at DunDonald, on the outskirts of Belfast, was operated by Rolls-Royce until it pulled out of Northern Ireland.

The factory, which will make seat belts for Vauxhall and Opel cars, will provide 600 jobs when production starts at the beginning of 1980.

Last week, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio, said it was setting up a $5.4-million research and development plant at Craigavon in Armagh, Northern Ireland.

MONTREAL (CP) — U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds opened today up 3-100 at $1.1202. Pound sterling was up 3-50 at $2.0539.

Environment Pact Signed

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States and Mexico have signed an environment-protection agreement dealing with pollution by automobiles, power plants, smelters and refineries.

Officials said the pact calls for experts to meet to plan parallel projects on pollution abatement and control, quality assurance, research and monitoring in all areas of environment protection.

Alcohol Sales Probed

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The U.S. treasury department says it is investigating whether methyl alcohol from Canada is being sold in the United States at less than fair value.

The department estimates that such imports amount to about $14 million a year.

The investigation was prompted by a petition from E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co. and cited Alberta Gas Chemicals Ltd. as the principal Canadian supplier, the department said.

The department simultaneously referred the case to the International Trade Commission for a finding within 30 days on whether the U.S. industry is being hurt by imports.

Both sales at less than fair value and injury must be found before compensating duties can be imposed.

Man Arrested

BURNABY (CP) — Michael Edward Johnston, 21, of Vancouver, was charged Saturday with two counts of attempted murder after a sniper gunned down two women within an hour at a intersection on the border of this Vancouver suburb June 14, said a Burnaby RCMP spokesman.

Gwymeth Mary Clandinin, 65, of Burnaby, was shot in the upper back while crossing the street to a bus stop on Boundary Road.

A short time later, Holly Ann Edwards, 18, of New Westminster, was shot in the head while walking through the area.

Both women were in satisfactory condition in hospital.

Diversion Study Needed - Hydro

CRANBROOK (CP) — A spokesman for British Columbia Hydro said Saturday no decision should be made on diversion of the Kootenay River until studies are completed in 18 months.

Nygel Grant, of Hydro's community relations department, told the East Kootenay Wildlife Association convention in this southeastern B.C. community that diverting the Kootenay River into the Columbia River could benefit the area.

The project calls for diverting two-thirds of the flow of the Kootenay River into the Columbia River at Canal Flats, 60 kilometres north of here, by building a 20-foot to 25-foot dam. Hydro says the project could result in a net power gain of 870 million kilowatt hours a year to B.C.

Grant said area residents are concerned about the effect on wildlife from the increased flow of water from Mud Lake to Windermere Lake. The problem could be alleviated by building a bypass channel between the lakes, which could carry the diversion flow and natural flow during flood times, he said.

The extra flow from Windermere to Golden could be controlled by enlarging the river channel by dredging the bottom of the river or by building bypass channels, he said.

Grant said concern has been expressed that Wasa Lake levels would be affected if the level of the Kootenay River drops. He said a Hydro geologist has found that if the river level dropped four feet, the level in Wasa would only drop one foot.

Under terms of the Columbia River treaty between Canada and the United States, Canada is allowed to divert up to 1.5 million acre feet of water annually from the Kootenay River to the Columbia after September 1984.

Resource Plans Urged

CRANBROOK (CP) — Natural resource strategies on a provincial level are needed to avoid government conflict at all levels, Bill Young, assistant chief forester, said Saturday.

Young, speaking to about 125 Kootenay outdoorsmen, said only provincial resource strategies could adequately cope with regional priorities and programs.

He said top resource uses were timber production, forest land base, agriculture development, range land, water management, fish, wildlife, forest recreation and parks and wilderness.

"Give me any combination of priorities for those nine uses and I would be able, in an hour, to come up with a rough plan for the province which would give us those priorities," Young said.

Ray Demarchi, Kootenay regional game biologist, said co-ordinated resource planning could resolve conflict over access to wilderness areas. There would be a road in every Kootenay valley by 1982 if the problem is not solved.

However, Demarchi and other speakers said the solution would not include closing up every logging road or banning groups from the wilderness.

Relay runners chat with Governor-General Jules Leger on Parliament Hill

Cross-Country Jog Ends

OTTAWA (CP) — The Peace Tower clock struck two, bells chimed, and runners from all parts of Canada came jogging up Parliament Hill Sunday to end a cross-country, 11,027 kilometre fund-raising relay sponsored by Big Brothers of Canada.

Abadh Whiteway, 27, of Lockport, N.S., Allen Hockley, 24, of Vancouver, and Utpal Marshall, 25, of Windsor, Ont., handed over their batons to Governor-General Jules Leger as a crowd of 50 spectators applauded.

"Canada is proud of you," said the Governor-General. "This is a good cause. Come again next year. Slowly but surely."

Teams of eight runners each started out May 27 from Victoria and St. John's Nfld, said Michael Gee of Toronto, the relay's national organizer. They joined up Saturday with a third team which started out June 9 from Windsor, and a small contingent from Ottawa joined the national teams for the last 10 kilometres.

About 20,000 people from the 654 communities en route spelled off regular runners during the round the clock event. Each team was accompanied by a motor-home for sleeping, a 9-passenger van and a pace car.

"We hope to raise about a million dollars from the relay and local fund-raising events held along with it," said Gee. "We'll have to wait for all the pledge cards to come in before we can say for sure."

Phillipe Latulippe, 74, of Montreal, ran with the eastern team for about 100 miles and several other people over 70 joined in for fairly long stretches, said Gee. Regular runners ranged in age from 16 to 59-year-old Jimmy Stokes, a Cornwall, Ont., physiotherapist.

'I feel like a million dollars," said the balding, gray-haired Stokes. "I ran from six to 15 miles per day, including stretches over mountain passes in B.C. where it was raining at the bottom with snow and sleet at the top."

"The best part for me was seeing a man who weighed about 300 pounds a year ago now down to 180," said Stokes.

"One thing about going across Canada at six miles per hour," said Allen Hockley. "You get a chance for a good second look."

'Points' for Bill?

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the Downtown Eastside Residents Association has charged that Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm created the situation of young unemployed persons congregating in downtown Vancouver and now is trying to correct this situation through a program he announced Friday.

Jean Swanson said that Vander Zalm is, "trying to make political Brownie points" by his action.

The minister said a program will start this fall to encourage young jobless people to leave the downtown area through provision of more social services in other areas of the province.

Swanson said a human resources policy in effect since April, 1976, has designated 255 B.C. communities where employable people cannot collect welfare, thereby driving young people out of the areas into Vancouver.

Among the designated areas in 1977 were the Gulf Islands, the Queen Charlottes, the Okanagan, and "vast rural and unorganized areas of the province."

The policy said that people capable of working who moved to those low-employment areas could not collect welfare.

"If people are in remote areas and there is no employment, where can they go if there is no work?" she said.

"You'd go to Vancouver, and a lot of the young people end up in the downtown area, it's the only place you can get a room for $100 a month."

The minister said his program was aimed at getting young people away from the liquor, drugs, prostitution and resulting social problems found in the downtown area.

Meanwhile, in Kamloops, B.C., Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Rafe Mair said while he wants to take a longer look at the proposal he thinks the basic concept is a good one.

Help Needed By Pre-School

The Cordova Bay Co-op Pre-School program is facing a tough challenge from the drop-and-run type of kindergarten.

"Parents don't seem to have time for their youngsters any more, they have so many other interests," pre-school association president Penny Underwood said today.

"In the co-operative preschool we invite parents to become part of the program. The parent, usually the mother, comes to the pre-school and assists the supervisor.

"But our enrolment has been declining in recent years. This trend is evident in all pre-school programs of our type. With so many mothers working or having other interests, the drop-and-run kindergarten is getting more youngsters."

Mrs. Underwood expressed concern about the trend.

"The pre-school program is a learning experience for the parent as well as for the child. Mothers can learn about other children as well as their own."

The Cordova Bay Co-op Pre-School held open house on the weekend to demonstrate foot-painting and other activities in the program.

"We hope to build our enrolment up to 30 families. So far we are about half-way there. We say families, rather than children, to emphasize that we involve the parents in the learning process."

The school is owned by the parents on a non-profit basis and is operated by an association executive.

There are 19 co-op preschools in the Greater Victoria area and while they are doing well they all have a problem of declining enrolments, Mrs. Underwood said.

Further information on the Cordova Bay pre-school can be obtained from the association executive-secretary Willa Burke at 658-1134.

Estuary Future Worries Group

DUNCAN — The Cowichan Bird Society has added its name to a long list of groups protesting against further industrial development of the Cowichan-Koksilah estuary.

The society made its feelings know in a brief to the Cowichan Estuary Task Force 1978 prepared by vice-president John Comer, a noted B.C. ornotholigist who has just completed a 10-year study of birds in the Cowichan Valley.

Comer said that because of the proximity of the Doman mill to the Cowichan and Koksilah rivers, residue from the mill operation would inevitably enter the water and erode the quality of life.

Copies of Comer's brief were sent to Environment Minister Jim Nielsen urging public hearings before a decision were made on the task force report.

Merger Lost, Mayors Miffed

DUNCAN — The mayors of Duncan and North Cowichan expressed disappointment as amalgamation was soundly rejected Saturday by voters of both municipalities.

Mayors Ken Paskin of Duncan and George Whittaker of North Cowichan favored a merger, but North Cowichan turned it down 2,749 to 945 and Duncan rejected it 490 to 236.

The Chemainus area of North Cowichan led the no vote as 1,331 rejected amalgamation and only 31 voted for it with an 85 per cent turnout at the polls. In North Cowichan, 47 per cent of the eligible electors voted, while the turnout in Duncan was 35 per cent.

The results now will go to Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis, who ordered the vote earlier this year after Paskin and Whittaker told him North Cowichan requested a referendum but Duncan council was split on the issue.

Proponents of the proposal said that, since Duncan split from North Cowichan in 1912, there had been needless duplication of services and a waste of taxpayers' money.

Whittaker said the issue is not dead. He said if the revolt against high property taxes in British Columbia expands, local residents will look for any means to reduce taxation.

"We spend vast amounts of time and money frustrating each other's priorities," he said of the two communities. "We're a house divided.

"It would be a great saving to the taxpayers to cut out the duplication because one bureacracy would be cheaper than two."

Paskin said he was at least happy that the issue had finally been put to a vote.

"But it doesn't eliminate the problems," he said. "Unfortunately, politics entered into it. Aldermen had been saying that if we weren't careful we wouldn't be re-elected.

"I was the only person on council that wanted amalgamation.

"We have duplication of services and administrations and will continue to do so for the foreseeable future.

"You know the old saying, 'People get the kind of government they deserve.' Taxpayers will find themselves in dire straits but this is what they chose to do. I have no regrets. As the months and years unfold, we will see who was wrong."

In a related development on the weekend, Curtis ruled out a proposed amalgamation vote in the Campbell River area.

The merger would have included Campbell River and the outlying districts of Quinsam Heights, North Campbell River and Oyster Bay.

"At this time and for the foreseeable future I have decided against scheduling a vote on the question of restructuring the Greater Campbell River community," Curtis said in a letter to a local merger committee.

Committee chairman Frank Doyle was pleased with Curtis' decision, which he believed was based on unfavorable public reaction.

Public meetings last summer and fall and again in February sparked an outcry from groups of residents affected by the proposal.

Big Mobile Park At Issue Tonight

Sidney residents get a chance tonight to voice their views on Summergate Village, a proposed multi-million dollar mobile home park described as the largest development of its kind in the province.

A public meeting begins at 7:30 at the Fire Hall on Third Street to air the plan, submitted by Leisure Villa Estates Ltd. of Vancouver.

An application for a land-use contract to permit the development has already been given three readings by council.

The development calls for 249 mobile home lots on 24 acres of a 33-acre parcel the company owns between Canora and the Pat Bay Highway in the southern end of the township. The lots would be sold under the Strata Titles Act giving purchasers rights of ownership to their lots and common ownership of the entire property.

The company also plans to build recreational facilities including a swimming pool, games rooms, and tennis courts.

The remaining nine acres in the parcel would be handed over to the township and become dedicated as parkland.

The company first applied for permission to develop the site in the early 70s but the application was held in abeyance after the land was included in the agricultural land reserve by the former NDP government.

Last year, a group calling itself the the South Sidney Ratepayers Association petitioned the government to remove the land from the reserve. In January, the Social Credit cabinet approved the application.

Town clerk Geoffrey Logan said the property has been zoned for single-family dwellings since the late 60s and said the proposed development would not involve much, if any, increase in housing density.

"They (the developers) could have gone for a higher density if they had wanted and still conformed to the Community Plan," Logan said. "But they elected not to."

Council supports the development and there's been little opposition to date from the community.

However, Peter Sugden of 9573 Epco Drive is unhappy with it and hopes to organize a group to oppose the development at tonight's meeting.

In an interview, he said his concern is over traffic congestion generated by such a large-scale development.

But Logan said engineering studies indicate the increase in traffic would not be a hardship.

Leisure Villa was incorporated in Vancouver in 1970. The principals of the company are Harry Gillespie, president, Sydney Welsh, vice-president, Robert Malcolm, secretary, and directors Robert McGillivray and Frederick Purvis, all of the Vancouver area.

35 Entries From B.C. Selected for Awards

Thirty-five B.C. winners in the Explore Your Heritage Contest will be presented with awards at 2:30 p.m. Saturday by Provincial Museum director Dr. Yorke Edwards in a ceremony at the Newcombe auditorium.

The contest is sponsored by the National Museums Corporation, in co-operation with the local museum.

This summer 350 finalists from across Canada will travel to every province, visiting museums and other places of interest.

The winner's exhibits will be on display at the museum all this week.

The winners:

Donald Lawrence, Diana Blower and Carol Lauzon, Harbor View School; Michelle Sue, Andrea Whysker, Pamela Williams and Valerie Felker, Cedar Hill Junior Secondary School; Nevin Evans, Randy Hetherington and Bernard James, Spectrum Community School; all of Victoria; Mitch Massettoe, Victor McCook, Doris Poole and Lucille Porter, Fort Ware Indian Day School, Fort Ware, B.C.; Celeste Bobb, Wayne Bobb Jr., and Peter Pettis, Seabird Island Band Administration, Agassiz; Elizabeth Wills, Michelle Nash and Carolyn Wilie, Crofton House School, Vancouver; Lynda Aitchison, Sheila Armstrong, Karen Monroe, Jackie Wheeler and Brenda Norn, Maple Ridge Jr. Secondary, Quesnel; Landin Croft, Jody Johnson, Helen Bladon and Karl Skarset, Alexander Robinson Elementary, Maple Ridge; Vicki Police, Christina Rasmussen and Beverly Reid, American Foundryman Society, Delta; Teresa Andrews, Theresa Robinson and Wendy MacLean, McPherson Park Junior Secondary, Burnaby.

First Aid Honors Go To Mackenzie

NANAIMO (CP) — The Mackenzie fire department team comprised of Rob McMullen, Les Quigley, Larry Leisch and Pete McGaffin won the 21st annual provincial first aid competition here Saturday.

In second place was the B.C. Tel team from Port Alberni.

Eight teams, finalists from regional contests, competed in the event held in conjunction with the B.C. ministry of mines' mine rescue competition.

First place in the miners' first aid event went to H.B. Mine from Salmo.

Big Salmon Run Predicted

VANCOUVER (CP) — A larger-than-average run of pink salmon in the Johnstone Strait area at the same time as a heavy run of Adams River sockeye will lead to heavy fishing in the Vancouver Island area in August and September.

Allan Gibson, manager of the Georgia-Johnstone straits branch of the federal fisheries and marine service, says in a report the return of pink salmon in the area is projected at 4.6 million fish, short of the record run of 5.4 million in 1976.

The salmon are returning to mainland creeks in Area 12, between the strait and the north tip of Vancouver Island, the upper island area and streams in the strait, mid-island and Loughborough-Bute Inlet areas, the report said.

One-quarter of the returning Adams River sockeye run comes in through Johnstone Strait, with the remainder returning from the open sea via the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The Adams run, estimated at 3.9 million fish, is smaller than expected this year, but the total of all Fraser sockeye species has been projected at 6.5 million.

The catch of Adams sockeye in the Johnstone Strait area is set at 900,000 while in waters covered by the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission catch has been set at 2.8 million, divided equally between Canadiand and United States fishermen.

Fishing for Fraser sockeye and pinks covered by the Canada-U.S. convention will not be affected by the suspension recently of the separate treaty on reciprocal fishing. Canadians and Americans fish their own side of the international border in convention waters.

Meanwhile, U.S. and Canadian negotiators resumed talks on a long-term fishing agreement today with a call for immediate government approval of an interim pact and and end to the reciprocal commercial fishing ban.

"Our task has been made more urgent as a result of the suspension of the provisional implementation of the 1978 interim reciprocal fisheries agreement," chief Canadian negotiator Marcel Cadieux said.

Lorne Clark, Canada's deputy chief negotiator, said Sunday there "were good reasons" to expect quick agreement on a number of key issues, with "resumption of some reciprocal fishing" coming as issues are ironed out.

School Budget Vote Eyed

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government is considering bringing back a system of taxpayer approval for local school budgets, Education Minister Pat McGeer said Saturday.

Prior to 1972, school operating budgets that exceeded a government-set limit had to win the approval of taxpayers in an annual school money bylaw referendum.

Budgets now are voted on by the school trustees and require a two-thirds vote to pass.

McGeer told a meeting of North Shore Social Credit associations that a referendum on school budgets is under active review by the government.

He made the statement during a question and answer session in reply to a suggestion there should be a return to the old system that gave voters veto right.

Education costs in B.C. are rising because of budgets set by local school boards, McGeer said, and the North Vancouver school district is one of the most free-wheeling in the province.

"For instance, your superintendent is paid more than the premier," McGeer said.

McGeer said 86 positions in education administration pay more than the deputy minister of education receives and some pay more than the most senior civil servants in Victoria receive.

A suggestion that sales taxes, instead of an increase in property taxes be used to help pay for education was rejected by McGeer.

He said to do so "you would have to raise the sales tax by at least six per cent."

Bill French, president of the Concerned Citizens of North Vancouver, said that the province's French-language programs should be scrapped, adding "we are probably the worst linguists in the world."

McGeer said: "There's no reason why our children shouldn't have the opportunity to become skilful in other languages. If learned and taught properly, it won't require any more teachers."

Right-to-Work Lobby In Civil Service Next?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Civil servants will be the next target of right-to-work laws, John Fryer, general secretary of the British Columbia Government Employees Union, said Saturday.

"We will see the right-to-work campaign shift from the construction industry to public employees," he told the annual convention of the B.C. division of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

George Johnston, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said his organization has launched a full-scale counter-attack against the right-to-work movement.

A massive advertising campaign is being carried out by the federation to counter an equally expensive media campaign by the Independent Contractors and Businessmen's Association, he said.

The federation has taken out full-page, $7,000 advertisements in Vancouver papers explaining their side of the right-to-work controversy, Johnston said.

Fishermen Killed

BANGKOK (AP) — Two Cambodian gunboats attacked seven Thai trawlers off the Thai-Cambodian border, killing at least 10 Thai fishermen, and three of the fishing boats are missing, a military spokesman said today. He said two Thai navy boats exchanged fire with the Cambodians for about two hours.

Thousands crowded Ogden Point docks Saturday and Sunday to get a close-up look at the Nippon Maru and Kaiwo Maru. Highlight of the weekend was sail-hoisting drill Sunday in which crews and cadets aboard the Japanese naval training vessels raised and lowered the 35 sails on each barque-rigged craft within 90 minutes. Public also was able to go aboard both days. The ships will remain at Ogden Point until 9 a.m. Tuesday when they leave for Vancouver.

MARINA STUDY

Birds Not Only Losers

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

More than the Great Blue Heron may be the loser if a housing and marina development goes ahead at Tsehum Bay in North Saanich.

Municipal planner Kees Van Westen says in a special study the development also would be a losing proposition for the municipality.

Van Westen, in a report tabled with the North Saanich Advisory Planning Commission, estimates the initial cost of the development to the municipality would be about $167,000 while total expected revenues would amount to only $159,600, for a deficit of $7,400.

Van Westen, however, says the cost-revenue picture would likely improve in time because the development would make little demand on the school system. But the municipality could not expect to derive more than a small profit from the venture.

His report is expected to generate heated discussion at a public meeting of the APC at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Parklands Secondary School.

For many residents, Van Westen's findings only add fuel to a growing movement to quash Hallmark Development's proposal to install 600 more berths at Bosun's Marina and build 120 dwellings on adjoining property.

The development has already been condemned by biologists and environmentalists who say it encroaches on the nesting grounds of the blue heron and other bird species. Several years ago the Canadian Wildlife Federation proclaimed the 36-acre site a bird sanctuary.

Members of the Tseycum Indian band are also upset because an ancient Indian burial ground occupies a portion of the property.

Earlier this month band member Gus Bill warned any developer disturbing the burial ground will have to face the wrath of the "spirits of the dead" buried there.

Bishop Remi de Roo of Victoria subsequently joined the controversy and wrote to the APC urging the members to respect the Indians' wishes.

The APC has given no indication how it feels about the project but it is expected Van Westen's socio-economic impact study will get serious consideration.

The study points out the development would increase traffic along MacDonald Park Road by as much as 3,000 trips each weekday, 672 to and from the housing development and 2,280 to and from the marina.

The estimates are based on a study carried out by the Institute of Engineers in 1976.

Van Westen said the development would increase sewage flow by more than 12,000 gallons a day, requiring connection with the regional trunk system and incorporating one or more lift stations.

Water consumption would be about 17,000 gallons a day, 12,000 for the residents and 5,000 for the marina, and would require an eight-inch line dropping down to a six-inch line further into the development.

Van Westen notes there are already 2,249 berths in Tsehum or Shoal Harbor and that on a typical summer day 742 boats enter and leave the harbor during daylight hours.

Further, he points out, North Saanich is producing more than half the marina space now available in the Greater Victoria area.

Fran Turner, an outspoken opponent of the development, feels the people of North Saanich are being made to subsidize marinas for non-residents.

She said a survey of one marina revealed nearly one-third of the boats belonged to Vancouver residents.

"Why should we lose a bird sanctuary just to provide extra space for more Vancouver boats?" she asked. "The marinas in North Saanich should be for the people of North Saanich."

Remands Given Holdup Suspects

Two James Bay residents were charged in provincial court today with unlawful confinement, armed robbery and possession of stolen property.

They are Deborah Jane Mavis Frank, 21, and Peter Larsen, 29, both of 329-425 Simcoe.

Frank, represented by lawyer Robert Higinbotham, was remanded for bail hearing until later in the day and Larsen, represented by Dean Wilson, will appear Tuesday morning.

The charges stem from a robbery Friday night at the McKenzie Avenue liquor store in which manager William James Taylor was tied up and $14,500 stolen.

Police have recovered all the money and have also seized three guns, a knife, two police radio scanners and a walkie-talkie.

Rape Quote Outcry Irrational: Mayor

Apparently unrepentant about his recent remarks concerning the dress of a rape counsellor, Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier has repeated his conviction that anyone lecturing to students on rape should be appropriately dressed.

And he says the "irrational, emotional" reaction from those involved in the rape organization makes him question whether such persons are fit to lecture to "impressionable" high school students on the subject of rape.

Couvelier clarifies and confirms his position in reply to a letter from Victoria Labor Council secretary-treasurer Larry Ryan, who had condemned Couvelier's "uncalled-for" comments about the low neckline of a Victoria Rape Relief Centre representative.

The mayor says his comments about the way Trish MaryMoon was dressed when she appeared before the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee last month were made in a whispered aside to Victoria Mayor Mike Young, after the committee voted to deny the organization a grant.

He says his remarks were not the basis on which the committee's decision was reached, and the rejection was based purely on financial considerations.

The financial data accompanying the application contained a number of inconsistencies which MaryMoon did not explain to the committee's satisfaction, he states.

Couvelier's letter to Ryan continues:

"The attire worn by the applicant in the accompanying newspaper photo was not the attire worn by the applicant when she appeared before the committee.

"As you know, I am in the clothing business. In that capacity I have worked closely with fashion designers, models and have conducted a number of fashion shows. It would be highly unlikely that anyone with that background would be 'prudish' in their attitudes toward permissible dress.

"For the benefit of your membership, I repeat my unshaken belief that the lecturer's attire should recognize the delicacy of the subject and the sensibilities of the audience.

"I also believe that the irrational, emotional responses to my well-publicized side comment do a disservice to the cause they claim to support. I believe the wisdom of allowing such excitable persons to lecture our impressionable high school students on the subject of rape should be seriously questioned, not only by the agencies funding the operation but also by the school officials who program the time."

WINDS SMASH FISHBOAT

High winds on the weekend pounded one fishboat into three pieces on the west coast of Vancouver Island, forced a helicopter to make an emergency landing and gave the Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre at CFB Esquimalt the busiest weekend of the year.

A passing aircraft spotted the 34-foot vessel Ed Glen, owned by R. Brown of Shawnigan Lake, early Sunday afternoon aground on Janson Island, south of Ucluelet.

A rescue centre spokesman said today winds were 30 to 40 knots on the west coast of Vancouver Island and more than 40 knots in the Queen Charlotte Straits area.

A Bell 47 helicopter, bucking high winds on a flight from Prince Rupert to Rose Spit, ran low on fuel and was forced to make an emergency landing on Bonilla Rock, south of Prince Rupert. Nobody was injured.

The 21-foot pleasure craft Gemstone, owned by George McFarland of Delta, was reported bucking heavy seas near the Sand Heads light station on the Mainland.

A rescue centre spokesman said it was so rough at the mouth of the Fraser River that the Gemstone, with four people aboard, chose to cross the Strait of Georgia to reach the more sheltered waters of Porlier Pass.

A Labrador helicopter from CFB Comox was diverted to the scene and the Canadian Coast Guard's hovercraft from the Vancouver International Airport acted as escort for the Gemstone.

A Golden Time of National Innocence

IF WE CAN FIND ONE IN these parts, we are going to buy a not-too-large Maple Leaf flag and fly it off some portion of our house in recognition of another Dominion Day. Not Canada Day. There's no such animal, despite the efforts of Ottawa's busy propagandists. And I hope that the flag, always provided we can locate one, will prove to have been made in Canada, not in Japan or in Taiwan.

We will also do our best to recover, if only for a few hours, the innocent and largely unquestioning love of country that Canadians once brought to the First of July.

In those years, we enjoyed at least the illusion that we were one country. There was no Quebec problem: Quebec was merely the province from which came the best maple sugar, and the bright little country-hooked rugs with the winter scenes on them.

We respected, even venerated our politicians, and even (my God!) considered some of them to be statesmen. It was a golden time. If celebration of those forever-vanished Dominion Days wasn't entirely spontaneous, it was next-thing-to.

An unpaid town committee arranged a program out of which nobody made a nickel, except perhaps the local bootlegger, and the feeling of nationhood ran deep, strong and pleasant, like the awareness of family bonds.

No doubt there were serpents in the Eden of those golden years. But we were more ingenuous then, and much less likely to look gift horses in the teeth.

Dominion Day was, quite simply, one of the year's exciting, happy times. We welcomed its coming, sang O Canada and Maple Leaf Forever without the slightest awareness of racist undertones.

We were not self-conscious about patriotism. We needed no one to remind us that we loved our country. The related black arts of public relations and press agentry were still in their infancy, and Ottawa had yet to discover with super-cynic McLuhan that "the medium is the message."

The message this year is going to cost Ottawa $4.5 million in taxpayers' nickels. It will consist in part of radio and television advertising which stresses national unity, and overlooks the fact that Quebec will be prolonging its St. Jean Baptiste Day celebrations through a parallel week.

The slogan for this year's bash has been announced as, "Canada is you and me," or in our other official language, "Le Canada, c'est toi at moi."

Very well, then, Canada is you and me. And if many of the scales have fallen away from our eyes — if we have been forced to the dark suspicion that true unity may never be more than a wistful dream — Canada is still you and me.

With the matter thus reduced to a personal bais, let me ask you a couple of questions. What do you want for Canada? What are your hopes for Canada?

I find that my own answers to these questions are surprisingly uncomplicated.

"United we stand, divided we fall." I want Canada to hang together, to remain a band of provinces within the framework of Confederation.

I hope we will continue as a nation to be reckoned with in international affairs.

I trust that, internally, we will find means to deal with those two national enemies, unemployment and inflation.

Oh yes . . . I love Canada very solidly and deeply. But she is no longer a country in her dawning, and perhaps that innocence we once brought to the celebration of Dominion Day is no longer justified. Much has changed. Even the flag is different.

But this is still my country, and that is my flag, and with a shake of the head for the Ottawa extravaganza, I propose to honor them both on Dominion Day.

ESQUIMALT'S BUCCANEER DAYS on the weekend featured the usual number of pirate-driven floats and other festivities but also drew thirsty patrons from all parts of Greater Victoria to the beer garden. People lined up for as long as two hours for their share of the 650 dozen bottles that sold in 3½ hours, resulting in a sold-out sign two hours before the scheduled closing. The beer garden at the Fernwood Community Association's annual spring fair fared better, the beer lasting through both days. (John McKay photo).

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS IN TROUBLE

Weary World Cup Survivors Plod On

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The bruised finalists in the World Cup soccer tournament face their sixth game in 17 days on Wednesday and it looks as if the team with the most stamina will win the title in the world's most popular sport.

Right now, it appears that one of four—the Netherlands, Italy, Brazil or Argentina—will be that team.

Argentina and Brazil battled without success to break down each other's defensive barriers in a 0-0 tie at Rosario Sunday night—the toughest game in the tournament yet. If the final at Buenos Aires' River Plate Stadium next Sunday is comparable, one shot could win the Cup.

That shot could come from a marksman of the calibre of Johnny Rep of the Nethelands, Paolo Rossi of Italy, Dirceu of Brazil or Mario Kempes of Argentina.

The final will be between the winners of the two groups contesting the second round. Both groups are wide open.

The Nethlerlands and Italy are joint leaders in Group A with three points each from two games. The two teams meet in the vital match on Wednesday. Italy must win to gain the final because the Dutch have scored more goals.

Argentina and Brazil are ahead in Group B with three points each. Brazil has scored three goals and Argentina has two. Neither team has been scored against. Argentina faces Peru and Brazil plays Poland on Wednesday.

Defending champion West Germany, with two points in Group A, has little chance of winning the Cup again after being held to a 2-2 draw by the Dutch.

But one German star has set a record which may never be broken. When Holland's Arie Haan sent a shot into the German net in the 26th minute, it was the first goal scored against goalie Sepp Maier in 475 minutes of World Cup play.

The curly-haired goalie, a veteran of three World Cups, was last beaten in the 1974 final when West Germany defeated he Netherlands 2-1.

Maier had kept a clean sheet in his first four matches of the current World Cup and had gone well past the previous World Cup record of 448 minutes by England's Gordon Banks.

The goal-scoring stars Sunday were Haan, Rossi of Italy and Andrzej Szármach of Poland.

Haan's goal, one of the finest of the tournament, put the Netherlands back into contention after the Germans had taken an early lead.

Szarmach took a centre from Grzegorz Lato, his old team-mate from the 1974 World Cup, and headed in a goal in the 65th minute for Poland's 1-0 win over Peru at Mendoza.

Argentina and Brazil tried and failed to find a way through a maze of tackling legs. Oscar Ortiz ought to have won the game for Argentina in the first half, but his uncontested shot went wide.

IT'S BOTTOMS UP on soccer tradition as Austria's Bruno Pezzey goes a step further than making the usual trade for his jersey. Pezzey also traded his shorts to Italian forward Francesco Graziani (left) following Sunday's World Cup match in Buenos Aires. Italian goalie Dino Zoff (right) looks on in astonishment. BO MEARNS SECOND

CALGARY (CP) — Graeme Thomas of San Carlos, Clif. rode Skip for three clear rounds to win the $10,000-Rothman's of Pall Mall Canada Ltd. Grand Prix at the Calgary International horse show Saturday night.

Bo Mearns of Victoria on Flying Nun finished second and Linda Allen, another California entry, took the third-place on Heat Wave.

Just a Lark For Ferrill

Sharon Ferrill did it all Sunday at Victoria Skylarks blanked Vancouver El Cid 4-0 in a Vancouver Major Women's Softball League game at Vancouver.

Defence Springs Leaks But Budget Bats Noisier

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

Harvey Stevenson, part-time hitter and full-time coach, suggests he is "expected to produce" important blows with his bat, so he would rather shift the offensive attention to outfielders Dennis Eckert and Reg Underwood.

And overlook the temporary leaks on defence, if you will.

"Looked like a bit of a football game," he said of Victoria Budgets' defensive letdowns but was infinitely happier with the offensive fireworks that produced three victories in the team's Nor'west Major Men's Fastball League four-game series with Woodinville Lumber of Seattle.

The Budgets opened with 11-2 and 2-1 victories Saturday and then split Sunday's doubleheader at Royal Athletic Park. Errors and the "thumbing" pitching of Ed Gianini proved to be Victoria's undoing in a 7-3 loss but Budgets rebounded to take the final game 4-3.

Signs of a cracking defence showed in Saturday's 2-1 game, but without damage to the Budget cause. Charged with only three errors in 21 previous games, the Budgets matched that total in the one game but squeezed through with the victory when Stevenson singled with two out in the fifth inning to send Underwood home with the winning run.

The flood of miscues followed Sunday. Budgets made five errors to hand Woodinville four unearned runs.

Stevenson, seeing action in all four series games for the first time this season, came in to deliver a two-out, pinch-hit singles in the sixth inning to provide Andy Konpacki with his second victory of the weekend in Sunday's second game.

Despite producing the winning margin in two games, Stevenson felt the spotlight belonged to Underwood and Eckert. The fleet Underwood broke out of a hitting slump by aollecting seven hits in 11 official times to the plate while the rookie Eckert was seven-for-14, including a pair of home runs Saturday and two doubles to drive in six runs.

Budgets, who will face Aurora, Ill., runner-up in the U.S. nationals for the past four years, in another Victoria "Super Series" this Friday and Saturday, went into the past weekend with the roster trimmed by one. By "mutual agreement," infielder Rob Coldwell was cut in order to acquire more playing time in the Stuffy McGinnis League.

Macs Stage Comeback To Dash Past Runners

Duch, who replaced starter Bill Thomas at 5:56 of the second period, inspired the Victoria club the rest of the game by stopping 22 shots and allowing only one goal.

Bakers, who evened their record at 7-7 with the victory, trailed 9-6 at the end of the first period and were still behind 12-9 going into the final 20 minutes.

But the Victoria club bounced back in the final frame with seven unanswered goals.

Mike Game and Jim Ferguson set the scoring pace for Bakers with three goals each. Ron Sage and Rhys Wickes each got two goals. Sage, Wickes and captain Doug Angrove also played a strong penalty-killing role in the victory.

McDonalds return to the Mainland tonight for a game against New Westminster Salmonbellies at Queen's Park Arena and play their third game in four nights against Coquitlam J-Hawks at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

In the only other league game at the weekend, Burnaby Cablevision romped to a 23-9 decision over the visiting Salmonbellies on Sunday.

Cablevision had doubled New Westminster 8-4 by the end of the first period and surged ahead 16-7 following 40 minutes.

New Westminster got 10 of 18 minor penalties, three of six fighting majors, and Salmonbellies' Steve Manning was handed a game misconduct.

Vistas To Tackle Seattle Reserves

Vancouver Island's Vistas will be out to protect their unbeaten record Tuesday when they tackle the improving Seattle Sounder Reserves in a Pacific Northwest Soccer League game at Royal Athletic Park, starting at 7 p.m.

The Seattle squad recorded its first triumph last week by blanking Fraser Valley 2-0. Reserves' lineup includes goaltender Cliff Brown, Ed Krudger, Manny Matos and playing-coach Harry Redknapp.

Vistas, who have scored two victories and a pair of draws in their first four games, will be missing Steve Forslund. Injured in the team's last game, Forslund suffered a leg injury that has failed to respond to treatment.

Yellow Flag Helps Cale

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — Cale Yarborough, out of contention after losing a lap for an unscheduled tire change, got a second chance with the race's only yellow flag and used it to speed off to a 13-second victory over David Pearson in a 400-mile Grand National stock car race Sunday.

Yarborough averaged 149.564 miles an hour in his Oldsmobile for his fourth victory in 15 starts this season.

Victorians Share Gold

SEATTLE — A Victoria City Rowing Club crew with cox stroked its way to a bronze medal and three Victorians shared a gold medal victory in the U.S. national women's rowing championships at Green Lake at the weekend.

Lisa Roy, Cheryl Mason, Kathleen Alexander and Janice Mason, along with cox Kim Willoughby, placed third in the fours-with-cox final Saturday. Long Beach, Calif., won the event.

Janice and Lisa Roy finished sixth in the doubles on a Sunday program highlighted by a Canadian victory in the eights. The Canadian crew, from Burnaby Lake, included Ina Delure, Kelly Jacklin and Katie Burke, all of Victoria. The three, hoping to earn berths on the national team, joined the Burnaby Club recently because of its strong training program and excellent facilities.

Now They'll Get The Name Right

DENVER (AP) — Winning the United States Open put one of golf's most famous trophies on Andy North's mantle and $45,000 in his pocket. It may even get people to remember his name.

"I don't think I'm any egomaniac, but it's nice to have people call you by your right name," said North. "My first couple of years I was confused with Jerry Heard a lot, and the last couple with Andy Bean. At least they were comparing me with golfers who can play some."

North put an end to his identity problems this week in the U.S. Open championship over the rugged Cherry Hills Country Club layout.

The lanky 28-year-old from Madison, Wis., who has labored in relative obscurity during six yers on the pro tour, withstood challenges from some of the game's more celebrated performers to fashion a one-stroke victory Sunday over Dave Stockton and J. C. Snead.

"Thank goodness we ran out of holes," said North, who staggered home Sunday with a closing round of three-over-par 74 for a total of one-over 285.

North, whose only previous victory came in the 1977 Westchester Classic, held a five-stroke lead during portions of Sunday's final round, thanks to birdies at the fourth and fifth holes.

But he badly hooked his iron off the eighth tee which started a string of three bogeys and his lead melted to two shots. Birdies at the par-five 11th hole and the par-four 13th put him in a commanding position once again, but he was wild off the tee at No. 14 and took bogey, following that with a double bogey on 15.

He then led Stockton by a single stroke and Snead by two, with three difficult holes left to play.

Playing conservatively, he maintained his lead into the 18th hole, a 480-yard, uphill par-four. Stockton, playing just ahead of North, took a bogey-five on the hole. Snead skipped his drive off the water and onto the fairway and made par.

North knew a bogey would win it for him. He hit a three-iron off the tee into the right rough, blasted the ball into the left rough and then lofted a pitch shot short into a bunker.

"I thought he had blown it when he hit into the trap," said North's playing partner, Gary Player.

But North, who had withstood the pressures of being the second and third-round leader, calmly came out of the bunker and sank the putt.

Stockton and Snead, both of whom fired one-over 72s Sunday, each won $19,750. Tom Weiskopf, who matched the lowest round of the tournament with a 68 Sunday, and first-round leader Hale Irwin finished at four-over 288 to earn $13,000 apiece.

Player was just one shot back of North as the final round started, but he blew to a 77. "It was the first bad putting round I've had this year," said Player, who was seeking to become only the second golfer to win all of the major tournaments twice. As the Masters champion, he also was hoping to keep his hopes of a Grand Slam alive.

Two-time Open champion Lee Trevino, Ray Floyd, Mike McCullough and Joe Inman were at 291. Jerry Pate, the 1976 titlist, and Severiano Ballesteros of Spain were among those at 292.

TITLE-SAVING SHOT from bunker in front of 18th green is made by Andy North during Sunday's final round of U.S. Open golf tournament. Staggering in closing stages, North got bzll about five feet from cup and made putt for bogey to salvage one-stroke victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Athletics End Losing Streak

Victoria Athletics picked up their first win in eight starts by tripping Saanich Metro Honda 17-13 in South Island Senior "B" Lacrosse League action Sunday night at Pearkes Arena.

In another game, second-place Hampton Park Hustlers upset league-leading Esquimalt Universal Sheet Metal, 11-7.

The results left Esquimalt with a 7-1 record followed by Hustlers (6-2), Saanich (2-6) and Athletics (1-7).

Junior-recruit Dwayne Ferguson set the pace for Athletics with four goals and three assists while Bill Marechek had three goals and four assists. Double tallies were added by Forrest Owens, another junior who also had three assists, Al Unwin and John McArthur.

Joe Kolic, Rick Green, Ron George, Bill Van Buskirk and Jerry Bell each scored twice for Saanich.

Hustlers were sparked by a five-goal effort from Mike Yager. Mike Beaulac added two goals and two assists and Tom Somner was one-and-two.

Timbermen Crushed After Bouncing Rocks

Two games in two days may have been a bit too much for Nanaimo Timbermen. If so, the scheduling and New Westminster Salmonbellies combined Sunday to deprive the T-Men of undisputed possession of first place in the Western Lacrosse Association.

With the combination of Kevin Alexander and Brian Evans executing brilliantly on offense and leading the way, the Timbermen scored an exciting 12-10 home-floor victory over the Shamrocks on Saturday.

The win moved T-Men to within one point of the front-running Rocks and Nanaimo returned to the Civic Arena floor on Sunday with hopes of displacing Victoria.

Trouble was, New Westminster didn't co-operate.

With 13 Salmonbellies getting into the scoring act, Westminster demolished the hopeful Timbermen 21-12.

Ken King scored four times for Nanaimo while Alexander pumped in three as the Timbermen were consistently thwarted by the sharp netminding of Jim Greenwell.

The Alexander-Evans combination cooled the Shamrocks. Alexander scored six goals, including three while his team was shorthanded. Evans highlighted Nanaimo's attack with pin-point passing that produced nine assists.

It was the fourth meeting of the season between the Vancouver Island rivals, and by far the most entertaining matchup. Both have won their two home games.

Shamrocks trailed 8-3 at one stage but rammed in seven straight goals to move ahead, 10-8. But that burst seemed to drain Victoria's attacking energy and teh Shamrocks failed to scored a goal in the last 15 minutes of play.

In another game Saturday at Coquitlam, the Adanacs were hit with 38 penalty minutes in the final frame as they lost 14-9 to Vancouver Burrards. Adanacs' manager Sohen Gill said he and coach Bob Scott would complain about the officiating to commissioner Roy Burton after Coquitlam was handed 81 of the game's 126 penalty minutes.

The game had been close — with Vancouver leading 5-3 after the first period and 8-6 after the second — until five penalties were called against Coquitlam players at the same time, leaving three Adanacs facing six Burrards.

Randy's Bat Batters Rads

Randy Johnson came back to haunt Capital Radiators on Sunday.

Traded to Greaves Movers by Caps a week ago for a 1979 draft choice, Johnson batted in two runs in each game to lead Greaves to 4-3 and 7-4 decisions over his former clubmates in a Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League doubleheader at Lambrick Park.

The two wins moved Greaves into a tie with Caps for third place.

Greaves scored two runs in the seventh inning to collect the opening 4-3 decision. Johnson singled in winning-pitcher Lorne Halme for the first run and Bob Jarvis scored what proved to be the winning tally on an error.

Halme struck out four batters and yielded three walks while pitching a one-hitter and boosting his record to 3-2.

Most of the opposing batters were held to infield grounders.

Johnson, Ron Arcuri and Dave Piercy led Greaves with two hits in four trips to the plate.

In the second contest, Johnson and Jarvis led batting with one-in-three performances. Johnson singled in both of his runs and Jarvis singled in another during the five-run fifth inning

Kendrew Leads Westwood Race

PORT COQUITLAM — Six drivers from the Victoria Motor Sports Club placed well up in an International Conference of Sports Car Clubs event at nearby Westwood race course Sunday.

John Kendrew finished first and clubmate John Erith finished second in the "D" improved sedan class during the Improved Production race. Both were driving Mini-Cooper "S" machines.

Bill Okell chalked up a second and Dave Powell was third in "E" production during the Production Sports Car race. Both drive MGB's. Mike Hawthorne was third in "B" production sedans in the same race.

Aoki in Front By Five Shots

TOKYO (AP) — Veteran pro Isao Aoki of Japan shot a final-round 72 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 278 and a five-stroke victory in the $116,000 Sapporo Tokyu golf tournament.

It was the third victory of the year and the 22nd career triumph for the 35-year-old Aoki. His first prize of $22,255 raised his earnings for the year to $136,418.

Hsieh Yung-Yo of Taiwan also matched par 72 over the Sapporo International Country Club course and finished second at 283. Masashi (Jumbo) Ozaki, Japan's leading money winner last year, was far back at 292.

Discard Clips Caps With Overtime Goal

By The Canadian Press

Former Vancouver Whitecap Marco Vujkovic scored at 9:37 into overtime to give Toronto Croatia-Metros a 1-0 North American Soccer League win over the Whitecaps Saturday in Vancouver's Empire Stadium.

The loss, only Vancouver's second of the season at home, came before 15,661 fans—the largest turnout of the year in Vancouver.

The lone goal was the result of a three-way play with Ivan Ferreira passing to Vanco Balevski. Baleveski split the Whitecap defence with his lead to Vujkovic who slid a low shot past sprawling Vancouver goaltender Phil Parkes.

Toronto took 32 fouls to Vancouver's 20 in the game which saw seven cautions handed out. The Whitecaps outshot Toronto 23-12.

Vancouver native Brian Budd, who scored five goals in his first two games for Toronto, played the whole game but managed only one shot from about 17 yards out as Vancouver defender John Craven held him at bay.

Giorgio Chinaglia recorded his third three-goal game of the season Sunday to lead New York Cosmos in a 6-1 win over Washington Diplomats 6-1. Chinaglia leads the league scoring with 20 goals and now has surpassed his own club record of 19 goals set last year.

In other NASL games Sunday Chicago Sting beat Detroit Express 2-0 and Colorado Caribous defeated Houston Hurricane 3-1.

Another three-point effort—two goals and an assist—was recorded by Sead Susic of Colorado as the Caribous beat Houston. Susic had been on the disabled list for several weeks with a groin injury before Sunday's game.

THE SOFTBALL SCENE

Seaboard Tops In Tournament

It was all quiet on the home front but Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League teams managed to make some noise out of town.

The league's Central Park headquarters fell silent at the weekend because three teams participated in an eight-team invitational tournament at Campbell River. In the only league activity, host Port Angeles Telecable scored a 6-3 victory over Ingraham Hotel but the Victoria squad rebounded to win the second game 4-1 in nine innings Saturday.

Seaboard Construction, sparked by the pitching of Randy Jackson and Barry Wilkin, defeated Sooke Merchants 2-0 to capture top honors in the Campbell River tournament.

Jackson, who handled chores in the final, was voted the tournament's top hurler while Wilkin captured most-valuable-player honors to grab invididual honors for unbeaten Seaboard.

Sooke, beaten 5-0 by Wilkin in the third round, came back through the losers' side and earned a second chance at Seaboard by deeating Port Alberni Athletics 3-0 behind Wayne Stolth's pitching. Alberni finished third while Victoria Athletics, the McGinnis League's other entry, took fourth place.

In an exhibition game at Central Park on Sunday, Captial Builders of the Heywood League defeated Elks of the McGinnis League 6-5.

And in league play at Heywood, all the noise seemed to come in one inning when Hygrade scored 16 runs in the sixth inning to bury Taylor House Movers 22-7. Taylors salvaged some respect in a second game by defeating Hygrade 4-1 behind the pitching of Pete Devanna.

Hygrade banged out seven hits but also cashed in on five errors and five walks. Chris James connected for three homers and a double while driving in seven runs and scoring five for the winners.

Crusaders In Final

Oak Bay Crusaders came from behind in the final half Sunday to top Cowichan Patriots 32-14 in a Vancouver Island Junior Bantam Football League playoff semi-final at Cedar Hill Park.

Crusaders now advance to the final against Saanich Hornets next Sunday at 1 p.m. at the same site.

Clay Kirby set the pace for Crusaders, who trailed 14-8 at the half, with a touchdown and four two-point conversions. Mike Hutton, Johnny Johnston and Joe Richards each added one touchdown to the Oak Bay total.

Falko Heuser scored a touchdown and a two-point conversion to lead the Patriots while Gary Clarke scored the other TD.

Roxburgh Claims Vancouver Title

VANCOUVER (CP) — Doug Roxburgh carded an even-par 72 Sunday for a two-round total of 137 and a two-stroke victory over Marine Drive clubmate Steve Berry in the Vancouver amateur golf championship.

Roxburgh was six under par in Saturday's first round with a 65 at Fraserview while Berry had an opening 66 but was one over par at 73 on the tougher Capilano course Sunday.

Johnny Russell was another two strokes back at 141 and Fred Kato, who fired a closing 71 in a round that included seven birdies, was next at 143. Kato was the only golfer to beat par Sunday.

A TITLE AND A TRIP CLAIMED BY BLAND

VANCOUVER — Jennifer Bland, who captured the women's singles title in the British Columbia closed clay court tennis championships here Sunday, has been selected to head up the Canadian junior team heading for a tour of Europe next weekend.

The European tour will include stopovers in Holland, Denmark and West Germany.

Bland collected the provincial crown by topping Jackie Menzies of West Vancouver 6-3, 7-5 after advancing with a 6-3, 6-4 win over Pam Hunter of Vancouver in the semi-finals.

In other finals, former Victorian Don McCormick bested Bob Bardsley 6-4, 6-4 in an all-Vancouver men's singles show; Bardsley and Bob Bettaver of Vancouver teamed up to defeat McCormick and Vic Rollins of Vancouver 6-2, 4-6, 6-4 in men's doubles; and Hunter and Natalie Rogers, also of West Vancouver, defeated Lee and Gayle Dobson of Vancouver 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 in the women's doubles.

Ol' Ron Still Lights Fires

By The Canadian Press

Football fans at pre-season games may be resigned to seeing untried rookies scrambling around trying to catch a job, but 17,510 fans at Regina were thankful they still had Ron Lancaster on Sunday.

Lancaster, the 39-year-old player-coach with Saskatchewan Roughriders, staged one of his familiar late-game rallies and, although the effort fell short, provided the kind of last-minute excitement fans have come to expect from the 15-year quarterback.

Roughriders were trailing 18-3 in the fourth quarter when Lancaster came off the bench to lead a touchdown drive capped by a seven-yard scoring pass to Joey Walters and a two-point conversion pass to Frank Russell.

Lancaster led another drive from his own nine-yard line and made it to the Hamilton 27 before Don Bowman intercepted to preserve a 18-11 victory for Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

In another Canadian Football League exhibition game, Edmonton Eskimos withstood a late Toronto rally to beat the Argonauts 26-14 on Saturday.

The pre-season schedule continues Tuesday with Calgary Stampeders visiting Montreal Alouettes. British Columbia Lions are at Ottawa on Wednesday.

Veteran Jimmy Jones directed the Hamilton offence and fired a pair of short touchdown passes to Kerry Smith.

Rookie quarterback Warren Moon, who led Washington State to victory in the last Rose Bowl game, had an impressive start at Edmonton, hitting split end Waddell Smith with two first-half touchdown passes to lead the Eskimos.

Veteran running back Jim Germany plunged over from one yard in the third quarter and Dave Cutler booted the converts, a single and a field goal to give Edmonton a 25-0 lead before the Argos started scoring.

Terry Metcalf, the million-dollar refugee from St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League, started earning his hefty contract with Toronto by running for two late touchdowns.

Strong Bowling Stops City's Under-15 Side

Vancouver topped Victoria by 30 runs in the annual Kyle Cup under-15 inter-city cricket competition Sunday at St. Michael's University School.

Vancouver batted first and ran up 74 all out as Ian Tait set the pace with 15 runs. Victoria-captain Andrew Gerard took three wickets for the loss of 12 runs while Geoff Porter toppled four for 37.

Victoria could only managed 44 against some fast and accurate Vancouver bowling. Mark Logan (8) and Simon Gough (7, not out) were the top Victoria batsmen.

In Victoria and District Association play the same day, Incogs tripped Oak Bay by eight wickets at Windsor Park, Castaways defeated Albion by five wickets at Beacon Hill Park and Cowichan downed Saanich by 30 runs at the University of Victoria.

Oak Bay batted first could only get 50 runs against the bowling of Dave Gladders (five for 21) and Rob Wilson (five for 25). Incogs then chalked up 51 for two with Mike Walsh scoring 22, not out, and John Wenman counting 16, not out.

Castaways scored 129 for five with Alec Porter (35), Tony Quarless (29) and Dave Auld (24, not out) setting the batting pace. Don Hughes Sr. (two for 23) and Elvin Carter (two for 27) were the top Albion bowlers.

Albion reached 128 all out with Mike Vaughan scoring 29 and Carter counting 29, not out. Alan Rees was the top bowler for Castaways with a three-for-16 performance.

Cowichan ran up 138 with Tim Lord and Malcolm Ringham each contributing 38. Dickie Wilson of Saanich took seven for 49.

Saanich replied with 108 as Mike Dodd set the pace at 52, not out. Howard Martin (three for 10) and Lord (three for 35) bowled strongly for Cowichan.

On Saturday, Jan Aten led Oak Bay to victory in the annual Albion six-a-side tournament at Beacon Hill Park.

Aten scored 146, not out, in his four innings — including 36 in the final — as Oak Bay defeated the host club by two runs.

Oak Bay reached the final by defeating Alcos by 27 runs while Albion nipped Incogs by five runs in the other semi-final.

Nancy Makes It Five To Shatter Records

NANCY LOPEZ
. . . richest-ever rookie

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Nancy Lopez surged past veteran Jane Blalock in a stirring duel Sunday to win her fifth consecutive tournament, unprecedented in the 28-year history of the Ladies Professional Golf Assocation.

The 21-year-old rookie shot a four-under-par 69 for a total of 214, five under for 54 holes on the 6,206-yard Locust Hill Country Club course.

Lopez made up five shots on 36-hole leader Blalock with a competitive women's record of four-under-par 32 on the front side. The two then battled down the stretch until Lopez rammed in a five-foot birdie putt on 17 to regain the lead. She two-putted from the fringe for a par on the 18th to finish with a two=shot margin over Blalock and Debbie Massey, whose 70 pulled her into a second-place tie.

Blalock, missing a 12-foot putt for a par on the last hole, fired a one-over 74 on the final round.

The triumph, worth $11,250, made Lopez the all-time rookie money winner in professional golf. She now has $153,336, $234 more than Jerry Pate accumulated on the men's tour in 1976.

It was her seventh victory this year and it pushed her money-winning total past $130,000 in 1978. Lopez started her rookie year late in the 1977 season.

The triumph broke a tie for the previous record of four consecutive victories, shared by Lopez, Mickey Wright, Kathy Whitworth and Shirley Englehorn.

Lopez fired four birdies during her torrid front nine to move into a two-shot lead over Blalock, bidding for her 20th tour win in 10 years.

The 32-year-old Blalock birdied 11 and pulled even when Lopez bogied 13. The two remained deadlocked on the warm, sunny day until Lopez' go-ahead birdie four holes later.

Alex Reinhardt shot 74 and was alone in fourth place at 218.

Pam Higgins, former-Canadian Sandra Post and Chako Higuchi of Japan shared fifth place at even-par 219. Higgins had a 70 and Post and Higuchi closed with 71s.

Great Rally by Knudson

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — George Knudson has played a lot of golf in Canada, the United States and all over the world, yet he claims the last nine holes he shot Sunday to win the Ontario Open were the best of his career.

The Toronto was under par on seven of his final 11 holes and scored a record-tying 67 over the long, tough St. Thomas course to finish at four-under 212.

He needed the strong finish after making a bad start in the 54-hole, $20,000 tournament with a 76 on Friday. He rallied with a 69 Saturday and started Sunday's final round three strokes off the pace.

Sunday's 67 tied the couse record set the day before by Rafe Botts of Los Angeles, who needed a hole-in-one to do it.

It was the fifth Ontario Open title for Knudson.

Two Victoria professionals, looking for exemptions into the Canadian Open next week which go to the two low Canadians in the Ontario event, failed to qualify for the final round.

The cutoff was 155. Both Cec Ferguson and southpaw Bob Beauchemin missed it by three strokes. Beauchemin had rounds of 82 and 72 while Ferguson was 75-83.

Mark Shushak of Thunder Bay, now playing out of Toronto, finished second with a 54-hole score of 215, one under par. He fired 71 Sunday.

There were three exemptions up for grabs for the Open. Both Knudson and Suschack had earned earlier exemptions.

Bob Allman of Brantford, Ont., and Herb Holzscheiter of Ashburn, Ont., took two of the exemptions while Paul Kennedy of Brampton and Greg Pidlaski of Mississauga, Ont., were tied for the third one. Kennedy won on the first extra hole of a playoff.

WHEELER QUARTET ON BICYCLE SQUAD

Four members of Victoria Wheelers are included on the list of 12 competitors selected to represent British Columbia in the Tour of Quebec six-day bicycle road race that starts next Sunday in Montreal.

Bernie Willock, Dave McLellen, Philip Quillevere and Michel Peron were named to the team by the B.C. Cycling Association.

Willock, McLellen and Peron finished fourth, fifth and seventh, repectively, in the senior 160 kilometre event at the B.C. championship Sunday in Vancouver.

Simnett, Moss Collect Titles

Tony Simnett, who was seeded second, upset defending-champion Peter Smythe, who was ranked first, 0-6, 6-1, 6-2 to win the men's singles title in the finals of the Oak Bay Tennis Club championship tournament Saturday.

Sandra Moss captured the women's singles crown by beating Valerie Brice 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 and partnered Damaris Hurley to a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Sally Hemeon and Wendy Cuppage in the women's doubles final.

Smythe and Marty Taylor combined to win the men's doubles title, defeating Neil Coutts and Scott Braley, 6-2, 6-3.

In the mixed doubles final, Hurley and Joe Lachmund topped Neil and Vicki Coutts, 6-1, 6-4.

Burnside Trio Earns Trophy

Rick Chandler, Leona Peterson and Jack Chandler of Burnside Lawn Bowling Club captured "A" division honors in the Findlay Trophy mixed triples competition Saturday by nipping Jack Carpenter, Ron Andrews and Florence Carpenter of Lakehill 19-18 in the final.

Hugh Harding, Dan Daniels and Vic Daniels of Gordon Head won the "B" division final, beating Jack McMillan, Jessie Kinneard and Marie Sage of Burnside by the same score.

In men's triples league play at Oak Bay, Ernie Hodkinson of the unaffiliated Independents tripped Harold Rote of Burnside 18-13 and teammate Jack Dean nudged Rollie Mercer of Burnside, 15-14.

Gordon Head club bowlers also picked up two wins as Hugh Harding dropped Ed Fraser of Lakehill 22-11 and Doug Day defeated Jack Carpenter of Lakehill, 18-7.

In other matches, Chuck Davies of Victoria downed Alex Thompson of Victoria West 18-15, George Allen of Vic West edged Roland Lacas of Victoria 20-19, Jack Baker of Canadian Pacific dropped John Wanstall of Oak Bay 17-7 and George McDonald of Oak Bay bumped Syd Smith of Canadian Pacific, 13-10.

Surgery Sidelines Mariner Player

BOSTON (AP) — Outfielder Rupert Jones of Seattle Mariners was reported in good condition Sunday after undergoing an appendectomy at Beaconess Hospital Saturday.

In 64 games this American Lezgue baseball season, Jones has a .256 batting average with three home runs and 23 runs batted in.

Aussie Takes Playoff

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Australian Jack Newton sank a 15-foot putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday to defeat Mike Sullivan and win the $20,000 first prize in a $100,000 Professional Golfers' Association tournament.

Newton, who was short on a 15-foot birdie try that could have won it on the last regular hole, got it right the second time for a birdie at the par-five, 598-yard 16th hole at Warwick Hills Country Club.

The victory was the first for the 28-year-old Newton on the PGA tour. It exempts him from the weekly qualifying for the other tour events during the next year.

He had earned only about $14,000 previously in two seasons on the PGA tour, having competed on the European circuit from 1971 through 1976.

Sullivan shot his third consecutive 69 to wind up in the tie with Newton, finishing with an eight-under-par tally of 280 for 72 holes over the 7,001-yard, par-72 layout. Newton shot a final-round 71.

Sullivan, 23, earned more money for second place ($11,400) than he made all last year on the tour, when he pocketed $11,170.

Jim Nelford of Burnaby, B.C., and first-round leader Barney Thompson wound up in a sixth-place tie, two strokes behind the co-leaders at 282.

CONTEH DEFEATED IN RUGGED BATTLE

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Mate Parlov of Yugoslavia scored a 15-round split decision over John Conteh of Britain and retained his World Boxing Association light-heavyweight boxing championship Saturday night. Parlov weighed 175 and Conteh 173.

The 30-year-old Parlov, fighting an exhausting bout, suffered a cut above his right eyebrow early in the match. The 27-year-old Conteh, a former world champion, proved to be a tough and skilled opponent.

Two of the three officials gave Parlov the verdict in the open-air match that was fought in the Red Star soccer stadium before a crowd of more than 40,000 fans, who wildly cheered Parlov.

Conteh forced the fighting in close to prevent Parlov from landing his powerful punches. But Conteh several times was warned by the referee for head butting or hanging onto Parlov, who appeared to be bothered by his cut eyebrow.

Follow On Forced

LONDON (AP) — England held a firm grip on the second cricket test against Pakistan as play reumed at Lord's today.

In reply to England's first innings total of 364, the Pakistani tourists were skittled out for 105 before tea Saturday and forced to follow on.

The Pakistanis found no answer to the speed and accuracy of England fast bowler Bob Willis, who took five for 47, and Willis was superbly complemented by slow left-arm bowler Phil Edmonds, who finished with figures of four for six.

The only batsman to show any real fight was Mohsin Khan, who made a gutsy 31 and stood up to the pace of Willis before falling to Edmonds.

Earlier, England had built handsomely on the overnight total of 309 for eight.

Palmer, Guidry Sizzle

By The Associated Press

Baltimore Orioles have not been giving pitcher Jim Palmer much support lately but it's been enough to extend his winning streak to seven games.

The Orioles scored just two runs for the right-hander Sunday but he provided eight innings of four-hit pitching for a 2-1 American Baseball League win over Oakland A's.

"A typical 2-1 game," said Palmer, who has been given just 15 runs of support over the seven-game stretch. During the streak, five games have been decided by one run, including three by 1-0 scores.

Sunday's win was Baltimore's 18th in the last 20 games. Since Palmer began his streak on May 20, the Orioles are 24-6 and now are in second place in the AL's Eastern Division.

Palmer, a three-time Cy Young Award winner in the American League, has given up just three earned runs in his last 67 1-3 innings. He gave up one Sunday when rookie Dave Revering cracked his seventh homer of the season in the seventh.

Baltimore's win, combined with New York's 3-2 loss to California, dropped the Yankees to third and moved the Orioles a game closer to first-place Red Sox, who saw their nine-game winning streak snapped by Seattle Mariners' 3-2 victory.

Elsewhere, Minnesota Twins beat Detroit Tigers 8-4, Texas Rangers beat Toronto Blue Jays 3-2, Cleveland Indians beat Milwaukee Brewers 3-0 before losing 4-1 in the nightcap of their double-header, and Kansas City Royals edged Chicago White Sox 3-2 in 11 innings before the Sox routed the Royals 11-0 in the nightcap.

In the National, San Francisco Giants, the West Division leaders, were two games in front of Cincinnati Reds after Sunday's double-header sweep of New York Mets, 3-0 and 4-3 in 10 innings. The Reds scored their fifth straight victory with a 4-2 decison over St. Louis Cardinals.

Elsewhere, Don Sutton pitched a six-hitter to Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Montreal Expos 5-0, San Diego Padres beat Philadelphia Phillies 4-1, Atlanta Braves edged Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7 and Houston Astros beat Chicago Cubs 3-1.

Seattle's Bob Robertson doubled home Bill Stein in the sixth to break a 1-1 tie and Stein made it 3-1 in the eighth, helping the Mariners snap a 10-game losing streak and hand the Red Sox their first home loss to a West Division team after 16 victories.

Unbeaten Ron Guidry was the sparkling performer Saturday. He set a New York club record of 18 strikeouts and notched his 11th consecutive victory with a four-hitter in pitching the Yankees to a 4-0 victory over California Angels. The 27-year-old left-hander fanned every California starter at least once in erasing the Yankee record of 15 set by Bob Shawkey in 1919 and matched by Whitey Ford in a 1959 extra-inning game.

The victory made Guidry the first 11-game winner in the American League this season ana tied him with Montreal's Ross Grimsley, another 11-game winner. The slender southpaw lowered his earned-run average to 1.45, best in the majors, with his second consecutive shutout.

FLIN FLON'S BID REJECTED

REGINA (CP) — Flin Flon Bombers' application to join the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League was turned down at the league's annual meeting at the weekend. Flin Flon needed a two-thirds majority approval from the 11 teams but gained only two votes in their support. The Bombers, dropped from the Western Canada League after the 1977-78 season, also have been turned down by the Manitoba Junior League. A remaining hope is competition in a Manitoba junior B league next season. Most SJHL owners cited travel problems as Flin Flon's greatest drawback.

Over Burden One Of 'Good Things'

Over Burden's solid victory in Saturday's feature race at Sandown Park put money in Harold Moffat's pocket and also pointed out that harnessmen don't mind taking cash out of their pockets to spend on "a good thing."

In addition to the four-year-old Over Burden, the "good thing" to come to Sandown Park seems to be the 1,000 tons of crushed limestone that was added to the racing surfance on June 8.

Owners, trainers and drivers weren't overly pleased with the times being recorded over the original dirt surface. The best time for a mile pace was the two minutes, 5 2/5 seconds recorded by Dusty Tex on June 7. Ironically, that was the day Sandown Raceway officials approved the limestone surface.

Before the new surface was laid on, times for the mile rarely bettered 2:10. Last week, as the limestone began to pack in properly, times improved noticeably. On Friday, four horses were timed under 2:10 and two others just missed on a 10-race card.

Flame Comet (2:09), Quiet Majority (2:09 1/5), Butternut J (2:08 3/5), Irish Stadt (2:06 3/5), Andys Adam (2:06 2/5) and Antique Adios (2:07) all won races under the 2:10 mark.

Seven out of 10, and Sandown Raceway president Jim Keeling, Sr., fully expects the times to continue improving as the track becomes seasoned.

Cost of the limestone was $8,000 and owners agreed to share in the cost.

Including Moffat, the mayor of Prince George who owns Over Burden and appreciated the record run by his pacer.

Driven smartly by trainer Jim Mohorich on Saturday, Over Burden now has won four of his six starts this year. Not raced as a two-year-old, Over Burden scored five victories, placed four times and finished third three times in 13 starts last year.

BRIEFLY: Saturday's attendance (1,486) was up over the corresponding day the previous week but mutuel play ($81,799) was down by about $3,000. . .It's the first time in nine days that a decrease has been recorded. . .Biggest payoff of the day came in the second race when Mark Dominion and Leaders Direct produced an exactor payoff of $229.40. . . .Dave Jungquist drove Stop Watch and Butternut J to victory to maintain his hold on the driving lead. . .Jungquist has nine victories to his credit and has been second 10 times. . .Joe Hudon has eight victories while Willie Urquhart and Don Bell both have seven.

'Cool' Victory for Niki

NIKI LAUDA
. . . first win of season

ANDERSTORP, Sweden (Reuter) — Reigning world champion Niki Lauda of Austria steered his red-and-blue Brabham to a comfortable victory in the Swedish Grand Prix Saturday for his first championship win of the season.

Lauda moved up quickly from third place to trail Mario Andretti of the United States, who held the pole position.

Andretti's Lotus 79 had surged into the lead from the start and Lauda was almost two seconds behind in the opening laps.

But Lauda would not be shaken off and nursed his car, equipped with a disputed new cooling fan, behind Andretti, the current world championship leader.

On the 38th lap Lauda made a successful bid for the lead, passing the American on the north bend, and a few laps later a cloud of steam and smoke poured from Andretti's car near the starting corner, forcing him out of the race.

From then on there was no one to seriously challenge Lauda and the focus of the 70-lap race switched to the fight for second place between Riccardo Patrese of Italy in an Arrow Ford and Andretti's Lotus team-mate, Ronnie Peterson of Sweden.

Patrese finished some 31 seconds behind the winner. Lauda, who needed one hour and 41 minutes to complete the race, had an average speed of 104.2 miles an hour.

Peterson, runner-up to Andretti in the last two Grand Prix races, made a remarkable recovery after an early pit stop had left him well down the field.

He pushed his gold-trimmed black Lotus through the field, but could not get past the determined young Italian.

Patrick Tambay of France, in a McLaren, finished fourth and Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland, driving a Shadow, was fifth. Brazilian Emerson Fittipaldi was sixth in his Copersucar.

The flame-red Ferraris, expected to pose a more serious challenge, finished a lap behind the leaders. Gilles Villeneuve of Berthierville, Que., placed ninth while the No. 1 Ferrari driver, Carlos Reutemann of Argentina, was 10th.

After the race Lauda was full of praise for the special and controversial rear-mounted fan on his car.

"The fan was there to cool the engine and it was wonderfully cool the whole time," he said.

VICTORIANS WIN OPENER

Victoria grabbed the lead in a two-game, total-goals Oldtimers' soccer competition by bouncing Vancouver 3-1 in the opening match Saturday at the University of Victoria.

Derby Trailer Wins Thistledown Sizzler

Times News Services

Special Honor outdueled Battonier in the stretch to win the $150,000 Ohio Derby Sunday by a half length and pay $203.20.

Believe It, the favorite ridden by Steve Cauthen, the jockey of Triple Crown champion Affirmed, finished sixth in the field of 10 three-year-olds at Thistledown in Cleveland.

The stunning victory for Special Honor, last in the Kentucky Derby and fifth in the Illinois Derby, which was won by Batonnier, was accomplished in a track record time of 1:47 4-5 for the 1⅛ miles. The old mark of 1:48 was set by Find in the 1953 Ohio Derby.

Special Honor, which carried 115 pounds, including Bobby Breen, and Battonier, 122, ridden by 16-year-old apprentice Ron Hirdes, pulled away from the pack midway in the stretch and dueled to the wire, with Special Honor coming away with his fourth—and by far the biggest—victory in 13 starts this year.

The place and show prices on the winner were $150.80 and $31.

The crowd of 19,411 broke the Derby record of 17,120 and the all-time Cleveland mark of 18,583 at Randall Park in 1953.

At Boston, Big John Taylor, a stablemate of 1977 Triple Crown winner Seattle Slew, jumped to a quick lead and never looked back Sunday in winning the 44th running of the $112,000 Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

Ridden by Jacinto Vasquez, the four-year-old colt opened daylight as early as the first turn on the field of nine, pulled away down the backstretch and held off late stretch challenges by Canadian-bred Giboulee and favored Buckfinder, completing 1⅛ miles on a fast track in 1:48 3-5.

Owned by Karen and Mickey Taylor and Dr. and Mrs. Jim Hill, and trained by Doug Peterson—the same group that brought Seattle Slew to racing glory—Big John Taylor turned for home with a 3½-length lead.

Two Bowls of Rice Takes Sun Handicap

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Bowls of Rice captured his second stakes victory of the season Saturday at Exhibition Park, coming from off the pace to win the $16,500-added Sun Handicap.

The four-year-old colt, ridden by Sam Krasner, moved from third at the top of the stretch to overhaul Alberta Green and Detrimental and win by three-quarters of a length.

The winning time over 1 1-16 miles on the fast track was 1:45.

Two Bowls Of Rice, fourth choice in the field of six betting interests, paid $11.80, $4.20 and $2.80. Second-choice Detrimental paid $3.60 and $2.90, while Alberta Green—part of a Harold Barroby entry with Pampas Host—was three lengths further back and paid $2.60.

Donna Trims Sprint Marks

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuter) — Donna Hartley, already highly rated as a 400-metres runner, emerged as a favorite for a second Commonwealth Games gold medal with a stunning 200-metres win at the British women's Commonwealth Games trials.

The 23-year-old bank clerk trimmed the British all-comers and national records by six-hundredths of a second in returning 22.75 seconds following three months of treatment for a back injury.

It took her to the top of the Commonwealth rankings and made her the third fastest over the distance in the world this year. Although she was helped by a following wind it was still well inside the legal limit.

PAPER PLANES OFF TARGET

More than 6,000 people showed up for the first World Indoor Paper Airplane Championships and tried to throw home-made paper planes through the sunroof of a car parked on the floor of Seattle's Kingdome.

The unusual contest Sunday was a benefit for local Boys' Clubs and Girls' Clubs. Admission was free, but airplanes had to be made from official paper, sold at five sheets for $1.

Contestants wrote their names and ages on the planes, so they could be identified, and launched them from third-level seats. The projectiles hit tires and fenders, but no bull's-eye.

The 12 planes that came closest to the sunroof were selected for a fly-off. The winner was Boeing engineer Steve Monks, 24, whose plane floated 255 feet. He won a plaque.

DENVER — Investigator Rick Brady has a problem tracking down a shapely young woman who used a stolen, forged credit card to buy about $700 worth of gourmet foods and liquor.

Brady said she would enter a store wearing a scanty bikini, approach a male clerk, pull the card from the bikini top and sign for the merchandise.

"I'd go into a store and the clerks would remember her," Brady said. "But all they could describe was the bikini. No one remembered her face."

HONG KONG — Sir Dingle Foot, a member of one of Britain's leading political families, died after collapsing in the room of his Hong Kong hotel Sunday night, police reported today. He was 73.

MILLVILLE, N.J. — Funeral services were held during the weekend for a 26-year-old man who gained more than 500 pounds after a farming accident four years ago despite a meager diet under the supervision of doctors.

HEARST
. . . wedding bells

Mystified doctors there said he had continued to gain weight at the hospital despite a meager, 800 calorie-a-day diet that contained no salt, sugar or bread.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Singer-songwriter Tom T. Hall has been named headline performer for the fourth annual Truck Drivers Country Music Awards Show on Sept. 9 in Kansas City, Mo.

Comedian Charlie Farquharson of Hee Haw and singer Charley McClain also will perform during the show.

TEL AVIV, Israel — Israel sent a flaming salute to newlyweds King Hussein of Jordan and his U.S.-born queen, the former Lisa Halaby.

Saturday night, residents of the Israeli resort town of Eilat lit a huge sign along the shoreline. In English it read: "Congratulations to the royal couple, from the city of Eilat."

NEW YORK — Patricia Hearst, who returned to prison last month to finish serving a seven-year bank robbery sentence, plans to marry a former bodyguard, Newsweek magazine says.

The magazine said Miss Hearst, 24, plans to marry Bernard Shaw, 30, who the magazine identified as a San Francisco policeman who "moonlighted as a private bodyguard for the newspaper heiress while she was free on bond for 18 months."

MOSCOW — President Leonid Brezhnev kissed Muhammad Ali on both cheeks today and apologized for Moscow's rainy weather.

"This is the biggest honor I've ever had in my life," said the former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, almost speechless at his meeting with the 71-year-old Soviet leader.

It was believed the first time that Brezhnev has met with a U.S. sports figure at the Kremlin. The president rarely grants audiences to people outside the political or business world.

Senate Revamp Proposal Stirs up Senators, MPs

OTTAWA (FP) — A complete transformation of the senate into the House of Federation, including the number of appointments the length of the terms of members and the powers of that body, is contained in the constitutional reform bill expected to be presented to parliament Tuesday.

Provisions of the proposed legislation have stirred up controversy among senators as details have been privately outlined to them. Also, more than one Liberal member of Parliament is upset because the details as they understand it would leave Liberal members of the upper house in the minority when confronted with the combined Progressive Conservative, New Democratic Party and Social Credit groups in the new house.

The four western provinces would get a larger representation in the upper chamber. Each of the four western provinces now is entitled to six senators.

Under the proposed change, informed sources said, Manitoba would be entitled to eight appointees, Saskatchewan eight, Alberta 10 and British Columbia 10. Total membership in the house is expected to be 118.

It is understood there will be 30 members from the Maritime provinces including Newfoundland as at present, there would be 24 from Ontario and the same number from Quebec as at present. The western provinces would be entitled to 36 appointments and there would be members from the Yukon and from the North West Territories.

The Commons and the legislatures would apparently appoint the new members to the House of Federation. The suggestion is that they would be appointed for the life of their respective governments that is for a four or five year term. However senators were reluctant to discuss the details of the proposed legislation as outlined to them, indicating they hoped there would be some changes made in the measure before it appeared in parliament.

Some senators have made suggestions for changes but whether the cabinet would make such alterations remains to be seen.

Final Sprint Ahead- Rene

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — Premier Rene Levesque called on members of the Parti Quebecois on Saturday to fully prepare themselves for "the final sprint" towards the referendum on independence.

Addressing the opening meeting of the PQ national council here, Levesque said the members cannot afford to make any mistakes in the few months which remain before the referendum.

"From now until the end of 1978 or 1979, we are all bound to work and fully prepare ourselves in anticipation of the final sprint, and it is these few months which will tell us if we're going to win or lose the referendum," he said.

"We do not have thr right to neglect what was to be done, because if we do, we will not forgive ourselves for the rest of our days."

The premier added that it will be "criminal" if the party is forced to improvise its referendum strategy at the last minute.

Meanwhile, Levesque announced that his cabinet will meet in total isolation next Aug. 24 to Aug. 26 to draw up the broad guidelines of the PQ's referendum strategy.

However, Levesque would not say where the meeting will be held.

A national caucus of party delegates will also meet on Sept. 14 and 15 to evaluate and determine their regional priorities. That meeting will probably be held at Thetford Mines, 180 kilometres east of Montreal.

Levesque called on party members to reflect on how Quebecers can best be won over to the idea of sovereignty-association during the summer.

In his opening remarks to the national council, Levesque admitted that being in power has not been easy.

"Its frightful how easy power appears when seen from the perspective of the Opposition," he said. He emphasized that party members must show maturity, balance and solid judgment in the secnd half of the present mandate of the PQ government.

The premier said the difficulties of exercising power become more arduous when militants of the party adopt positions which are irreconcilable with the duties and obligations of the government.

Nurse Talks Cut

SASKATOON (CP) — The provincial government has appointed a conciliator to mediate the stalled contract talks between The Saskatchewan Union of Nurses and the Saskatchewan Health Care Assocaiton.

Stan Williams, a department of labor official, will begin the conciliation procedure within the next two days.

Negotiations broke down at 3:30 a.m. Saturday, with an impasse on the issue of salary spread between nurses and certified nursing assistants. The CNAs won a raise last year, closing the gap, and the nurses' union wants an increase which would restore the spread.

Education Lacking

ST. JOHN'S, Nlld. (CP) — Newfoundlanders are being told they are undereducated in the main and not in the running for certain jobs.

Recent studies and statistics show:

—Close to 50 per cent of all Newfoundlanders over the age of 15 have less than a Grade 9 education.

—More than 30 per cent of employed Newfoundlanders have an elementary level of education, compared with 18.5 per cent for Canada as a whole.

—The percentage of employed Newfoundlanders with a high-school education of better is 69 per cent compared with the national average of 81.5 per cent.

DELAY URGED

OTTAWA (CP) — The government should not introduce legislation on constitutional change until the provinces have been allowed some input, says Flora MacDonald, the Progressive Conservatives' constitutional critic.

In a weekend interview with CTV, Miss MacDonald said it is premature for the government to introduce legislation opening the door for constitutional change. The bill will come a week after Prime Minister Trudeau tabled a discussion paper in the Commons on the subject.

Miss MacDonald (Kingston and the Islands) said the paper should have been more detailed and should not be followed by legislation for several months, so that the provinces can have time to consider the suggestions and offer some of their own at a planned conference in September.

POPLARS REPLACE HEATING OIL

SASKATOON (CP) — Researchers at University of Saskatchewan have come up with a possible substitute for bunker C heating oil — chemically processed aspen poplar.

The main advantage is that aspen poplar is a renewable resource available in Western Canada in abundance, say Professors R. E. Eager, J. M. Pepper and J. F. Matthews of the university's chemistry and chemical engineering department.

A chemical process converts the wood into a heavy black liquid that resembles bunker C, minus the pollution-contributant sulphur bunker C often contains.

The researchers suggest the liquid might be used as a substitute for bunker C if an economically feasible method of production can be devised.

Eastern Supply Problems Rankle B.C. Steel Buyers

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia steel purchasers say they are not getting enough domestically-made steel products from Eastern Canada, forcing some fabricators to stall starting dates of contracts.

"Things have really tightened up since early April," said Julius Bekei, president of Zenith Steel. "We've been told the earliest we could have steel plate is in September."

Gordon Ward-Hall of Canron reported deliveries are taking about twice their normal time of six to eight weeks. His company, a regular customer of the Eastern mills, is getting steady supplies but others are really "feeling the crunch," he said.

The shortage of steel products adds to the province's problem in getting wide-flange steel, the H-shaped beams used in construction.

B.C., Alberta, Newfoundland the Yukon are exempt from a 30-per-cent duty Ottawa placed on foreign wide-flange earlier this year but fabricators here report countries that traditionally supply B.C. with structural steel now are reluctant to do business because of concern about retroactive penalties later on.

B.C. firms also claim that because of freight rates, domestic steel is too expensive so they buy imported products.

Algoma Steel Corp. the only Canadian firm that makes wide-flange steel, says its markets need protection against import dumping into Canada.

It has made some attempts to overcome the West's problems of high rail costs. Two loads of Algoma steel have come by water through the Panama Canal, at about half rail cost.

MP Ron Huntington (PC—Capilano) said in Ottawa that Algoma can only supply B.C. with a fraction of its needs. Huntington said that regional dumping duty system should be established.

Huntington and the B.C. government want cabinet to impose a nominal duty here of one-to-three per cent on imported structural beams until the duty can be lifted permanently.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien said the government is looking into B.C.'s request for extending the duty suspension.

The other main manufacturers of steel products in Canada are Dominion Foundry and Steel Co. and Steel Co. of Canada.

It May Be the Pits But B-15 Sales Hot

VANCOUVER (CP) — City health food stores report burgeoning sales of pangamic acid, a new food supplement, even though the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has resorted to court action to ban its sale.

The acid, an extract of the apricot pit, has not been approved as a drug or a vitamin by health authorities in Canada and the United States.

"It is an illegal substance without any evidence of safety," Ellen Miller, FDA consumer affairs officer, said in an interview. "We're trying to gte it off the shelves."

The FDA is waiting for a Federal Court decision on whether pangamic acid will have legal clearance as a food additive or a drug substance.

"Pangamic acid, otherwise known as vitamin B-15, is not a vitamin in the strict sense of the world," said Jim Gilmore, of the British Columbia Medical Association. "It has not been proved to be an essential dietary requirement whose absence would lead to disease."

"I've never seen anything like it," said Leslie Davies, an employee of the Prince Health Food Centre here. "An incredible number of people have been buying pangamic acid since we got hold of it about two months ago."

Dr. Ganga Pandley, a vice-president of a Penticton-based company that produces pangamic acid, said one tablet should be taken daily as a food supplement for maintenance of good health.

"We don't claim that it is an anti-cancer drug or anything like this, but we recommend it as a preventive food supplement. "I have been taking one tablet of pangamic acid every day for the past six months, and I can feel the difference."

Pandley estimated 40 to 50 health food stores in Vancouver are selling the product.

Stephen Kripps, a Vancouver pharmacist, said pangamic acid is a naturally occurring substance which replaces fatigue with energy.

"I have never heard of any toxic effects from pangamic acid," he said. "Don't forget, even water can be unhealthy if consumed in excess."

COST REVEALED

BREST, France (Reuter) — The bill for cleaning up the Breton coast after the Amoco-Cadiz oil tanker disaster has reached 345-million francs ($75 million), government officials say. More than 220,000 tons of crude oil spilled into the sea March 16 when the tanker ran aground and broke up. About 350 kilometres of coastline were polluted.

Changing house from nothing to "something"

HOUSE HOPELESS? NO SUCH THING

By PAULINE GRAVES

No house is hopeless. If a house has too much trim, off it can come. Room proportions can be changed by removing or adding walls, or even with just colors. And architectural details, such as molding and ceiling beams can change the house style from traditional to provincial or just the opposite.

Shown here is a house that originally was understated traditional, a real nothing, a square fireplace opening outlined with brick, and with floor-to-ceiling bookcases on each side. But now, designed by Don Woodruff, the fireplace wall is distinctively contemporary, proportioned in relation to the room.

After the ripping off of the brick and the bookcases, the fireplace shape was changed from a square to a horizontal rectangle by adding wallboard to the wall above the opening, the bottom edge of the wallboard covering the top several inches of the opening. Two-by-four's sandwiched between 1"x2"s and 1"x7"s, extend from floor to ceiling on each side and conceal the wallboard edges, a nice framing device.

Because horizontal lines help make a room seem larger, oak cabinets installed the length of the wall on the right continue the height of the fireplace opening. But for some contrast, upright 1"x12"s travel to within 18 inches of the ceiling, finished off there with a horizontal 1"x12". The original intent was to put glass shelves between these uprights, but this idea was discarded in favor of a clean, uncluttered look.

Hospital Provides one 'Last Fling'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jewish Hospital is pampering new mothers and fathers with a catered dinner, champagne and candlelight the night before they go home with their baby.

"It's sort of a last fling before they go home to new responsibilities," said Judith Bogart of the hospital's public relations department. "Most of them are going to be too busy to eat out for a while, anyway."

The hospital's catering department is offering a choice of either coq au vin, chops or steak, a vegetable, salad, pie, and a split of champagne. The dinner for two is $8.

Hospital officials began offering the special maternity meal last month and, by the end of this month, also plan to begin offering gourmet meals to other patients on regular diets.

"After taking a survey, we decided that some patients would be willing to pay a little extra money for different kinds of food, particularly if they are in for a while," Mrs. Bogart said.

"Some of them said they were just dying for a steak."

June Patent Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many inventions that created new industries and new ways of life were patented in June, a study by Intellectual Property Owners Inc. shows.

Trial Course Mixes Ages

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A group of students in the Grade 13 family studies class sat on a blanket, munching peanut-butter sandwiches and fresh fruit. Two students rode by on tricycles.

The students, who had planned to go to the zoo but instead had an indoor picnic because of rain, were not teen-agers who had regressed to childhood. They were senior high-school students enrolled in the class and children who will be starting kindergarten in September.

The 19 children need extra help in making the adjustment to school from home and their 19 older classmates are providing that aid as part of the family studies course at Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate.

This is the first term for the course and the provincial education ministry has given the course two years to prove its worth. The senior students spent the first half of the term studying in the classroom and then teamed up with the children.

Rod MacInnis, one of two male high-school students in the course, said he was interested in the course because he likes children and thought the course would help him if he marries and becomes a father.

Rod, who was hammering nails through two pieces of wood with his five-year-old friend Greg, said teaching children is harder than he expected.

"They don't always do what you want, they lose interest fast."

Supervisors of the program are Helenmaria Ruge, who teaches the family studies course, and kindergarten teacher Bonnie Rands, who says it is impossible to tell which group of students is benefiting more from the program.

Common ¢ents

By KATE MacQUEEN

It's that time of year when home economists must remind home canners not to use jars that held mayonnaise, pickles or peanut butter. These jars can't take the high temperatures necessary in home canning and break more easily than heat-tempered canning jars. The mayonnaise (etc.) jars are also less likely to seal properly, causing home-canned food to spoil quickly.

★ ★ ★

You've read before that you shouldn't use lumpy dishwasher detergent in the dishwasher because it has lost some of its cleaning power due to moisture from the kitchen. Well, also don't put the detergent into the dishwasher's dispenser or onto the door until you're ready to do the dishes. The detergent can draw moisture there, too.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I am worrying needlessly, but I can't help it. Our daughter will be a freshman this fall at a coed university halfway across the continent. It's considered to be a fine school, but I understand there is practically no supervision. I mean, the students stay in dormitories, and there is a dean of women to talk to, but the hours are very liberal. Students can "sign out" for weekends, and with so many freshman girls, ours will get no special looking after.

We've never had any trouble with our daughter, but with all we hear about premarital sex in colleges, we are concerned.

Shouldn't the colleges try to discipline the freshman girls a little more strictly? After all, it is the first time many of them have ever been away from home—CONCERNED.

DEAR CONCERNED: By the time a girl goes to college, her moral code is well established, and what she didn't learn at home and in church, she will not learn from the dean of women. It's time parents realized that even more important to college students than "supervision" is a good, sound moral grounding during their impressionable years at home.

Educators cannot be expected to "police" the morals of college students beyond the general rules that apply to society as a whole.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a recently retired gent who's dating a nice gal in her mid-50s. Being retired, I have a limited income.

We go out for dinner every Saturday night, and once in a while during the week we go out for lunch. My lady very much wants to chip in to pay for the meals, drinks, etc.

I can't see it. I told her that when it gets to the point where I can't afford to pick up the tab for both of us, we just won't go anywhere. She says she does't see anything wrong with her picking up the tab once in a while.

Am I right or is she?—CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED: She's right. Surrender, dear.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nearly a year to a man who had been divorced for three years before I met him. He does something that drives me up a wall, and I have trouble controlling my hurt and anger when he does it. He still refers to his x-wife as "my wife." (They were married for a number of years, but that's no excuse.)

Abby, I am his wife. She is his FORMER wife, but for some strange reason he continues to refer to her as "my wife."

I love him very much. He is a fine man and I know he doesn't do this intentionally, but it bothers me. I should add, his former wife has remarried, so she is somebody else's wife now. Help me, please. Correcting him hasn't helped.— HIS WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: If you "love" this fine man, and correcting him has not helped thus far, cool it. He'll eventually get the right wife in the right context when you've been his wife as long as she was.

Penmanship To Be Shown

Two Victoria elementary school students have won penmanship awards at the Canadian School Art Exhibition in Toronto.

Nancy Ulakovic and Alisa Perry, both Grade 1 students at Glanford school, will have their entries exhibited during the Canadian National Exhibition Aug. 16 to Sept. 4.

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike: My 1969 Buick Wildcat calls for premium gasoline. Premium is getting harder to find every day. Many stations sell only regular and unleaded. What's the best way to alter my timing or lower my compression ratio so the car will burn regular? — HIGH TEST

Dear High: You might first try retarding your ignition to just before it pings on hard acceleration. You can do this by ear. No need to lower compression if you can live with the more leisurely performance of retarded timing. If you can't stand it, though, you might try a set of extra-thick head gaskets. I don't recommend using double gaskets, because they're likely to blow.

Dear Mike: Two and a half years ago, the previous owner repainted my 1973 Cutlass. Now the top layer of paint on the hood and decklid is starting to crack. I can see the original paint underneath, and it looks fine. Is there any way I can take off the top layer only? — PEELING

Dear Peeling: You might try rubbing compound and lots of elbow grease, but I think you'll be disappointed with the result. Why? Because the original paint was probably lightly sanded to rough it up before the car was repainted.

Dear Mike: I recently bought a 1965 Volkswagen with an odd radio. It has two bands. One is labelled "L", with the numbers 1.5, 2.0, 2.5, and 2.9. the other band says "M", with 6, 9, 12, and 15, which I find to be the regular AM band. Can you tell me what the "L" band is for? — BANDIT

Dear Bandit: European radio stations use frequencies that are different from ours. The "L" stands for low band and receives lower frequencies than are broadcast in the U.S. and Canada.

Dear Mike: The starter in our 1975 Vega refuses to function when hot. When I try to restart the engine, there is no response at all to the key. All switches have been checked and pronounced okay. The only way to start the hot engine is to cross two points in the system with a screwdriver. What gives? — NO START

Dear No: Replace your starter solenoid and your troubles should be over. The solenoid is that gadget where you're crossing the two contacts.

Please feel free to send your automotive problems to Michael Lamm, Box 7607-B, Stockton, California 95207. Not all questions can be answered personally, but those of greatest reader interest will appear in future columns.

Bio-dex

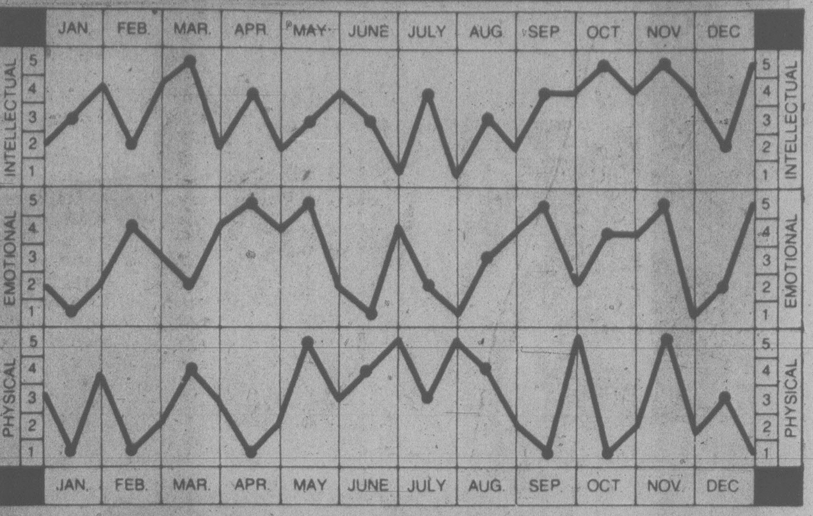
Dist by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

6-10 Neutral Cycle-	Noise bothers you. Find a quiet space if you can and wait until you feel stronger.

Teenagers can feel adrift in an uncaring world sometimes. We who have left those years behind tend to forget the warring emotions and fears that consumed our energies. It still happens to teens, but feeling understood and respected can help them clear many of these hurdles. If your Bio-dex is high, apply some of your perception and graciousness to attend to the teenager in your life.

'Rolls-Royce of Errors'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Harry Forman, a rare coin and currency dealer, had a "Rolls-Royce of errors" and paid something close to a king's ransom for it.

Forman displayed a crisp U.S. bill with a $20 face, but the reverse side denoted the bill's value as $10.

"This is the Rolls-Royce of errors," Forman said of the double-denomination bill he obtained through a newspaper ad after he heard Houston citizens were returning them to banks for regular $20 bills.

Forman paid $1,500 for his $30 bill and already has sold it for a profit, he said.

The Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas, which distributed the bills, says that 160 were printed and all but 40 have been accounted for.

New Obesity Tack Looks Encouraging

ATLANTA (UPI) — A new and apparently successful treatment for obesity, using an appetite suppressant in combination with diet and exercise, has been reported to the American Psychiatric Association.

The medical researchers who developed the treatment call it "one of the most effective controlled clinical trials of obesity yet reported, and one which pioneers what may be a particularly useful combination of psychological and pharmacological therapies."

The treatment was reported at a recent meeting of the association in a paper prepared by Drs. Albert Stunkard, Linda Craighead and Richard O'Brien, representing the Williamsport, Pa., Hospital; the University of Pennsylvania; Pennsylvania State University, and Hofstra University.

Dr. Craighead, who delivered the paper, said some of the overweight people in the program lost up to 32 pounds in 23 weeks. In addition, patients with high blood pressure experienced a decided improvement and one half were able to reduce or discontinue anti-hypertensive medication, she said.

"These results call for a re-examination of current pessimism regarding the use of medication in the treatment of obesity."

She said the six-month treatment program "has produced among the best weight losses ever reported for the out-patient treatment of obesity."

A total of 145 people — 130 women and 15 men who were 20 to 156 per cent overweight — entered the program. They were divided into four groups and assigned to different experimental conditions — doctor's office medication, group medication, group behaviorial, and group medication-behaviorial.

Three groups met weekly while the patients in the doctor's-office-medication condition were seen according to the physician's usual practice, usually once a month for 15 minutes.

Dr. Craighead said patients in the group medication condition received fenfluramine, an appetite suppressant. The initial dose was three times a day but once the dosage levels were stabilized, patients were shifted to once-daily sustained release capsules.

Group discussions included dietary counselling and a behavioral program, intensive training in stimulus control and measures to slow the act of eating. An exercise program also was part of the treatment.

The researchers said an important feature of the program "was the attempt to get patients to assume the major responsibility for their treatment and extensive use was made of homework assignments."

Dr. Craighead said active treatment is just concluding and only preliminary data is available. She said the program had a low dropout rate.

Weight losses at 23 weeks for the four treatment groups were: doctor's office medication, 15 pounds; group behavorial, 23 pounds; group medication, 30 pounds, and group medication-behavioral, 32 pounds.

MD Issues Reminder on Vaccines

OTTAWA (CP) — People are still dying from communicable diseases such as diptheria, measles and rubella despite preventative vaccines which have been available, in some cases, since the 1930s.

Diptheria, for example, claimed five lives in 1976, says a recent Statistics Canada report. A successful vaccine was developed in 1926.

Dr. Stan Acres of the federal laboratory for disease control said people must be reminded that immunization against communicable diseases should begin early in life, ideallh when "the child is about two months old."

He said diptheria, once regarded as the primary cause of death for children, still has a 10-per-cent mortality rate in untreated cases. There were 131 cases reported in 1977.

Diptheria cases are higher than "they could be if one were able to reach all people in outlying communities," he said.

While rubella, or German measles, is a relatively mild viral disease, the vaccine is needed more "to protect pregnant women from getting it because of the disease's disastrous effect on the unborn fetus," Dr. Acres said.

However, 2,241 rubella cases were reported in 1977, he added, and it was responsible for two deaths in 1976.

A vaccine for measles was licensed in 1964, but 9,062 cases were reported in 1977. And measles claimed seven lives in 1976, the statistical agency reported.

Moreover, encephalitis, infection of the brain, occurs once in every 1,000 measles acases, Dr. Acres said. And viral encephalitis was responsible for 25 deaths in 1976.

Whooping cough cases have increased with 1,903 cases reported last year. The vaccine has been available since 1936, said Dr. Acres. From 1970 to 1974, an average of 1,795 cases were reported annually.

Smallpox has virtually disappeared because of immunization, he said, and the number of polio cases has steadily declined with the introduction of the Sabin oral vaccine in 1962. There were two cases reported in 1977.

PM Jimmy Carter!

TORONTO (CP) — U.S. presidents were among persons named when Grade 8 pupils in Ontario were asked about Canadian prime ministers, a Toronto researcher says.

Mark Holmes says in a paper to be presented to Canadian school trustees that of the pupils tested, 89 per cent correctly identified Prime Minister Trudeau as their country's leader but five per cent named U.S. President Jimmy Carter.

Seventy-one per cent knew Sir John A. Macdonald was Canada's first prime minister but eight per cent picked Abraham Lincoln.

Holmes, a researcher for the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, said results of the tests are not necessarily typical. Pupils from 47 boards of education across Ontario participated in the tests.

Sixty-four per cent correctly identified Canada's major political parties as Progressive Conservative, Liberal and New Democratic Party but 22 per cent named the Liberals and two U.S. parties — Democrat and Republican.

A number of pupils were uncertain of the details of Canada's constitution, the British North America Act. Only 31 per cent knew the main purposes of the act were the creation of Canada and the division of federal and provincial responsibilities, Holmes said.

His paper was to be presented at a conference of the Canadian School Trustees' Association.

'FREE' LIBRARY SUSPECT: PROF

EDMONTON (CP) — Labelling their libraries as free is probably the worst public relations mistake librarians have made, an American university professor told delegates to the Canadian Library Association's 1978 conference.

Professor Herbert White, director of the Research Centre for Library and Information Science at Indiana University, said people are suspicious of things that are given away.

"Even as we intend for library services to continue to be offered without payment or charge, it is the wrong value to stress."

White said it would be far better to stress library services' usefulness, importance and relevance to today's society.

The professor was addressing about 700 delegates at the library conference's first plenary session, dedicated to management.

Library management, he said, is no longer something scholars do in their spare time. The search is for library administrators who understand something about productivity, cost effectiveness, evaluation and monitoring, and even program budgeting.

FREE FIREWORKS

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Fireworks being sold at a roadside stand erupted in a fiery, chain-reaction explosion. Nobody was injured, police said, but motorists were halted for 15 minutes along Michigan Highway 139. State police were not certain what ignited the fireworks Sunday. Firemen were called to the scene, but chose to let the flames burn out rather than get close enough to douse them, police said.

Aluminum Wiring: Safe In B.C. Thanks to Code

Regulations for the use and installation of aluminum electrical wiring in B.C. appear to have prevented the kind of fire losses attributed to faulty aluminum wiring in the U.S.

Don McCarter, provincial electrical safety inspector for Gulf Islands and Victoria-Nanaimo region, said there had been no fires attributed to aluminum wiring failure or faulty installation.

Mel Schwartz, chief electrical inspector in the city of Victoria, said he had no personal knowledge of any fires caused by aluminum wiring.

Although he had no idea how many aluminum- wire installations there may have been in the capital region, Schwartz said he is sure that today they are almost extinct.

Both men were commenting on the opening in Washington, D.C., of congressional hearings into the use of aluminum wiring and the hazard it poses to public safety if not properly installed. Some witnesses refer to aluminum wiring as a time bomb waiting to go off.

The problem with aluminum wiring, which is not present when conventional copper wiring is used, is that it reacts differently to mechanical pressure and electrical loading.

A terminal screw properly tightened against a copper wire remains secure with repeated loading, while an aluminum wire can cause trouble when it is too tight, just as if the wire were too loose.

When squeezed too tightly, an aluminum wire will cold-flow, and that can lead to a change of electrical resistance, heating and oxidization. This, in turn, deteriorates into arcing that may set fire to insulation or other building materials.

Frequently the trouble starts at a wall outlet, according to experience in the U.S. Overheating, buzzing, flickering lights, or sparks from receptacles may indicate a faulty connection. Circuit breakers will not warn of trouble because they open only when a circuit is overloaded, or accidentally grounded.

Arcing on an aluminum connection can set fire to a wall without enough heat being generated to melt the wire.

Shoddy workmanship is cited as a reason for faults where problems occur, but according to inspectors here, only certified, professional installation is tolerated. Do-it-yourself aluminum wiring is against the law.

Deputy fire chief Mike Belton said he had no record of fires caused by aluminum wiring, although in the years from about 1968 to 1973 the use of aluminum in new wiring installations was frequent.

"Properly done, there is nothing wrong with it," he said.

McCarter said as much as 50 per cent of new construction — commercial and residential — was with aluminum wiring due to the higher price of copper wiring in that period.

Today the cost advantage has disappeared and virtually all new wiring installations are of copper.

Under no circumstances may copper and aluminum wiring be mixed in branch circuits beyond the electrical service panel. Wire fasteners for aluminum are of a specific kind and may not be interchanged with copper-type fastenings.

Mount McKinley: A Howling Wind, Fog and Irish Mist

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

You're 17,000 feet up Mount McKinley, North America's highest mountain.

You kick the crampons on your boots deeply into the ice, gasping with the effort. Everyone's on fixed rope.

The day that started misty, suddenly clears. A vast panorama unfolds.

It extends clear to the Pacific 150 miles southwest and engulfs the sweeping Alaskan taiga that sprawls northward into the tundra beyond the horizon. In between, the city of Anchorage, 100 miles away, glistens metallically in the sun.

You stop to gape at this wonder and for a moment the fatigue is forgotten.

It's moments like this, Bob Bowman reflects, when a mountain climber doesn't have to explain even to himself what he is doing or why he is doing it.

The view says it all.

Bowman, a native Victorian who works as a geotechnologist with B.C. Hydro in Vancouver, has just returned from a successful climb of the 20,320-foot mountain.

He was a member of a six-man group that reached the summit May 23 after an 18-day climb up the steep and rigorous western rib route.

The others in the group included Blair Griffiths, 29, a CBC cameraman; his brother Mark, 26, a geographer; Paul Heraty, 25, a construction worker; Steve Fuller, 25, a geographer, all from the Vancouver area; and Kevin Duck, 20, a student from Los Angeles.

Two other groups from B.C. have attempted the mountain so far this year but Bowman's is the first in which all members have made it to the summit.

"What else can you say?"

The group flew in by ski-equipped plane landing on the northeastern fork of the Kahiltna Glacier on May 6.

Wearing crampons, and linked together by rope, they traversed the glacier, and then began the steep ascent of the southwestern face.

They carried in about 130 pounds of gear, food and fuel per man, which necessitated two trips between each of the eight camps they established en route.

For six days, Bowman said, the climbers were on fixed ropes. A highlight was the ascent of a 1500-foot sheet of ice, or couloir, at the 15,000-foot elevation.

They stopped for two to three days at each station to condition themselves to the rarefied conditions. The highest mountain any of them had ever climbed before was 14,000-foot Mount Rainier.

"None of us knew what to expect," Bowman said. "It was a real test."

They began their climb to the summit at 10 p.m. The weather forecast indicated it would be clear in the morning.

But when they arrived, exhausted, at 9 a.m. there was fog and a howling wind which cut the temperature to minus 45 degrees Celsius.

Bowman said they cracked open a bottle of Irish Mist, shook each other's hands, and toasted the aluminium stave that marks the peak.

Five minutes was all they could stand in such cold and they headed down the way they'd come. They'd only gone a few thousand feet when the skies cleared; but, said Bowman, no one was for going back for the spectacular view that was so nearly theirs.

While they descended, roped in pairs, Duck and Heraty slipped, and tumbled nearly a 1,000 feet down a glacial slope. Snow, freshly melted by the sun, stopped their fall and but for it, said Bowman, they would likely have rolled into one of the many deep crevices that randomly criss-cross the mountain's side.

Duck suffered a bruised hand, but Heraty was unharmed. It was the only mishap in the climb.

They took four days to come out and either passed or joined six other groups, four American, one Swiss and one Japanese, who were following the somewhat easier West Buttress route up the mountain.

May is the best month to tackle McKinley which has become such a favorite with Japanese climbers that the U.S. National Parks Service now prints its maps in English and Japanese.

GROUP HOMES SET

Three group homes for the mentally retarded will be established at Sevenoaks with a grant of $340,000, Human Resources minister Bill Vander Zalm said.

He said 24 patients will be transferred from Glendale Lodge to Sevenoaks.

In turn, retarded persons at the Eric Martin Institute will be transferred to Glendale, freeing 40 beds in the EMI for extended-care patients.

Community homes will give the mentally retarded a more informal setting than was available at Glendale, he said.

Sevenoaks previously was used to house juveniles and emotionally disturbed children.

Politicking Muted For Canada Week?

OTTAWA (CP) — To celebrate the 111th anniversary of Confederation, Canadians will be fed a hearty diet of culture, sports and politicians.

Most of the politicking during Canada Week, June 25 to July 1, will be of a subtle nature but designed to give much of the parliamentary crew maximum public exposure.

Many of the events where politicians plan to shake hands and kiss babies will be partially financed by Festival Canada, a government agency given $4.5 million to ensure the country's birthday party helps boost national unity.

A spokesman for Prime Minister Trudeau said he has not decided how he will spend July 1, although he has consented to a CBC request to deliver a brief message in French and English on national television. Gov.-Gen. Jules Leger will also make a short speech for the television audience.

Last year, the prime minister was to give a speech in conjunction with a televised entertainment extravaganza on Parliament ill July 1.

The speech was cancelled after opposition party members complained they would not be given equal time and the prime minister limited his public appearances around the capital to that of a spectator.

No politicians have been invited to appear in this year's show, Muriel Sherrin, a Festival Canada co-ordinator, said.

"But I hope they can all come with their families as spectators," Mrs. Sherrin said.

Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark will be travelling across the Prairies for part of Canada Week and will celebrate Dominion Day in Vancouver's Stanley Park, where thousands gather July 1 for special activities.

Ottawa Blamed For Hike In Taxes

SURREY (CP) — Members of Surrey's majority party on municipal council say they are not to blame for increased taxes in 1978 and that taxpayers should complain instead to the federal government.

In a rebuttal to 1,100 residents who last week attended a meeting in this Vancouver-area municipality to protest against municipal tax increases, members of the Surrey Voters Association (SVA) said protesters misconstrued the facts.

Alderman Fred Beale told at a press conference that council has direct control over only 14 per cent of annual budget sources and therefore has little leeway to shift the tax burden.

Other control over funds lies with the senior governments — particularly the federal arm — which Mayor Bill Vogel said refuses to acknowledge the existence of municipal governments.

"There's enough taxation going on between the three levels of government; the problem is one of distribution. The federal government has actually decreased its responsibilities — in defence for example — while municipalities have to take on more and more."

Carol Wong, president of the SVA, which controls six of the nine seats on council, called the press conference to explain the party's side of the tax issue.

Beale said that "a large amount of the criticism has been prompted by politically ambitious people who are long on rhetoric and short on facts."

He said the B.C. Assessment Authority has decreed that 15 per cent of fair market value of residential property is taxable, compared to 25 per cent in the case of commercial property and 30 per cent for industrial property.

Compounding the problem is that all properties have been reassessed at reasonable market value, he said.

"This has resulted in a redistribution of the tax burden and is the basic cause for complaints," said Beale. "It has had an effect on a number of properties, particularly those with acreage and those classified as commercial and industrial."

Many Addicts

The Bridge Expert

An example of what constitutes winning defensive play can be observed in today's deal, which was played in the Vanderbilt Cup Championship of 1978. Sitting West was Billy Eisenberg. East was Eddie Kantar. Both of them are considered to be world class players.

North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

Eisenberg was in a guessing position on the opening lead — and he made a good guess when he led the six of spades. The seven was played from dummy, and Kantar contributed his bit by inserting the ten-spot. Had he won the trick with the ace, south would have had no difficulty in coming home with 10 tricks, since East could never obtain the lead again.

South won the opening spade lead with his king and led a trump. Eisenberg took his ace, felling dummy's king. He then made a play that only an expert would make: he cashed the ace of clubs. Next came his remaining spade, the trick being won by East's queen.

East now led a spade, and no matter what declarer played he could not prevent West from making a winner out of his eight of trumps. If he trumped with the queen, West would simply discard a diamond. And if South trumped with a low trump, West would overtrump with his eight.

Reverting back to trick three, when Eisenberg cashed his ace of clubs (before leading his remaining spade): Had he not cashed the ace, East, upon winning trick three with his queen of spades, would have had a serious problem as to whether to lead another spade, hoping to create a trump winner for his partner, or to lead a club, hoping that West had strength in clubs.

It should be noted that if East had led a club (instead of a spade), declarer, upon obtaining the lead, would have played the queen, jack and ten of trumps, picking up West's remaining 8-3-2. But with the spade lead, South was put into a position where he had no control over his destiny.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Tueaday, June 20
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Start climb to more elevated position. Don't be fooled by the lure of false security. Take a chance on you — assert yourself, start dialoge with superiors. Outline plans, methods, dreams. You're going places and now you know it!

TAURUS (April 20-May 2): Accent on communication; disseminate information. You have plenty to express; get facts in order and go to it. Distance should pose no problem. Travel, education, special publications are featured. Capricorn, Cancer figure in scenario.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Lunar emphasis on mystery, secrets, the occult, sensuality, concern of partner or mate with money matters. Aries, Libra figure prominently — so does the number 9. You straighten out misunderstanding. Roadblock to progress is removed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Full Moon spotlight on the public, how you appear to others. Partner or mate should be permitted to express views. Do more listening than talking. New approach aids. Break free from stifling tradition.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Collect what you need, avoid extremes, maintain even, steady pace — deal with Cancer, Aquarius persons. Intuitive flash provides valuable insight. Individual who cares about your welfare will prove it. You can take steps to improve emotional and financial security.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You walk fine line between passion and cool rapport. Element of "tease" and foolish game is present. Enjoy yourself but keep track of costs. Gemini, Sagittarius figure prominently. Leave details for another time. Social life accelerates. Gain overall view.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Full Moon highlights studio space, room in which to manoeuvre and grow, essentials, basic material, security. Stick to the facts — let speculation wait for another time. You're not trapped. You'll discover escape hatch. Know it and act accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Movement, self-expression, messages, visits dominate. Short trip may be necessary. Study Libra message; be flexible. If you are versatile, you gain. If not, you invite direct confrontation at wrong place and time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Full Moon accent on home improvement, acquisition of items leading to beauty and comfort. Spotlight on income, locating missing articles, getting credit due for family. You learn what is good for you — and otherwise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Desires, needs blend — and are fulfilled. You gain impetus from genuine compliment. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently. Your personality sparkles. Cycle is high— take initiative, make new starts, stress originality, creativity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): What has been happening behind the scenes is now out in the open. Individual with pomotional skills could come into your life. Capricorn, Cancer pesons figure prominently. You are on the brink of rare, valuable discovery.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You get "favourable notices." Your prestige swings upward as task, assignment is completed. Pleasure principle is accented. Your own style flourishes. Aries, Libra figure in scenario. Be aggressive in making dreams come true.

IF JUNE 20 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you make major domestic change, adjustment this year, with September emphasized. November also will be a memorable month. Cancer, Capricorn persons play important roles in your life. You are sensitive, loyal, at times "stingy." You protect what you own, you desire security and love, more so than most persons. You "adore" food and probably you are an excellent chef.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J.A.H. HUNTER

"You know something?" said Jack, "I'm twice as old as you were when I was as old as you are now."

Jill didn't argue the point. "So what?" she replied. "I'm half as old as you'll be when I'm 3 years older than you are now."

They were both right, so what were their ages?

(Answer tomorrow)

Mr. Hunter answers all letters: ideas welcomed.

Perfume Steals the Show

Publicity for the June Summer Show of Victoria Horticultural Society announces that as usual, anyone may enter exhibits. Schedules of classes may be had from Show Secretary Mrs. Shirley McMinn, 3557 Quadra St., phone 382-9836.

With the Show this coming Friday and Saturday, June 23 and 24, phoned entries will be limited to five or less, and accepted only until midnight tomorrow, Tuesday June 20th.

The Summer Show has a freshness and vitality about it as a rule that is delightful. There is perfume from several hundred roses some more fragrant than others but all equally lovely to look at.

If the classes for sweet peas are well filled, you get some of the finest flower perfume as you do also from the display of garden pinks and other dianthuses. Flowering shrubs of June should be making a brave display for many are at perfection — Escallonias in tones of pink and rose and Philadelphuses with pure whites.

Both of these have perfume in varying degrees. The Chinese Dogwood, Cornus kousa, may turn up in a class for flowering tree branches. This is a delightful surprise in June when our native Pacific Dogwood, C. nuttali, is but a memory.

Early fruits, gooseberries, strawberries, raspberries and rhubarb will be displayed. They may inspire new garden owners to spare garden space for these worthwhile foods which are difficult to buy in the fresh state, and a fabulous price when seen.

A wide assortment of vegetables are expected judging from the number of classes listed for them. With careful planning in early season, all classes should have entries.

The varying terrains of Greater Victoria each with its micro-climate have a chance of coming up with broad beans, peas, beets, carrots, cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce in variety, spring onions, radishes, and early potatoes.

This display should inspire would-be gardeners to make the effort to produce from a plot at home or on a rented allotment; there is still time to sow and plant almost a complete vegetable garden before July 15, and get results that will be astonishing.

Planters containing foliage plants, a planted tub suitable for a patio, specimen bonzai, and classes for succulents, cacti and African-violets all offer chances to apartment dwellers to participate.

The place where all these beauties are to congregate is at the First United Church Hall, 932 Balmoral Road at Quadra; Friday, June 23 from 2 to 10 p.m., and Saturday, June 24 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

An information booth will be ready to answer visitor's questions regarding the Victoria Horticultural Society, its work and privileges of membership. Admission to the Show remains at 50 cents; refreshments will be available; free parking at the North Park Street entrance around the corner from Balmoral.

Seattle Prepares For Tut

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — King Tut will stop in Seattle July 15, about 33 centuries too late for a diplomatic mission, but right on time for the opening of the Seattle Art Museum's exhibit of his golden treasures.

The Treasures of Tutankhamen exhibit, on loan from the Egyptian government, closed quietly in Los Angeles last week. It debuted in the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., on Nov. 17, 1976.

Seattle Art Museum expects to spend $2.9 million on the exhibit that has drawn 4.5 million people during its tour across the United States. Officials predict 850,000 will see the show in Seattle through Nov. 15.

Seattle is spending nearly $1 million of federal grant money to prepare the Seattle Center Flag Pavillion for the Tut display. It will have 50 per cent more room for the display than the other cities, say planners.

"The additional space will allow more of the vitrines — the cases that hold the objects — to come away from the wall, allowing people to walk around them and see all four sides," says Annie Searle, spokeswoman for the Tut office.

The only way out of the exhibit will be through a gift shop selling a variety of souvenirs, from postcards to a $2,700 gold replica of Tut's death mask.

To avoid scalping, Seattle will follow Chicago's example and sell tickets to the general public in the morning for each day's exhibit.

It usually takes about an hour to see everything, although "we're not going to be pushing people at all," says Ms. Searle.

A $10,000 electronic system with backup monitors will guard the exhibit, insured for $17.5 million. About 400 police officers will share guard duty, says Seattle Police Lieut. Pat Murphy, in charge of security arrangements.

"We've been able to design what is undoubtedly the most sophisticated alarm system that's ever been used for the Tut show," Murphy says. "No other museum has gone to quite this length."

Airliner Deal

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Britain and Romania signed a $400 million deal to manufacture British BAC-111 jetliners in Romania. Signing of the deal which had been agreed upon in May, 1977, but held up, was watched by visiting Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu during a tour of the BAC plant at nearby Filton.

KURDISH FEUD ERUPTS ANEW

ISTANBUL (AP) — Intense fighting has erupted between rival Kurdish factions and has spread from northern Iraq to the remote mountain province of Hakkari in eastern Turkey, a Turkish newspaper said Sunday.

In a dispatch from Hakkari, the paper Hurriyet said the "all-out armed fighting" involves followers of Kurdish nationalist leader Mulla Mustafa Barzani and a rival group, both members of the so-called Pesh-Merga Kurdish independence fighters.

The Kurds, a nomadic Moslem people, have been fighting for centuries for an independent Kurdistan, an ancient Kurdish homeland in parts of modern Turkey, Iraq and Iran.

Waterland Playing Possum: Group

Paul George, spokesman for the Coalition for Responsible Forest Legislation (CRFL), said the minister has so far cancelled three arranged meetings with the group.

"We're just getting the run-around," said George.

He said CRFL representatives would be at Waterland's office again today in a fourth attempt to meet with the minister, but was not hopeful of success.

Waterland has not always found it so difficult to arrange to meet a citizen group. Last year, he welcomed an organization from the Fraser Valley that supported his policy calling for the use of 2,4-D against budworms.

Waterland not only met the group, but issued a press release on its behalf and invited reporters to his office to meet with him and members of the party.

George also complained about the lack of coverage debate of the bill is getting in the press.

He said the four major newspapers in Vancouver and Victoria have practically ignored the debate that's been taking place in the legislature for the past week.

"The 2,4-D issue in the Okanagan is getting a lot more play, yet the Forest Act will have a much greater impact on the future of this province. It's just incredible the way the news value is weighed," said George.

The Forest Act is the most significant bill introduced this session, and perhaps since the current Social Credit government came to power.

The CRFL is urging that the bill be tabled until the next session to give ample opportunity for a full study of the act's impact.

Opposition members in the legislature have been calling on the government to hoist the bill. Hoisting means that an act is pulled from the floor to be reintroduced at a later time.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Bridge Tragedy Commemorated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty years ago Saturday two spans of the Second Narrows Bridge collapsed, killing 18 of 79 men on the bridge.

The $20 million, 1,275-metre-long bridge, which now runs across Burrard Inlet between Vancouver and North Vancouver, was then under construction, and the workers upon it were hurtled 100 feet into the water below amidst an avalanche of twisted steel.

Fourteen of the workers were members of the Ironworkers Local 97, which held a simple memorial service Saturday morning at the south end of the bridge. A floral wreath was dropped into the waters of Burrard Inlet, and some of those present were among the 38 who survived the collapse 20 years ago.

Bill Stroud, 50, says the Dominion Bridge company still owes him $1.31 as a result of the accident because a company employee deducted a half-hour's wages from his cheque for leaving the job early that Tuesday afternoon in 1958.

He left the bridge in a bizarre fashion — he dropped like a cannonball 100 feet straight into Burrard Inlet, along with the two massive spans of the $20 million bridge.

"When I got my pay cheque for that week some time after the accident, I was amazed to find the company had docked me a half-hour's pay — they'd paid me only until the time the bridge went down," he said.

Stroud said the men used to laugh about hearing odd noises on the project and joke that it was coming down.

"And that day wasn't any different," he said. "Except it was for real. I remember hearing this big 'Whooommmp!' and saying to myself — how many times had I said it before?— 'There she goes!' And by God she went.

"I looked back in and the whole bridge had turned into a giant diving board. I sucked in a big breath of air and froze, holding onto a cable."

Stroud hit the water feet first so hard that he suffered compacted fractures in two vertebrae in his back--injuries that laid him upo for almost a year--and he sliced his hand on the steel cable he'd been holding.

"Nothing flashed in front of my eyes," he said. "It all happened too fast. All I did was suck a lot of wind and stare straight ahead."

Stroud managed to grab onto some planks and ties in the water as did some two other connectors. A third, working beside him, never surfaced. He left a widow and four children.

Stroud said the surviving connectors were fortunate surfacing in the middle of debris — others came up in the current which was running about 20 kilometres an hour and some of the injured actually drowned.

One of the last two survivors pulled out of the water, Stroud had to walk on his hands and knees because of his back injury until he was loaded into an ambulance by two rescuers. An overly officious ambulance driver, however, found him poised on all fours and told him to get out because the ambulance was only for the injured.

More than $50,000 was collected by a daily newspaper's fund, much-needed money as the families of the victims were soon to learn.

They discovered three days after the disaster they were barred by the Workmen's Compensation Act from suing the companies building the brdge regardless of who was to blame.

Instead the 16 widows received a life pension of $75 a month plus $25 a month for each dependent child. A few widows are still collecting.

The bridge claimed a total of 23 victims: four workmen in the intial stages of construction and a skindiver who drowned while looking for bodies two days after it went down.

A Real Dogfight

SEATTLE (AP) — A misunderstanding with a dog catcher over a white malamute he doesn't own turned into a 12-hour confrontation with police for a Seattle man.

The man waved a rifle and kept police at bay for nearly 12 hours during the weekend while officers surrounded his home and urged him to surrender.

The incident began when an animal control officer came to the man's door and said he wanted to talk to him about his dog.

The man asked the officer if he had a search warrant, then told him to leave.

The man does not own a dog. The animal belongs to a woman living in the house he rents.

The animal control officer summoned police to the house. They asked the man to come out, but he refused. He says he picked up his rifle and went to the window, so they could see he was armed, but put it away after that.

Turkey To Support N-Treaty Jamieson Assured by Ecevit

By FRANK RUTTER
Times London Bureau

ANKARA — Turkey wants to import nuclear power technology from Canada.

A first step was taken here when the Turkish government assured Donald Jamieson, Canadian external affairs minister, that it would seek ratification of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

Canada insists that any country seeking nuclear aid must sign the treaty.

This will open the way to co-operation, Mr. Jamieson said here on Saturday after meeting with Turkish Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit and Foreign Minister Gunduz Okcun.

Mr. Okcun said Turkey would like to start talks with Canada on developing nuclear power because it desperately needs alternate energy sources.

Almost entirely dependent on imported oil, some of it from the Soviet Union, Turkey was given a scare at the beginning of the year when it had only three days supplies of oil and was told that unless it paid its foreign debts, further oil imports would be cut off. A crisis was averted by intense diplomatic efforts to extend the debts but the lesson was learned.

At the same time, Canada would like to find customers for its nuclear technology including the Candu reactor. But after the experience of India which developed a bomb after receiving Canadian aid, Ottawa is extremely cautious about new nuclear agreemznts.

However, the promise that the Turkish government would submit the nuclear non-proliferation treaty to parliament and would agree to Canadian safeguard proposals was perhaps the most important benefit of Mr. Jamieson's three-day visit which ended Monday morning.

The minister said Canada would shortly send high-level government and business delegations to Turkey to discuss co-operation in energy, forestry and agriculture.

Mr. Jamieson also discussed the Cyprus situation with the Turkish leaders but he said he was mainly fact-finding in Ankara. In fact, Canada believes that the next move must come from Greece or the Greek Cypriots if there is to be any hope of a settlement.

At the moment, Turkey is hamstrung by the U.S. arms embargo against it. The Greeks are intractable as long as Turkey is forced to bargain from a weak position and Turkey dare not withdraw its troops from Cyprus.

The embargo has strained Turkey's role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But Mr. Jamieson believes Turkey is still essentially committed to the defence of the West, holding as it does, a key strategic position linking the continents of Asia and Europe.

Mr. Jamieson left Turkey for Cyprus, where he is spending two days inspecting the Canadian peacekeeping forces, as well as holding talks with officials on both sides of the dispute which has divide the Mediterranean island.

Vietnamese Issues Evacuation Deadline

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Vietnamese government says it will give China three months to evacuate ethnic Chinese who want to leave Vietnam and is opening a third port to Chinese repatriation ships.

Radio Hanoi broadcast the contents of a diplomatic note it said was delivered to Peking outlining regulations for the repatriation of ethnic Chinese families, some of which have lived in Vietnam for generations.

China says more than 100,000 Chinese have been expelled from Vietnam or have left to escape persecution in recent monnths. The Vietnamese say the Chinese, who dominated commercial life in South Vietnam, want to get out because the Communist government has put an end to private enterprise, as the Chinese Communists did years ago.

Two refugee ships sailed from China last Thursday to pick up evacuees in Haiphong and Ho Chi Minh City (Saigon). Radio Hanoi announced today that Qui Nhon, on the central coast, also will be an evacuation port.

METEORITE RECOVERED

DALLAS (UPI) — An informal search team headed by a local astronomy professor has recovered a 9-inch wide, 16-pound iron and nickel meteorite from a remote ranch in South Central Texas.

Richland College professor John O. Williams said only about five such finds are made in the world in any given year. He estimated its age at about 4 billion years.

Tax Axe Has Double Blade

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The first casualties of the California tax revolt are summer schools, libraries and parks. But the next targets are not as clear.

Since the Proposition 13 rebellion broke out of the ballot box 11 days ago, the new $7 billion property tax-cutting law has raised a multitude of questions about California's future.

Waiting for the answers are thousands of teachers, firefighters, police and other public employees who received layoff notices. Lawsuits seeking to block implementation of Proposition 13 await state Supreme Court action.

Those layers of goverment that most voters seemed to perceive as most bloated and wasteful have yet to feel the pain as Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and other politicians must decide what to do before July 1.

Californians made clear they wanted the "fat" stripped from government. But as Brown observed, government fat may be in the eye of the beholder.

" 'Cutting out fat' — It is a good metaphor, but it is not a very clear guide as to what should go," he remarked. "Less buses? Salaries? People? Policemen? Pensions?

"Some of that fat has more political muscle than some of the bone and marrow. So as you take out your scalpel, you find that you are cutting away at the bone while some of the fat just sits there happily burning in the fire," he said.

"That's because politics is not necessarily rational. It depends on who knows who, and how many of them there are and what kind of power they have, what kind of clout they have."

With the July 1 deadline approaching, uncertainty is aggravated by bickering among the six legislative leaders trying to divide up $10 billion in state surplus funds and remaining local property tax revenue among the 5,000 local government entities and schools.

Democrat Brown, who opposed Proposition 13 and is faced with a rough re-election fight, now vows to implement the Jarvis-Gann amendment as humanely and thoughtfully as possible, "If it's the last thing I do."

The landslide passage of the measure, which rolls back property tax assessments and pegs property taxes to one per cent of market value, triggered a rapid succession of events:

—Layoff notices were issued to thousands of public employees and more are expected.

—Summer schools in many of the state's 1,046 school districts cancelled classes for about 1.5 million students. Many other districts are waiting to see how much money the legislature provides before deciding whether to hold summer classes.

—Among the cuts, Brown suggested freezing salaries of state employees for one year to save $166 million. The outcry was loud from employees' organizations, which vowed a fight.

—The governor also urged that the state's bulging $5.8 billion budget surplus be allocated to local governments for one year to blunt the immediate impact of Proposition 13, while they struggle to establish new spending priorities.

California is faced with a loss of $2 billion to the federal government because homeowners and businesses won't be able to deduct as much property tax payments from their federal income taxes.

In addition, the loss of tax revenue at the local level will cause a $60 million net cut to California in federal revenue-sharing funds.

A statewide California Poll issued last week showed that 62 per cent of those questioned listed welfare and public assistance as their favorite choices for cutbacks.

In contrast, six per cent favored cuts in fire services and eight per cent wanted to reduce police and law enforcement. Reductions in school spending from kindergarten through 12th grade were favored by 22 per cent.

The poll also showed that the respondants generally gave higher marks to local agencies and schools than they did to the state and federal governments.

So, the question nags at just how much Californians, as they cut taxes, are willing to forego in government services without questioning the resounding approval they gave Proposition 13.

Brown, conceding he does not have the answer, wonders to what extent traditional institutions, whose roles have diminished as government grew, will be willing to step into the breach. He counts among them families, churches, neighborhood groups, labor unions and benevolent associations.

VACCINE HINTED FOR HEPATITIS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Researchers report isolating a virus they say could lead to development of a new hepatitis vaccine.

The vaccine might prevent about 90 per cent of the hepatitis infections that stem from blood transfusions, according to officials of the Hepatitis Laboratories Division of the U.S. Center for Disease Control.

The officials said one immediate benefit could be development of a test to screen potential blood donors. However, the researchers cautioned that several months of testing would be required to confirm the results.

Studies indicate about 10 per cent of all blood transfusion patients contract hepatitis because of contaminated blood, officials said.

Welfare Tag Up $200M.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Families with dependent children cost federal and local governments $10.2 billion in welfare payments last year, an increase of $200 million over 1976.

But the report containing that bleak figure also noted the average size of welfare families is decreasing — from four persons in 1965 to three persons in 1977.

The annual report on the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program — by far the nation's largest welfare bloc — was issued by the Social Security Administration (SSA).

The average monthly payment per family was a record $237 last year, the report said.

"The increase in expenditures was directly related to the increased costs of basic need items — food, shelter and utilities," it noted.

But the number of families with dependent children showed its smallest increase in 10 years last year. And the actual number of persons in the program decreased because families are growing smaller.

The number of welfare families with dependent children increased by 5,807 to 3,569,428 in 1977. But the total number of persons receiving assistance went down 261,703 to 11,018,158.

"The increase in dependent families reflects a general increase in the number of U.S. families headed by women," according to the security department, which administers the program for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "About four-fifths of AFDC families are headed by women."

"The average AFDC family now has three persons — a mother and two children," the report said.

A table released with the report showed New York ($371.37), Hawaii ($364.71), California ($301.52), Massachusetts ($300.13), Alaska ($296.37) and Michigan ($292.14), were the highest states in average monthly payment to families.

Mississippi ($47.37), South Carolina ($84.12) and Georgia ($100.25) were the lowest in that category.

Red Brigades Before Jury

TURIN, Italy (AP) — The Red Brigades trial which the terrorists tried to disrupt by kidnapping Aldo Moro goes to the jury today, with the founder and 14 members of the gang facing a verdict for the first time after two unsuccessful attempts to try them.

Assassinations of principals in the case and threats against potential jurors halted the previous trials. The defendants include Renato Curcio, 36, a former philosophy student who founded Italy's most feared urban guerrilla group.

From their barred cage in the heavily guarded courtroom, the accused were expected to present a final statement through defendant Paolo Maurizio Ferrari, one of the theoreticians of the Red Brigades.

Then the eight jurors and two judges who have listened to the testimony since March 9 were to retire to decide whether the defendants are guilty of forming an armed band to subvert the state.

Also listed as defendants are more than 30 persons who are at large or out on bail. Among them is Mario Moretti, alleged leader of the Red Brigades in Rome and one of eight persons charged with kidnapping Moro, the former premier and president of the Christian Democratic party, on March 16 and murdering him seven weeks later.

The prosecution is seeking a sentence of 15 years for Curcio, Ferrari and four other defendants. It asked shorter terms for the others.

Kidnappers Free Industrialist

PALERMO, Sicily (Reuter) — An Italian industrialist kidnapped 18 months ago was set free in Sicily Sunday night after his family was reported to have paid a $5.8-million ransom, police said today.

The victim, Nicola de Nora, appeared exhausted and weak after spending 524 days in captivity — one of the longest recorded periods a hostage has been held by Italy's kidnap gangs.

Police were trying to establish how and when he was transported to this Mediterranean island, from where many of Italy's kidnap and Mafia gangs are believed to operate.

Berserk Cook Kills Four

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — Gan Fong Chin, a cook at Lee's Cathay Terrace, a Chinese restaurant, came to work at 5:30 p.m. with a gift-wrapped package. He ate his dinner as usual.

Then he stood up, yanked a .30-30 carbine rifle from the package, jammed on a loaded clip and burst from the kitchen firing shots. Five persons died, including a diner and one of Chin's bosses.

Chin, 48, was being held today in the Adult Correctional Institution at Cranston without bail on five charges of murder. Four persons died of gunshot wounds; one suffered a fatal heart attack. Judge Joseph Rogers set a bail hearing for June 28 and ordered a psychiatric examination to see whether Chin is fit to stand trial.

Chin's brother, who asked not to be identified by name, said he was baffled by the shootings.

"I don't know what happened," he said, slumped in a chair at the police department, his head in his shaking hands. "He's just a normal guy. Why? That's the same question I asked myself over and over. He's real friendly."

Police said Chin shouted, "I did it because they were trying to poison me!" when he was arrested after the shootings Saturday night.

Detective Capt. Frank Ricci said Chin had no prior arrest record, but a year ago he barricaded himself in his house and cried: "They're trying to poison me."

The heart attack victim was Cecilia Bagley, 66.

Chin also was charged with assault with intent to kill a kitchen worker, Wayne Carroll, 20. Ricci said Chin shot in the direction of Carroll, but did not hit him.

Chin was born in the Canton section of China and has lived in the United States for 28 years, Ricci said.

Science Can Cause Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study released Saturday by Worldwatch Institute, a private, non-profit U.S. research group, questions the automatic assumption that the fruits of science are always good in every situation.

The report says the impact of technology on different countries varies too widely for it to be used without careful planning.

Picking the appropriate technology in light of its long-range impact can help keep "progress" from causing more problems than it solves, said Colin Norman, a senior researcher for the group and principal author of the report.

"Many social and economic costs of technological change are only now becoming apparent," Norman said. "If technological development is to be more compatible with human needs, the lasting impacts of technology on employment, equity, energy use and ecology must be weighed very carefully."

For example, he said, the World Bank once lent Pakistan money to buy 18,000 large tractors. A later study found that farmers using them found it easier to work more land, which they obtained by displacing tenants and buying more acreage.

Labor use per acre dropped 40 per cent, but yield showed little change. This prompted the World Bank to conclude that widespread introduction of tractors into Pakistan "would be little short of a disaster to the economic and social fabric of the rural sector."

The bank is learning, Norman told a news briefing.

"Recently, it helped introduce oxen in the Ivory Coast," he said. This increased production by using land that couldn't be tilled by hand, used no more energy and created jobs.

The researcher said almost one billion people, 700,000 in developing countries, will be added to the world labor force by the year 2000.

"Modern technology cannot hope to cope with this demand for work," he said. "It costs about $20,000 to create a modern industrial job. All countries need access to technologies that can generate jobs more cheaply."

Rebels Predict Rhodesia Win

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Rhodesian black nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo said Sunday he thinks his forces might win their guerrilla war against the Salisbury government in six to 10 months.

"We have reached the hump of battle," Nkomo said in an interview on the CBS-TV program Face the Nation. "It should be finished in six to 10 months."

Nkomo, president of the Zimbabwe African Peoplee Union (ZAPU), said his forces are receiving aid from several countries — including the Soviet Union, East Germany and Cuba — but denied there are any Cuban troops involved.

"There are no Cubans with us. They are not there," he said. "If I had them, why should I say no."

Asked about weapons, he replied: "Arms? Of course we do get arms from the Soviets. We get arms from those who give them to us."

Nkomo said his forces and other black guerrillas would not return to Zimbabwe — the black African name for Rhodesia — to take part in elections under the settlement reached by black nationalist groups in the country with Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Chores In Space

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Russian cosmonauts aboard the Salyut 6 space station began a 15-hour work day today, carrying out weightlessness experiments and doing routine maintenance chores.

"The systems of the space complex are functioning normally," said crew's reports quoted by the news agency Tass.

Tass said commander Vladimir Kovalenko and flight engineer Alexander Ivanchenkov carried out body-mass measurements with the help of a special instrument known as a massmetre, and the process of adapting to the conditions of weightlessness "is going normally."

The cosmonauts were launched into space Monday night.

Israelis Unyielding Over Gaza

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli cabinet has refused again to promise to relinquish the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, saying Israel will negotiate the status of the territories five years after a peace agreement.

The cabinet, after a month-long debate, adopted a policy statement Sunday which said that after five years of the limited self-rule Israel has promised the 1.1 million Palestinians in the two territories, "the nature of relations" between Israel, Jordan and the two territories "will be considered and agreed upon at the suggestion of any of the parties."

Reuters news agency quoted an Egyptian official as saying that Egypt regrets that Israel did not respond positively to questions on the future of the West Bank and Gaza Strip. "We regret the intransigence of (Israel Prime Minister Menachem) Begin," the official told Reuters.

And the semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram says the Israeli cabinet's refusal to promise to give up the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip "represents a rejection of the chances for peace."

The Egyptian foreign ministry said there would be no immediate government comment. But President Anwar Sadat has never modified his demand that Israel withdraw unconditionally from all the Arab territories it occupied in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

A spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) rejected the Israeli statement, saying the Palestinians will "continue the struggle to liberate our home-

TOURIST ALERTS STARTING

Each day a list of 10 tourists visiting B.C., whose families need to get in touch with them because of an emergency such as serious illness or death, will be published in newspapers and broadcast on radio stations.

Those on the list should contact the nearest RCMP detachment.

An RCMP spokesman said 621 requests were received in 1977 and 143 tourists were successfully contacted through the Tourist Alert program.

Sky Spies Catch 112

RCMP spy in-the-sky aircraft patrolling the Trans-Canada Highway between the Malahat and Nanaimo caught 112 speeders and issued warnings to seven other drivers over the weekend.

Sgt. Murray Brown, head of the Victoria subdivision traffic section, said today the warnings were issued Friday along with 73 speeding tickets.

Another 39 tickets were handed out on Saturday.

Plain Talk For Teens

Questions relating to sex, sexuality and human relations are major concerns among teen-agers and young adults and many do not know where to turn for the answers.

Beginning Tuesday, a new column in the Victoria Times Family Section will offer young readers a chance to have their questions on these matters answered in a professional, candid and unbiased manner.

Questions will be answered by a panel of experts: Dr. Marion Powell, medical doctor; Dr. Graham Cotter, clergyman; Dr. Blair Shaw, psychologist; and Bruce Vichert, social worker.

Dr. Powell, formerly medical officer of health for Scarborough, Ont., currently heads the population unit at the University of Toronto's School of Hygiene. She is married with three children and has for many years been an advocate for availability of family planning information.

She will be prepared to answer questions relating to the medical and physical aspects of sex.

Dr. Cotter for the past 15 years has directed marriage preparation courses for the Anglican Diocese of Toronto. Married with four children, Dr. Cotter has also directly counselled married couples facing problems within their marriages. Dr. Cotter will answer questions relating to the morality of sex and meaning and fulfilment of love. His answers will reflect his personal views and experience.

Dr. Shaw, married with three children, heads the psychology department at Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto and is a consultant to government and business. In the past Dr. Shaw has counselled and provided psychotherapy for people of all ages facing problems, including those related to sex and sexuality. From his experience, Dr. Shaw has observed that teen-agers and young adults are most frequently concerned to learn if their behavior and feelings are "normal." He will welcome questions relating to the psychological aspects of human relationships.

Vichert, a senior mental health worker with a Vancouver social agency, has broad counselling experience with teen-agers and young adults regarding family and personal relationships.

"The traditional male and female roles are becoming indefinite," says Vichert. "I think many people are unsure about what it means to be masculine or feminine."

Vichert will answer questions about relationships between young people and their parents and how they can cope with feelings of isolation or of not feeling liked.

Questions relating to sex and sexuality may be sent to Youth Clinic, c/o Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas Street, Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4. Telephone enquiries will not be accepted.

Questions of most general interest will be forwarded to the appropriate panel member and questions and answers will appear in the Youth Clinic column each Tuesday and Friday in the Victoria Times' Family Section.

SIX-MONTH DELAY

OPEC Postpones Hike in Oil Price

GINGERLY, NOW! Ginger Rogers and Premier Bennett dance cheek-to-cheek during a break on their activities at a North Vancouver hotel Saturday night. Miss Rogers was the featured performer in the hotel's lounge show, while the premier had top billing at a Socred party mini-convention.

GENEVA (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) agreed today to freeze oil prices for another six months, the 13-member cartel's secretary-general, Ali Jaidah, announced.

But Jaidah said the base price of crude oil will be increased next Jan. 1.

He said a special committee headed by Kuwait's oil minister, Ali Khalifa as-Sabah, will examine further how OPEC's members can protect themselves from the erosion of their purchasing power owing to the decline of the United States dollar.

The committee will make recommendations to the organizations next semi-annual price meeting, to be held in Abu Dhabi on Dec. 16, he said.

The decision to keep the base price at $12.70 for a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil was a victory for Saudi Arabia and Iran, OPEC's two largest OPEC producers.

But the decision to maintain the base price at the level set a year ago came as no surprise. Libyan Oil Minister Izz ad-Din al-Mabruk, whose government is one of the cartel's price hawks, told reporters at the start of the meeting Saturday he did not expect any change before the end of the year.

Iraq, Algeria and others urged an increase in the oil price because of inflation and the decline in value of the U.S. dollar, the currency used in the international oil trade. A study prepared by the OPEC secretariat said these two factors had cut the real price of a $12.70 barrel of oil to $7.

But Saudi Arabia and its supporters argued that an increase would not stick because of the current world oil surplus, swelled by production from Mexico, the North Sea and Alaska, and the summer reduction in consumption in the industrialized countries of the Northern Hemisphere.

Zaire Navy Gets Peking Advisers

KINSHASA (Reuter) — China has sent military instructors to help train Zaire's navy, diplomatic sources said Sunday.

They arrived Saturday, one week before a military delegation is due for talks with government officials, prompting speculation that Peking might send other aid to help Zaire rebuild its armed forces following the invasion last month of Shaba province by Angolan-based rebels.

Diplomatic sources said the naval instructors are the second Chinese group to come to help train Zaire's tiny navy. They said another team was here for several months in 1976.

Zaire's navy is composed of one patrol boat and about 30 river craft and has 800 men.

The instructors arrived as Zairean intelligence services reported up to 1,000 rebels massing in Angola, immediately south of the Shaba border.

The Congolese National Liberation Front (FLNC) Sunday denied that rebels were massing behind the Angolan frontier and said they had never left Zaire.

A statement issued by the organization, which backs rebels who invaded Zaire's Shaba province in May, also said the rebels would strike again at the government of President Mobutu Sese Seko, but gave no further details.

At present, Shaba is being defended by the Zairean army, a token force of 700 Belgian paratroops who are due to leave this week, and an inter-African force comprising about 1,600 Moroccans and 400 other troops from Senegal, Gabon, Ivory Coast and Togo.

Among other weekend developments, was the accusation Saturday by Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba that the CIA had been conducting covert operations inside Angola,

QUAKE FAULT SHIFTS FASTER

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) — The San Andreas fault, which produced the disastrous San Francisco earthquake of 1906, is shifting at a faster pace than expected, scientists at the Goddard Space Flight Centre say.

The ground shifts, measured by laser beams and a satellite in earth orbit, have reached about three inches a year and are "about 50 per cent larger than we would have guessed," said David Smith, a Goddard geophysicist.

Smith said there is no indication that San Francisco may be in for a major earthquake soon, but he said the calculations suggest the next earthquake may be larger and might occur sooner than expected.

Scientists have predicted a second major earthquake would hit the area between now and the year 2025.

CanCel Fire Damage $1M

CASTLEGAR (CP) — A fire that hit the Canadian Cellulose Co. Ltd. sawmill in this southeastern British Columbia community Saturday caused more than $1 million damage, mill manager Chuck Denning said Sunday.

Cause of the fire was not known, but insurance company investigators and officials of the provincial fire marshal's office were expected to arrive Sunday.

The mill was not operating when fire broke out about 2 p.m. in part of a two-acre, $6 million addition. The 25 maintenance workers on duty at the time were not injured.

Denning said the blaze may have been caused by a combustion-type explosion.

Two fire units from Castlegar, about five kilometres east of the mill area, and a large ladder truck from Trail, 24 kilometres to the southeast, were dispatched and firefighters had the blaze out within about 2½ hours.

The addition was to be partially put into production today.

Brewery Talks Move To Victoria

Negotiations in the B.C. brewery industry strike-lockout shifted to Victoria today where union representatives began meetings with Labatt's.

The four other employee units involved in the dispute are studying an industry-wide offer by the breweries.

Ray Wainright, president of the union's Victoria local, said today initial talks here will focus on issues pertaining to the Victoria plant.

He said the Victoria Labatt's employees have not yet been given a copy of the breweries' offer. There will be no reaction to the offer from the other four employee groups until the workers in Victoria have studied it, he added.

Eric Harris, counsel for the Brewery Employers' Labor Relations Association, said the other talks will likely resume when there is a union response to the industry offer. No details of the management proposal were released.

Workers are on strike at Carling O'Keefe in Vancouver and have been locked out at Labatt's in Victoria and New Westminster, at Molson's in Vancouver and at Columbia Brewery in Creston.

John Langley, business agent for Local 300 of the Canadian Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers, said the lockouts aren't likely to end until the entire contract has been negotiated.

"We're prepared to go as long as it takes," Langley said. "It's going to take a while."

Meanwhile, hotel industry spokesmen are predicting that this week the final squeeze will come on the few remaining supplies in hotel beer parlors.

About 4,000 hotel industry employees have so far been laid off or had their hours drastically cut and that figure is expected to double when remaining beer supplies run out.

The strike-lockout affects 1,200 production employees and about 200 distribution workers.

A ground search of the river's banks was mounted by Provincial Emergency Program volunteers and the sea in that area was searched by the Canadian Coast Guard.

Eliminate Air Fleet — Socred

Socred backbencher Jack Kempf of Omineca said today the government should get rid of its fleet of 10 aircraft and contract air service to private enterprise.

Kempf, contending such a system would be cheaper, said others in the Socred caucus support him.

Kempf said he would also like to see civil servants issued a directive prohibiting them from using government planes.

They should use commercial airlines when on official government business, he said.

There were reports on the weekend of cabinet ministers making regular use of government planes for jaunts to their home constituencies.

About 80 per cent of ministerial flights begin or end in ministers' home areas, and about 40 per cent are on weekends, a Vancouver newspaper said Saturday.

Timbermen Crushed After Bouncing Rocks

Two games in two days may have been a bit too much for Nanaimo Timbermen. If so, the scheduling and New Westminster Salmonbellies combined Sunday to deprive the T-Men of undisputed possession of first place in the Western Lacrosse Association.

With the combination of Kevin Alexander and Brian Evans executing brilliantly on offense and leading the way, the Timbermen scored an exciting 12-10 home-floor victory over the Shamrocks on Saturday.

The win moved T-Men to within one point of the front-running Rocks and Nanaimo returned to the Civic Arena floor on Sunday with hopes of displacing Victoria.

Trouble was, New Westminster didn't co-operate.

With 13 Salmonbellies getting into the scoring act, Westminster demolished the hopeful Timbermen 21-12.

Ken King scored four times for Nanaimo while Alexander pumped in three as the Timbermen were consistently thwarted by the sharp netminding of Jim Greenwell.

The Alexander-Evans combination cooled the Shamrocks. Alexander scored six goals, including three while his team was shorthanded. Evans highlighted Nanaimo's attack with pin-point passing that produced nine assists.

It was the fourth meeting of the season between the Vancouver Island rivals, and by far the most entertaining matchup. Both have won their two home games.

Shamrocks trailed 8-3 at one stage but rammed in seven straight goals to move ahead, 10-8. But that burst seemed to drain Victoria's attacking energy and teh Shamrocks failed to scored a goal in the last 15 minutes of play.

In another game Saturday at Coquitlam, the Adanacs were hit with 38 penalty minutes in the final frame as they lost 14-9 to Vancouver Burrards. Adanacs' manager Sohen Gill said he and coach Bob Scott would complain about the officiating to commissioner Roy Burton after Coquitlam was handed 81 of the game's 126 penalty minutes.

The game had been close — with Vancouver leading 5-3 after the first period and 8-6 after the second — until five penalties were called against Coquitlam players at the same time, leaving three Adanacs facing six Burrards.

Randy's Bat Batters Rads

Randy Johnson came back to haunt Capital Radiators on Sunday.

Traded to Greaves Movers by Caps a week ago for a 1979 draft choice, Johnson batted in two runs in each game to lead Greaves to 4-3 and 7-4 decisions over his former clubmates in a Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League doubleheader at Lambrick Park.

The two wins moved Greaves into a tie with Caps for third place.

Greaves scored two runs in the seventh inning to collect the opening 4-3 decision. Johnson singled in winning-pitcher Lorne Halme for the first run and Bob Jarvis scored what proved to be the winning tally on an error.

Halme struck out four batters and yielded three walks while pitching a one-hitter and boosting his record to 3-2. Most of the opposing batters were held to infield grounders.

In the second contest, Johnson and Jarvis led batting with one-in-three performances. Johnson singled in both of his runs and Jarvis singled in another during the five-run fifth inning

Kendrew Leads Westwood Race

PORT COQUITLAM — Six drivers from the Victoria Motor Sports Club placed well up in an International Conference of Sports Car Clubs event at nearby Westwood race course Sunday.

Bill Okell chalked up a second and Dave Powell was third in "E" production during the Production Sports Car race. Both drive MGB's. Mike Hawthorne was third in "B" production sedans in the same race.

Aoki in Front By Five Shots

TOKYO (AP) — Veteran pro Isao Aoki of Japan shot a final-round 72 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 278 and a five-stroke victory in the $116,000 Sapporo Tokyu golf tournament.

It was the third victory of the year and the 22nd career triumph for the 35-year-old Aoki. His first prize of $22,255 raised his earnings for the year to $136,418.

Hsieh Yung-Yo of Taiwan also matched par 72 over the Sapporo International Country Club course and finished second at 283. Masashi (Jumbo) Ozaki, Japan's leading money winner last year, was far back at 292.

FIESTA
55 MILES PER GALLON HIGHWAY
40 MILES PER GALLON CITY

The Economy Car That Gives You a Lot More Than Economy. Ford Fiesta is a contemporary automobile that combines economy of operation and performance in a style you'll enjoy. A solid handling car that in tests, accelerated from 0-80 km per hour in 8.8 seconds and then stopped confidently in 3.3 seconds. Excellent handling is provided by Fiesta's rack and pinion steering and fully-synchronized 4-speed manual overdrive transmission. You'll find Fiesta gives you more rear seat leg room than any other car in its class domestic or imported (wheelbase under 100 inches). And you'll appreciate the hidden storage compartment beneath the rear load floor for cameras and other valuables.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were moving moderately lower in active trading at mid-afternoon on the Toronto stock market.

Among other industrials, Husky Oil fell 1⅛ to $49½, Canadian Occidental Petroleum ½ to $22¾, Brascan Class A ⅛ to $16¾, Alberta Gas Trunk A ⅛ to $15¼ and Hudson's Bay Co. ½ to $21¾.

Canadian Imperial Bank gained ⅛ to $28⅝, Westburne International ⅜ to $28¼, Dominion Stores ¼ to $16⅛, Horne Pittfield Food ¾ to $12¾ and Canadian Utilities ½ to $16¼.

Anglo United Development fell 28 cents to $2.60, Rio Algom ½ to $31¾ and Yellowknife Bear ¼ to $5⅝. Agnico-Eagle Mines gained ¼ to $5¾ and Canadian Tungsten Mining ¼ to $17¼. Siebens Oil and Gas plunged 1⅜ to $29½, Numac Oil and Gas ¾ to $34½ and Amalgamated Bonanza ⅝ to $34¾. Albany gained seven cents to 91 cents and Canadian Homestead ⅛ to $8¾.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally lower in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 556,800 shares traded, compared with 456,900 shares traded up to the same time Friday.

Provincial Bank of Canada dipped ⅛ to $15½, Husky Oil one dollar to $49½, Inco A ⅛ to $18¾, Imperial Oil A ⅛ to $18⅞ and Atco Industries A ⅝ to $12¾.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved lower for the fourth consecutive session today on worries over higher interest rates.

Most major commercial banks raised their prime lending rate a quarter-point to 8¾ per cent last Friday, adding to the market's concern that rising interest rates may slow economic growth.

Traders said the Federal Reserve Board is widely expected to signal another round of credit-tightening after its Open Market Committee meets Tuesday.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuter) — Prices lost ground today in thin trading.

Government bonds fell by up to ⅝ in reaction to the recently high level of bond sales, while equities drifted lower.

Alcohol Sales Probed

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The U.S. treasury department says it is investigating whether methyl alcohol from Canada is being sold in the United States at less than fair value.

The department estimates that such imports amount to about $14 million a year.

The investigation was prompted by a petition from E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co. and cited Alberta Gas Chemicals Ltd. as the principal Canadian supplier, the department said.

The department simultaneously referred the case to the International Trade Commission for a finding within 30 days on whether the U.S. industry is being hurt by imports.

Both sales at less than fair value and injury must be found before compensating duties can be imposed.
